GERMAN VOTERS STOP HITLER'S DRIVE FOR RULE

Von Papen's Future Is a Mystery.

Views of Rivals

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—[Monday.]—Chancellor Franz von Papen and Adolf Hitler, leader of the National Socialists, issued post-election statements today when final returns showed that no political party had gained a majority in the reichstag.

Von Papen said:

"The result shows most clearly that the reichstag will be unable to work satisfactorily. It must be reorganized to adapt it to the better needs of the people. The revision of the constitution which my government has planned must be enforced as quickly as possible."

Hitler said:

"We shall continue the fight until we are so strong that we can enforce all the laws necessary to bring the country back to prosperity and happiness."

BERLIN, Nov. 7 [Monday.]—(AP)—Almost 35,500,000 of Germany's 44,500,000 qualified voters voted yesterday, for the fifth time in 1932, and administered the first big defeat ever suffered by Adolf Hitler's Fascist National Socialists.

The result of the voting, in which the nation selected a new reichstag, is problematic so far as Chancellor Franz von Papen is concerned; for Hitler it may be disastrous.

Reds Show Largest Gain.

The most conspicuous gainers were the communists, who will march into the next reichstag with about 100 members.

Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalists and the remnants of the once powerful Populists, founded by the late Dr. Gustav Stresemann, also gained considerably, but they are in no position alone to form a strong government bloc.

No party emerged from the election with strength enough to form a government. Nevertheless spokesmen for the Von Papen cabinet said they were gratified with the result. They saw it as the breaking up of Hitler's power, and they were pleased also because the middle parties showed they were beginning to recover from the low ebb reached at the last election.

Standing of Parties.

National Socialists	11,713,000
Nationalists	2,952,000
Populists	660,000
Economic Party	111,000
Christian Socialists	403,000
Farmers	165,000
Centrists	4,228,000
Bavarians	1,080,000
States' Party	326,000
Socialists	7,234,000
Communists	5,973,000
Scattered	505,000
Total	35,410,000

New Reichstag Lineup.

	New.	Old.
National Socialists	195	230
Socialists	121	133
Communists	100	89
Centrists	70	75
Nationalists	49	37
Bavarians	18	22

In addition, 27 seats went to minor parties, making the total 580. In the last reichstag the seats totaled 608. Under the German voting system the size of the chamber depends on the size of the vote.

Convinced that the general opposition to the government is purely negative, with nothing constructive enough for the forming of a new ministry, Chancellor von Papen is reported to have determined to challenge the new legislature to coöperate with him. Failing to obtain that coöperation, he probably would get President von Hindenburg to dissolve the reichstag again.

Meanwhile, it was said, he would attempt, with the aid of the reichrat to effect a change in the electoral laws

LANE STUDENT'S PLEASURE HOP ENDS FATALLY

Ship Goes in Spin at 500 Feet.

Frederick Lothrop Ames, yachtsman and aviation company official, and two other persons killed when plane crashes in field near Randolph, Mass.

A high school boy and his sister were killed yesterday when the airplane which the youth was piloting fell 500 feet to the ground at Central avenue and 71st street. The young aviator was Carl A. Bayer Jr., 16 years old, a sophomore at Lane Technical High school. His sister was Anna Marie Bayer, 17 years old, a graduate of Carl Schurz High school. They lived at 5400 Parker avenue.

The plane was a dual controlled machine built by the Aircraft Manufacturing company and driven by a 90 horsepower Cyrrus motor. Its license had been issued to the Arrow Flying association, a group of aviators supervised by Capt. Edward A. Dixon 8442 Seeley avenue, who was a member of the Royal Canadian Flying corps during the war. Bayer was a member of the association and had been receiving instructions from Capt Dixon.

Invites Sister to Take Ride.

Yesterday morning Bayer, who had a private pilot's license, invited his sister for a ride, having obtained Capt. Dixon's permission to do so. They took off from the Harlem airport, at 87th street and Harlem avenue, and had been up for about twenty minutes when the plane went into a spin and crashed.

Harold Hotzfield, 5708 West 64th street, a railway worker, said that he saw the plane go into a spin at an altitude of about 500 feet. It started down with the motor roaring, but about two hundred feet from the ground the power was shut off, he said. Earl Welcome, 5749 West 62d street, another railway employé, saw the plane just before it hit the earth. Both occupants of the machine were dead when taken from the wreckage.

Sheriff Examines Wreckage.

Deputy Sheriff Carl A. Kohler, who arrived on the scene, said that the control stick in the front cock-pit where the passenger was sitting, had been removed as required by law. However, the foot controls and the throttle were in their places, he said. Deputy Kohler, who is himself an aviator, stated that if the passenger had interfered with the foot controls it would have been difficult for the pilot to bring the plane out of the spin.

It was said that Bayer had only about fifteen hours of flying to his credit since graduating from the student class. Capt. Dixon said that the plane was built in 1930 and received daily inspection.

Regular Visitor at Airport.

Young Bayer's interest in aviation, his friends said, began several years ago when he was a regular visitor at the Wilson airport, which was located on the northwest side of the city. There he acquired a familiarity with planes and became one of the best informed students in the aero instruction class at Lane Technical High school.

He had six hours of solo flying to his credit when he became Capt. Dixon's pupil last July, working as a mechanic in return for free instruction. In August he qualified for a private pilot's license, which permitted him to take up friends, but which did not give him authority to transport passengers for hire.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bayer, the parents, have two other children, George, 6, and Marie, 3. The father is a foreman at the Charles F. Elmes engineering works, 230 North Morgan street.

3 KILLED IN EAST

Randolph, Mass., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Three aviators were killed today as their plane crashed in a field. They were Frederick Lothrop Ames, 28, of Boston and Newport, R. THE LAST APPEAL

Smoke Less, Rest, Doctor Tells Insull

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 6.—Samuel Insull spent a restful day at the Aretaieon clinic, to which he was transferred late last night by special permission of Premier P. E. Tsaldaris. Unless there is some unexpected move, Insull will spend his 73d birthday at the clinic Friday.

Physicians appointed by the court said that Insull's physical condition made detainment at the hospital imperative, but their order required the counter signature of the minister of justice. Because he was absent on a week-end holiday the premier issued the orders.

Insull must be quiet and must smoke fewer cigars, the doctors ordered. Tonight Insull had a string of oriental beads to take his mind off smoking and to occupy his hands. He seems comfortable and delighted in the private hospital.

Needs Medical Attention.

The medical examiners said that Insull's heart condition required constant medical attention and that he needs a regulated diet.

The former Chicago utilities magnate was dressed to receive callers at the hospital today in his room. He will be allowed to walk in the hospital garden for exercise, but not to leave the grounds.

Policemen were taking four hour shifts guarding Insull, and a police officer remained continuously at the hospital. His police guard is to be changed tomorrow and prison guards are to be substituted in some cases. Also the prisoner-patient is expected to be transferred tomorrow to a more comfortable room in the hospital.

Examination today of the text of the confirmation by the Court of Appeals of Insull's arrest pending an extradition trial to determine whether he may legally be taken to Chicago to answer charges of embezzlement and larceny in connection with the crash of parts of his utilities empire indicates that Insull's attorney, Cristos Ladas, may have difficulty in his nonretroactive fight.

Protect Against Escape.

The decision says that the "treaty of extradition with the United States does not contain a provision exempting from extradition the offenses committed before the enforcement of the treaty and the court considers that said treaty has a retroactive effect."

The decision also says that a "need for urgent action exists" and that "Insull must be detained, as there is fear lest he escape."

The same appeals court will decide the question of Insull's extradition when the warrants and sustaining documentation are brought by Charles A. Bellows and Andrew J. Vlachos, assistant state's attorneys of Cook county, next week. It is thought that extradition will be quickly granted. It is quite possible, however, that Ladas will succeed in securing an appeal to a higher court.

COBWEB PROVES THE UNDOING OF PURSE SNATCHER

Policeman Paul Schroeder of the Sheffield avenue station, member of an automobile squad, noticed Wolek standing at Wolfram street and Sheffield avenue a few minutes after the squad had received a radio report of a purse snatching in the vicinity.

"That fellow has cobwebs on his shoulders," Schroeder remarked. "He must have been hiding under a porch."

Wolek was arrested and taken to the station. There he was identified as a purse snatcher by Miss Emily O'Connor, 50 years old, of 929 Wellington avenue. Wolek finally admitted the purse snatching and gave up the loot, $10.60. As Policeman Schroeder had surmised, Wolek had hidden under a porch.

Predicts 6 to 1 on Roosevelt as Polls Open

New York, Nov. 6.—[Special.]—An eleventh hour survey of 26 cities by W. L. Darnell & Co., lower Broadway brokerage firm, claiming to be the country's oldest betting commissioners, has indicated betting odds on Roosevelt will go to 6 to 1 before the polls open Tuesday.

Lehman is quoted a 7 to 1 favorite to be the next governor of New York and Roosevelt is even money to carry 38 states.

The Darnell firm announced it has a commission of $7,500 to place that Roosevelt wins the state of New York by 350,000 plurality.

The odds as quoted by states are:

State—	Odds. Candidate.
Alabama	15 to 1 Roosevelt
Arizona	15 to 1 Roosevelt
Arkansas	15 to 1 Roosevelt
California	4 to 1 Roosevelt
Colorado	8 to 5 Roosevelt
Connecticut	8 to 5 Hoover
Florida	15 to 1 Roosevelt
Delaware	Even money
Georgia	20 to 1 Roosevelt
Idaho	7 to 5 Roosevelt
Illinois	8 to 5 Roosevelt
Indiana	8 to 5 Roosevelt
Iowa	6 to 5 Roosevelt
Kansas	Even money
Kentucky	8 to 1 Roosevelt
Louisiana	15 to 1 Roosevelt
Maine	2 to 1 Hoover
Maryland	5 to 1 Roosevelt
Massachusetts	8 to 5 Hoover
Michigan	7 to 5 Roosevelt
Minnesota	7 to 5 Roosevelt
Mississippi	4 to 1 Roosevelt
Missouri	5 to 1 Roosevelt
Montana	8 to 5 Roosevelt
Nebraska	8 to 5 Roosevelt
Nevada	8 to 5 Roosevelt
New Hampshire	2 to 1 Hoover
New Jersey	Even money
New Mexico	5 to 1 Roosevelt
New York	5 to 2 Roosevelt
North Carolina	15 to 1 Roosevelt
North Dakota	8 to 5 Roosevelt
Ohio	7 to 5 Roosevelt
Oklahoma	8 to 5 Roosevelt
Oregon	8 to 5 Roosevelt
Pennsylvania	7 to 5 Hoover
Rhode Island	Even money
South Carolina	15 to 1 Roosevelt
South Dakota	3 to 1 Roosevelt
Tennessee	15 to 1 Roosevelt
Texas	20 to 1 Roosevelt
Utah	6 to 5 Roosevelt
Vermont	8 to 7 Hoover
Virginia	8 to 1 Roosevelt
Washington	7 to 5 Roosevelt
West Virginia	7 to 5 Roosevelt
Wisconsin	8 to 5 Roosevelt
Wyoming	7 to 5 Roosevelt

A plurality of 931,303 for Gov. Roosevelt in New York City is indicated by the Tammany estimate. That also gives Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, for governor, a city plurality of 971,044; United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, for reëlection, 1,069,741; Surrogate John P. O'Brien, for mayor, 829,045.

G. O. P. MANAGERS PIN HOPE ON HOOVER TOUR

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

President Hoover is to make his closing talk in the campaign at 9:40 [Chicago time] tonight. It will conclude a final Republican nation-wide broadcast in which the other chief speaker will be Calvin Coolidge. Five other speakers are on the program.

Republican national headquarters announced the program last night. The broadcast is to start at 8:30 p. m. Chicago time and will last an hour and a half.

Mr. Coolidge is to speak from his home in Northampton, Mass., for fifteen minutes. Other speakers will be Everett Sanders, Republican national chairman; Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury; Mrs. Christine Bradley South, daughter of a former Kentucky governor; W. L. Hutcheson, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and head of the labor bureau at Republican headquarters, and Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas.

Hoover Speaks from Nevada.

President Hoover is to speak from Elko, Nev., where the presidential train will halt en route to the President's home, Palo Alto, Cal., where he is to vote Tuesday. Headquarters said the President would speak for twenty minutes, closing his speech at 10 o'clock, Chicago time.

Meanwhile more than 150 Republican speakers are to continue their platform activities today. They will be especially concentrated upon the middle west, with particular attention to Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, and Wisconsin, old Republican strongholds in normal times. Vice President Charles Curtis is to make two speeches in Kansas at Wichita and Eldorado, and Mrs. Dolly Gann is to speak in New York City.

Claim a Stampede.

Claims of a "Hoover stampede" were made again in a statement issued from the speakers' bureau at Republican national headquarters at the Palmer house.

"When the President made his statesmanlike declaration of principles at Des Moines, the fight began," it said. "That speech will live as a historic utterance to be classed with the state papers of Washington and Lincoln. His subsequent speeches at Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Madison Square Garden, Springfield, St. Louis, Madison, and St. Paul are the inspiration for our speakers.

"Republican activities which began as a campaign, end as a crusade, with millions of patriotic Americans singing 'Glory, Glory, Hallelujah,' with all the fervor of wartime patriotism. When the tens of thousands who are greeting President Hoover in the closing hours take up the strain, it is strongly reminiscent of the days of the real Roosevelt—Theodore—with the hymn of 'Onward Christian Soldiers.'

"The collapse of the Democratic campaign arguments in the light of President Hoover's logic and the change of sentiment in the past few weeks portend a stampede to Hoover. His victory Tuesday will be the greatest tribute to the common sense of the electorate in the history of American politics."

Predicts Safe Margin.

National Chairman Everett Sanders reiterated his forecast that Hoover will win by a minimum of 338 electoral votes. The majority necessary to elect is 266. "Never," he said, "have I been more certain of an election than this one. President Hoover will win Tuesday by a good margin and it will be no surprise to me if he has a landslide."

Some of the Democratic leaders, scanning Mr. Sanders' list of states he claims will be for Hoover, pointed out that the list embraces nearby states which the Democrats are claiming. One comment at the Sherman hotel headquarters was:

"Our own close canvasses in this area make the Democrats confident of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, the two Dakotas. These states are going Democratic, and there is a possibility that Michigan also may go to Roosevelt. The Republican claims sound like whistling in the dark."

[Copyright, 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The admiralty has decided to catch up with the United States navy department by fitting nine of its 10,000 ton cruisers with catapults for seaplanes. A vessel will leave for the dockyard at Malta Tuesday carrying catapults for cruisers London, Devonshire and Sussex.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Whether President Hoover succeeded in swinging any states back into line for the Republican ticket by his eleventh hour drive for victory is the political question of paramount importance on the eve of the balloting tomorrow.

In Illinois, Missouri, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, in which the President made the concluding speeches of his canvass on Friday and Saturday, the party managers were busy yesterday sounding public sentiment in the effort to determine whether Mr. Hoover's parting words to the electorate had changed any appreciable number of votes.

Chairmen of the Republican committees in these states, according to dispatches received last night, professed to have reason to believe that the President's utterances, particularly his prediction of economic chaos in the event of Democratic victory, are profoundly influencing not only wavering Republicans but many of those who had made up their minds to vote for Roosevelt. Without exception they asserted that Mr. Hoover's vigorous presentation of his case in his final addresses strengthened their confidence that the Republican ticket will carry their respective states.

Democrats Still Confident.

No less emphatic were the Democratic managers in asserting that while Mr. Hoover may have gained some votes he did not better himself sufficiently to assure him the electoral votes of any of these states. The Democratic leaders based their confidence on the contention that the President's final speeches contained nothing new or arresting and that the effort of the Republican candidate to inspire fear of Democratic control had failed to frighten any large number of voters.

One of the most interesting bits of information bearing on the effect of Mr. Hoover's final drive for votes came from St. Louis. It was to the effect that the President not only had not helped but had injured his cause by the position he took on the question of prohibition reform.

Normally St. Louis, which once rivaled Milwaukee as premier brewing center of the country, is overwhelmingly Republican. When Missouri goes Republican it invariably is because of the enormous Republican majority produced by St. Louis. But this time it has looked for weeks as if St. Louis would go Democratic on the issue of prohibition reform.

Beer Big Issue There.

The population, preponderantly of German extraction, has been from the start intolerant of the Republican straddle plank and strongly favorable to the Democratic declaration for unqualified repeal of the eighteenth amendment, so much so that all the Republican candidates for national, state, and local offices threw their party creed overboard and espoused repeal.

In addition St. Louis, the wealth and ramifying business activities of which once revolved around the brewing industry, is intensely interested in the speedy restoration of beer pending the modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment, which is one of the solemn promises of the Democratic party. Nothing in the opinion of St. Louisans would so

...rgely dissipate the depression in their city as the reopening of the breweries and the revival of the cooperage, bottle, and other ancillary industries.

The Democrats have been contending that the election of Roosevelt is the only guarantee of a speedy legalization for beer, through amendment of the Volstead act changing the alcoholic limit of beverages, and that the reelection of Hoover would insure a veto of such legislation. Among the representations made by Republican leaders in Missouri to procure an eleventh hour appearance of the President in that state was the argument that it was important to dispel popular apprehension that Mr. Hoover would veto a beer bill.

Reference Disappoints Leaders.

Mr. Hoover went to St. Louis and for the first times since his acceptance speech he mentioned prohibition reform. But he dismissed it in a brief paragraph or two in which he merely directed attention to the position he had taken in his acceptance speech. He was absolutely silent on the question of beer. The Republican leaders were dismayed and the Democratic leaders correspondingly exultant. That St. Louis will go Democratic tomorrow is almost universally conceded, according to last night's dispatches.

There already was evidence that the beer question was exercising much the same influence in other wet cities, notably Chicago, Milwaukee, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Cleveland and Cincinnati. In these constituencies the Democratic spellbinders persistently interpreted the silence of the President as evidence that he does not regard favorably any change in the Volstead act pending action on the eighteenth amendment and that he would veto a beer bill.

In such brewing centers as Milwaukee and Cincinnati the economic consideration is operating as powerfully as in St. Louis, according to reports from those cities. Cincinnati is expected to go Democratic tomorrow for the first time in decades.

Issue Sidetracked by Speakers.

Taken by and large the prohibition reform issue was pushed into the background in the campaign by the economic issue because of the slight difference between the parties on the question. Mr. Hoover advocated qualified. Mr. Roosevelt unqualified, repeal. The tendency was to bring back into Republican ranks tens of thousands of wet Republicans who bolted their party on this issue in 1928.

The Republicans contend that their plan to restore liquor autonomy to the several states subject to the power of the federal government to prevent the return of the saloon is the only one that stands any chance of adoption by two-thirds of congress and three-fourths of the states.

The Democrats don't waste much time on the splitting of that hair. What they dwell on in wet constituencies is the argument that only the election of Roosevelt will assure a speedy submission of a new amendment and restoration of beer in the meantime.

If Roosevelt is elected they promise an extraordinary session of the new congress immediately after March 4 next to vote the change in prohibition, it being assumed that the drys will be able to block action in the short session beginning next month. They promise beer by April 1 and the submission of an amendment to replace the eighteenth amendment before summer.

Predicts Delay Under Hoover.

If Mr. Hoover should be reelected, the Democrats point out, there presumably would be no extra session and the new congress, with the lame duck amendment having been adopted in the meantime, would not meet until Jan. 3, 1934. The result would be virtually a year's delay in the submission of the new amendment and, as the Democrats contend, the probable veto of a beer bill.

Whether the President's Springfield speech changed enough votes in his favor to affect the result in Illinois is problematical in the light of the most reliable information obtainable. Roosevelt apparently will sweep Chicago and numerous other populous communities. In the rural districts there appears to be the same serious disaffection in Republican ranks as elsewhere. Altogether the chances are that Illinois will go Democratic.

Impartial judgment of the situation in Minnesota following the President's speech in St. Paul Saturday night is that Roosevelt will carry that state because of the agrarian revolt against the party in power. Mr. Hoover seemed disheartened and made virtually no effort to address himself to the cause of agricultural discontent.

Smith Aids Governor in East.

Dispatches from the east stated that such doubtful states as Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, and Rhode Island are not unlikely to be found in the Roosevelt column tomorrow night. It is estimated that Al Smith's unqualified indorsement of the ticket and his appearance on the same platform with Roosevelt in the concluding rallies of the campaign have brought into line 80 per cent of the Roman Catholics who threatened to bolt because of Smith's failure to receive the nomination.

With the Smith following and Tammany supporting the ticket Roosevelt is expected to carry New York state by a plurality that may touch 550,000. To emphasize the united condition of the Democratic party the New York public was shown Al Smith on the platform with his arm around the shoulders of the candidate he had called a dangerous demagogue last spring and Boss Curry of Tammany leading the applause for the governor whom he had threatened to break for bringing about the downfall of his friend Jimmie Walker.

That Smith's election eve repentance has not been favorable to Democratic chances everywhere, however, is indicated by a dispatch from Topeka setting forth the political situation in Kansas. Smith's Newark speech in which he revived the religious issue and denounced the drys caused the dry women of Kansas to see red, according to this account. They have turned out in large numbers to whoop it up and get out the vote for Hoover.

Prohibition Versus Wheat.

At the same time the slump in the price of wheat in the last week or two has deepened the gloom on the farms. As THE TRIBUNE'S dispatch put it, the electoral vote of Kansas will depend on whether dry women for Hoover, or disgruntled farmers for Roosevelt prevail.

If Roosevelt carries Wisconsin, as now seems probable, he is expected to carry with him the Democratic candidate for United States senator, F. Ryan Duffy. In Indiana it looks like a landslide for Roosevelt, in which event the veteran senator, James E. Watson, Republican leader of the senate, will be defeated for reelection by Frederick Van Nuys, Democrat.

THE TRIBUNE'S dispatch from Des Moines states unequivocally that "Iowa will be in the Republican column on Wednesday morning" but that Henry Field, Republican candidate for senator, is less certain of victory. His chief opponent is Louis Murphy, Democrat. Field is dry, Murphy wet and Field will win unless the independent candidacy of Senator Smith W. Brookhart, bone dry radical Republican who was beaten in the primary, should weaken Field sufficiently to enable Murphy to pull through with the aid of the Roosevelt vote.

Michigan For Hoover.

Although Roosevelt will carry Detroit by a large majority, "Michigan will cast 19 electoral votes for Hoover," according to the dispatch summarizing THE TRIBUNE'S survey of that state.

"The West Virginia Republican party, long in control of the Mountaineer state, is awaiting the election like a man about to be led to the gallows," says THE TRIBUNE'S dispatch from Charleston.

With Roosevelt expected to carry Washington the prospects of success are none too bright for the reelection of Senator Wesley L. Jones, author of the "five and ten" prohibition law.

The word from Salt Lake City is that "Utah in all probability will go to Roosevelt by more than 20,000" and that "even Senator Smoot, chairman of the finance committee of the senate, seems doomed to defeat."

"It still looks as if Roosevelt will carry Oregon," says the dispatch from Portland. If it should be a Roosevelt landslide in the state Senator Frederick Stiewer [Rep.] would be defeated by Walter B. Gleason [Dem.].

Borah Aids Colleague.

"Normal Republican Idaho is expected to give its four electoral votes to a Democratic presidential nominee for the first time since the second term of Woodrow Wilson," according to THE TRIBUNE dispatch from Boise. Senator Borah, who has not lifted a finger for Mr. Hoover, has taken the stump for his colleague, John Thomas [Rep.], who is ill of typhoid fever. Borah may save Thomas from defeat, it is stated.

Tremendous interest attaches to the behavior of California, the President's home state, on election day. San Francisco and the remainder of northern California are certain to go Democratic, according to THE TRIBUNE'S report, and if normally Republican southern California goes to Hoover it will be by so small a margin that Roosevelt probably will get the state's electoral vote.

If Roosevelt wins the state by a substantial plurality he probably will pull through William G. McAdoo, Democratic candidate for senator. Otherwise the Rev. Bob Shuler, fantastic radio agitator who is the Prohibition party candidate, or Taliant Tubbs, wringing wet Republican, will succeed Senator Shortridge [Rep.], who was defeated in the primary.

Nye and Norbeck.

Roosevelt will carry North Dakota, but Senator Gerald P. Nye [radical Rep.] will be reëlected. South Dakota is regarded a close state with the chances favoring Roosevelt. The reelection of Senator Peter Norbeck [Rep.] is considered a certainty, though by a greatly reduced plurality.

"Unless developments of the next few days materially alter the situation Wyoming's three electoral votes will go to the Democratic candidate," says the dispatch from Cheyenne.

The dispatch from Lincoln says Roosevelt probably will carry Nebraska because the "farmers are as mad as they were in the old days of Populism" when Bryan won the state with Populist support.

The information from Santa Fé is that Roosevelt will bag New Mexico largely because "the Republican party in the state is badly split by the defection of the large progressive element headed by United States Senator Bronson Cutting, one of the most militant opponents of President Hoover, who has come out unreservedly for Roosevelt."

GOV. ROOSEVELT WILL RETRACE OLD MEETINGS

To Address Neighbors at Towns of Youth.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—At a time like this, at the close of a strenuous campaign, it might seem that Franklin D. Roosevelt would be willing to call it a day.

Instead, he planned today a tour for tomorrow which is almost wholly sentimental. In the seclusion of his Hyde Park home, he told about it.

Franklin D. Roosevelt confessed today to a yen for carrying along his home folks i. the victory he expects to win next Tuesday. Even if the whole nation plumps for him, he wants the satisfaction of having this land in the heart of the Hudson valley registered in the Democratic column.

Recalls First Efforts.

Twenty-two years ago young Frank Roosevelt made his first political speech. It was a hesitating speech, by a young man who had the temerity to run for state senator, as a Democrat, in a strongly Republican district.

He stood on a makeshift platform, put up on the village square at Beacon, not far from here. Tomorrow afternoon, in the same public square, Franklin Roosevelt will give his reasons for seeking the presidency of the United States.

There also is a suggestion of a superstition guiding the governor's decision. Mr. Roosevelt has said he has only one superstition—that, despite the shabbiness of his campaign hat, he will not buy a new hat until after election. It is a fact that four years ago and two years ago, on both occasions he was campaigning for governor of New York, he also spoke from the public square at Beacon. Both times he was successful.

A Tour Among Neighbors.

The governor will set out, in his open touring car with the top down—if the weather permits—about 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. When he has done his bit of romantic oratory at Beacon, he will ferry across the Hudson to Newburgh and say a few words on the Broadway of that old metropolis.

Then, motoring on to Kingston, the governor will talk to some more of his neighbors in the public park there, and from there he will ferry back across the river to Rhinebeck before he returns to Hyde Park early in the evening.

Then tomorrow night Gov. Roosevelt will make his last speech of this campaign.

It will be delivered in the same little hall of the Knights of Columbus in Poughkeepsie, the seat of Dutchess county, which has been the scene of his other closing campaign speeches.

Radio to Carry Speech.

The only variation from tradition, this time, is that his words will be carried over the radio to the far corners of the nation. Then, with the radio shut off, he will tell his neighbors who ought to be elected in the local political contests, and his answers to the local issues.

To Visit Pet Fire House.

The Roosevelts, however, will stop, during their afternoon journey to New York City, at a little fire house in North Tarrytown.

Four years ago, on the election day when Franklin Roosevelt was chosen as governor of New York, he was motoring down the river when he chanced to stop at that North Tarrytown fire house to catch some radio reports.

So two years ago, when he was reelected as governor, he stopped at the same fire house, and Tuesday, even if he is running for the presidency of the United States, he will tarry once more at Tarrytown to chat with the firemen in the little fire station there.

Tuesday night he will hold open house at his headquarters in the Biltmore hotel in New York City, receiving returns, and as he expects, receiving also congratulations.

Boy Swallows Hoover Pin Father Brought from Rally

Glen Cove, N. Y., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Rocco Truglia, 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Truglia of 62 Maxwell street, Oyster Bay, is in a hospital suffering the effects of having swallowed a Hoover pin which his parents had brought home from a Republican rally.

FIND INSURANCE MAN SUICIDE.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A widespread search for Horace R. Ensign, 67, well known insurance man, who disappeared after leaving his club Thursday afternoon, ended today with the finding of his body in Lake Washington. Coroner's deputies said they believed he had committed suicide.

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN

Thomas F. Donovan, chairman of the Democratic state central committee and nominee for lieutenant governor, and John H. Stelle, the committee's director of organization, each issued statements yesterday claiming Illinois for the Democrats.

Judge Otto Kerner, Democratic candidate for attorney general, during his term on the Appellate bench has given 171 decisions in 18 months, none of which has been reversed by the state Supreme court, his friends say.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, yesterday wired good wishes to John T. Dempsey, Republican candidate for clerk of the Appellate court. "Good luck Tuesday," the telegram read. "I hope Chicago gets the kind o' a clerk of the Appellate court it deserves. You ought to win by a knockout because that's the Dempsey way. Best wishes."

An appeal to the voters to support Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic nominee for state's attorney, has been made by the social service nonpartisan committee of Cook county. Members of the committee include Dean Edith Abbott of the University of Chicago, Miss Jane Addams, Miss Mary E. McDowell, Dr. Graham Taylor, Walter R. Mee of the Chicago Church federation, and Mrs. Murry Nelson, president of the Woman's City club.

Eugene Holland, Democratic candidate for judge of the Municipal court, has been indorsed by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, and by the Cook County Wage Earners' league.

Joseph H. McGarry, another Democratic candidate for the Municipal court, yesterday made public an indorsement from Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, under whom he served in the Rainbow division.

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, has instructed all his followers to vote the straight Republican ticket in the election tomorrow.

A straw vote conducted among the guests at the Allerton club yielded 111 votes for President Hoover and 34 for Gov. Roosevelt. In the voting for governor, Judge Horner received 133 and Len Small 10. Thomas J. Courtney was given 88 votes and State's Attorney Swanson 47 in the poll on state's attorney.

IGOE URGES ELECTION OF SENATOR COURTNEY AS STATE'S ATTORNEY

His fellow legislator, Michael L. Igoe, minority leader in the Illinois house of representatives, issued a statement yesterday boosting the candidacy of State Senator Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic nominee for state's attorney and minority leader in his branch of the assembly.

"Senator Courtney is young and full of vigor," said Representative Igoe. "He not only stands for what he thinks is right, but fights for it. He not only sees straight, but acts straight. The Legislative Voters' league, which has scrutinized his performance in the senate for six years, says that he had made 'a high grade record.'

"The Chicago Bar association, composed of reputable lawyers of the city who have had an unusual opportunity to place a value upon the senator, says that he has 'a commendable public career.' The report of that organization characterizes him as 'capable, vigorous, courageous and independent.'

"All of these agencies and the organizations which have come in close contact with the state's attorney's office—the Chicago Crime commission and the Citizens' association—are urging his election."

HORNER THANKS VOTERS, PLEDGES AN ECONOMY RULE

Judge Is Confident of a Victory Tomorrow.

Showing confidence in his victory at the polls tomorrow as forecast by his managers, Judge Henry Horner, Democratic nominee for governor, thanked the voters in his campaign addresses last night for their faith in him and promised to conduct "the best and most economical government" it is possible to attain.

All yesterday afternoon and evening Judge Horner traveled through the city speaking to crowds in packed halls in all sections. His big meeting last night was in the Herzl school, Lawndale avenue and Garfield boulevard. Tonight he will close his campaign with two addresses on the southwest side.

Credit for Victory.

This was the candidate's statement of thanks:

"On the eve of the election I want to thank the men and women of Illinois who have so unselfishly aided me in the campaign which is closing. Except through their efforts it would have been impossible for me to have made the successful fight that I have made. Their's is the credit for the great victory that awaits the people on Tuesday.

"To me one of the most gratifying features of the campaign was the splendid character of the support given to me. It would be a credit to have been associated with the men and women of all parties and from all walks of life who have made the fight for me and to have been accepted by them as a leader is something that would make any man proud.

"There is only one way in which I can repay them, only one way in which I know that they want to be repaid. That is to exert all my energy, all my intelligence to give Illinois, as its governor, the best and most economical government that it is possible to conduct. This I pledge myself to do."

Answers Boss Charge.

Judge Horner also took occasion to answer again the charge of "bossism" flung at him from the enemy camp.

"I hear," he said, "that when I am elected I am to have a boss. It is said that some one is going to 'run' me. That is a highly interesting and informative statement and it comes clearly within the term of a 'roorback'—the kind of political lie I have been expecting during these last few hours before the polls open.

"I've been in public office eighteen years, with increasing majorities, and the only boss I have ever had has been my conscience. The scales of justice I have held for so long are still in pretty good shape and I shall take them to Springfield with me."

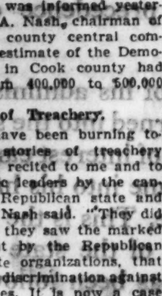
Judge Horner was informed yesterday by Patrick A. Nash, chairman of the Democratic county central committee, that his estimate of the Democratic plurality in Cook county had been raised from 400,000 to 500,000 votes.

Stories of Treachery.

"The wires have been burning today with the stories of treachery which are being recited to me and to other Democratic leaders by the candidates on the Republican state and county tickets," Nash said. "They did not realize until they saw the marked ballots, sent out by the Republican county and state organizations, that there had been a discrimination against certain candidates. It is now a case of every man for himself among the Republican state and county candidates and they are offering us aid in the hope of obtaining revenge against the men they blame for betraying them.

"My answer to all the offers of Republican assistance has been the same. We are glad to have it, but we will not sacrifice the most insignificant candidate on the Democratic ticket to obtain it. Our orders to precinct captains are that they must work for all of our state, county, and Municipal court candidates.

BAR INDORSES CECIL C. SMITH IN COURT RACE



Attorney Cecil Corbett Smith, a Democrat, is one of the twelve nominees for judge of the Municipal court indorsed in the primaries of the Chicago Bar association. He also has been indorsed by several other organizations.

In its report on the qualifications of candidates, which the lawyers' organization sent to its members with the ballot for the postal vote, the committee on candidates said of Attorney Smith: "He is industrious and conscientious and possesses judicial poise. By ability, character and temperament, he is well qualified for the office."

CECIL C. SMITH.

He was a student at Yale university law school in 1917 when the United States entered the war and dropped his law course to enter the first officers' training camp. He received his commission in the field artillery and after the war, was retired with the rank of captain. He now holds a majority in the reserve corps.

He is a member of the law firm of McKiernan & Smith, 19 South La Salle street.

$150 Found in Old Vest Picked Up on the Street

New York, Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Love Powell, Negro handyman around the West 47th street police station, today found an old vest near the station house. He turned it over to Lieut. Oscar Johnson without giving it a second look. Johnson searched the vest and brought forth $150 in currency. No claimant for vest or bills had appeared tonight.

BISHOP G. C. STEWART TELLS WHY HE IS FOR JUDGE HORNER

BY THE RT. REV. GEORGE CRAIG STEWART,
[Episcopal Bishop of Chicago.]

The governor of Illinois should be a man of outstanding ability and of unimpeachable honesty. I am for Judge Horner because his record shows him to be such a man.

ASK VOTERS TO APPROVE POOR RELIEF BONDS

The Illinois board of public welfare commissioners yesterday endorsed the $20,000,000 relief bond issue, which will be offered for approval of voters on one of the small ballots tomorrow. The commissioners declare a vote for the proposition will prevent doubling of the state tax rate.

"If voters approve the relief bond issue they will prevent a tax of $25,000,000 from being collected in 1933," the statement of the organization said. The present state tax rate of 49 cents on $100 of assessed valuation would be raised to approximately 79 cents if the bond issue is not approved, it was pointed out.

"If the bond issue is approved the tax will not be necessary because the state's relief bill of $18,750,000 will be repaid with revenue obtained through the sale of the bonds," the statement went on. "The bonds themselves will be retired through a part of the counties' share of the motor fuel tax. The amount each county will contribute toward the retirement of the bonds will be in proportion of the amount of assistance it has received from the state funds through the Illinois emergency relief commission."

BAR OPPOSES NOMINEE WHO CHANGED NAME

The Chicago Bar association yesterday urged voters not to be misled tomorrow by the appearance of the name of Joseph F. Haas as a Republican nominee for Municipal court judge on the small judicial ballot. The association recently was given permission by the Illinois supreme court to start disbarment proceedings against Haas.

Haas' real name is Joseph F. Mait and the association charges that he retained the name of Mait in his ordinary business transactions and took the name of Haas for political purposes only, because of the wide popularity of the late Joseph F. Haas, county recorder for many years.

A vote for Haas will be a vote for political trickery, the bar association warned. His place on the ticket was gained only because many persons thought they were voting for the original Haas, the association pointed out. Haas' name appears as the last name in the Republican list of twelve nominees.

WEBER, SIMPSON CLAIM VICTORY; IGNORE CHURCH

At the conclusion of the most bitterly fought congressional contest in the state, County Commissioner Charles Weber, Democrat, and James Simpson Jr., Republican, are claiming victory. Neither gives a chance to Ralph E. Church, who lost the nomination to Simpson in a recount and is running as an independent.

The Tenth district which they seek to represent includes Lake county, Evanston, the north shore, and a portion of Chicago. Simpson based his campaign on the tariff and prohibition issues and is supporting President Hoover. Church has charged he won the Republican nomination last spring but was "robbed" of his certificate in the recount. Weber said he is the only one of the three candidates on record favoring repeal.

RELIEF BONDS: VOTE YES

Shall an Act of the General Assembly of Illinois entitled, 'An Act to provide for an issue of bonds of the State of Illinois for the relief of indigent persons and for the redemption of notes issued in anticipation of funds levied for that purpose,' enacted by the Fifty-seventh General Assembly at the third special session thereof, which in substance authorizes the State to provide funds for the relief of residents who by reason of unemployment or otherwise are destitute and in necessitous circumstances and for the redemption and retirement of notes issued for such purposes and to contract a debt and issue $20,000,000 of serial bonds for such purposes, such bonds to bear interest at not to exceed six per cent; levies a tax sufficient to pay said interest as it accrues and to pay off said bonds within 20 years from issuance, but provides that such payments may be made from other funds appropriated to assist such payments for such years; provides that the moneys allotted to counties under the "Motor Fuel Tax Law" to be first used for the payment of the several counties' portion thereof and such direct tax to be omitted in any year in which sufficient money from other sources of revenue has been appropriated to assist such payments for such year; provides for publication and for submission to the People; makes the provisions for payment of such interest and bonds irrepealable and pledges faith of State to the making of such payments; go into full force and effect? Guide on Congress Candidates

For the information of voters The Tribune herewith presents the recommendations of the Crusaders and of the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures on major party candidates for congress, both senate and house, in Illinois.

Repeal of prohibition and governmental economy were the two predominant issues on which the two organizations based their indorsements. Questionnaires were sent to the candidates. The Crusaders asked how each one stood on repeal of the 18th amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act, two measures of immediate import in the next congress.

The N. O. R. P. E. inquired how each candidate stood on the paramount economic issue of reducing cost of government, pruning bureaucracy, and cutting the tax burden.

A cross indicates indorsement by the N. O. R. P. E.

New York, Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Love Powell, Negro handyman around the West 47th street police station, today found an old vest near the station house. He turned it over to Lieut. Oscar Johnson without giving it a second look. Johnson searched the vest and brought forth $150 in currency. No claimant for vest or bills had appeared tonight.

SWANSON CALLS FOR BAR INQUIRY ON JUDGE FISHER

Demands Investigation of Charges Made.

Inquiry by the Chicago Bar association on the action of Judge Harry M. Fisher in connection with the recent charges against the state's attorney's office was asked yesterday by State's Attorney John A. Swanson. The prosecutor, who is a candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket, addressed his request to Charles P. Megan, president of the bar association.

At the same time the association was asked to explain why, at a meeting of 300 lawyers, it distributed circulars showing its indorsements on candidates for judgeships, but not stating that State's Attorney Swanson won the indorsement of the members in the same balloting in which the judicial candidates were indorsed.

The request for an explanation of this action was made to Mr. Megan by Attorney Frederick A. Rowe, president of the Hamilton club. Mr. Megan replied that the omission of Swanson's name from the list of bar association indorsements was a mistake, that the particular specimen ballot distributed had been prepared for reform organizations and not for lawyers.

Swanson Letter to Megan.

"As you have doubtless learned from the public press," State's Attorney Swanson wrote to Mr. Megan, "an effort was made by certain persons to destroy my reputation by a false charge brought against my brother, Attorney Albert Swanson, which charge was based on forgeries and other fabricated evidence. This was done at the last minute in an effort to defeat me for reelection.

"By his own public admissions Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Circuit court, a former chief justice of the Criminal court, was the instigator and guiding spirit of the entire affair.

"The Chicago Bar association has always taken the very proper stand that judges should not descend from the bench to engage in partisan politics."

Recites Details of Case.

Mr. Swanson then related the proceedings which culminated in a vindication of himself, his brother, and Assistant State's Attorney James Clancy by the grand jury on Saturday after an investigation. The letter said that Judge Fisher had held conferences during the last month with Herman J. Goldberg, "a convict who is now appealing his conviction and who was convicted of forgery in Detroit in 1916."

The letter then told of the checks which Goldberg produced and which furnished the basis of the charges made against Clancy and Albert Swanson, to the effect that they had been paid by Goldberg for illegally reducing taxes. These charges were made by Robert Isham Randolph, head of the Secret Six, before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court and led to the grand jury inquiry. Judge Fisher sent Randolph before Judge Prystalski to make the charges, the Swanson letter said.

Goldberg Indicted Again.

Before the grand jury three handwriting experts pronounced the alleged signatures of Clancy and Albert Swanson on the back of the Goldberg checks to be forgeries, and as a result Goldberg, who was convicted of a tax fixing plot two years ago but has never been put in prison, was indicted as a perjurer. Mr. Swanson concluded:

"Judge Fisher made a public statement in which he said he did not consider that he had violated the ethics of the bench and bar by doing these things in retaliation to a brother lawyer for investigating criminal complaints. These facts are made known to you in the public interest, and I wish to assure you that I stand ready to coöperate with you or any committee of the bar association to which you may refer this matter, to the end that the sanctity of the courts and respect for the bench and bar may be secured and vindicated."

Swanson Rips Into Foes.

In his speeches yesterday Mr. Swanson used stronger language in discussing the charges made against his office. Aside from the desire to defeat him, there were other motives for the attempt to besmirch him, he said.

"The disclosures before the grand jury within the last 48 hours have shown the depths to which unscrupulous men will go to accomplish their dastardly ends," he said. "The disclosures shock the conscience of every fair minded citizen in this community.

"Anxious to seize upon some opportunity to gain political advantage, Fisher, Randolph, and an ex-convict, Goldberg, hatched a plot to charge bribery against my brother and Assistant State's Attorney Clancy. Contrary to all legal precedent, Isham Randolph went before the Criminal court and upon 'information and belief' read a statement charging graft in tax fixing cases.

Points to Grand Jury Decision.

"He did not make his charges under oath. The grand jury found the charges were based on forged signatures. Goldberg was indicted and the plot to vilify the good name of my brother and Clancy was condemned.

"My troubles began when I refused to be called off in the prosecution of the sanitary district case. They were accentuated when I convicted Daniel Serritella and Harry Hochstein of cheating and defrauding the housewives of this city for short weights, but when I went after Samuel Insull, who caused a loss to investors of millions of dollars, my troubles grew."

Judge Fisher's only comment when he was asked about the prosecutor's letter to the bar association was this:

"There has been no denial that somebody got large sums of money, possibly as much as $100,000, for fixing tax suits. The state's attorney is the only public official authorized to prosecute tax suits. Who got the money? Why didn't the grand jury inquire into that question, which is the main issue?"

Goldberg Still Missing.

The indicted Goldberg vanished after his appearance before the grand jury on Saturday and detectives searching for him reported yesterday that they had been unable to find him.

When Goldberg's charges of graft in the state's attorney's office were first made public he was given a bodyguard of two city policemen. After his appearance before the grand jury, where he was trapped in misstatements, Goldberg was sent outside the juryroom. The sergeant at arms of the grand jury, in the mistaken belief that the presence of the two policemen with Goldberg meant that he was under arrest, told the policemen to take him away.

Later it was learned that Goldberg had dismissed his bodyguards after leaving the Criminal courts building. Detectives bearing a capias for his arrest were sent to seek him at a club of which Judge Fisher is a member and were told that Goldberg had departed by a rear door.

FOG HINDERS HURLEY'S TRIP HOME TO VOTE

Danville, Ill., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, flying to his home in Tulsa, Okla., to vote Tuesday, was forced down here at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon because of heavy fog. With him was Roy St. Louis, assistant attorney general. The pilot was William Cousland. Mr. Hurley said that he will resume his flight in the morning. The presence of the war secretary here was soon broadcast and a group of forty-five Republican leaders of this district, hastily organized a banquet in his honor at the Hotel Wolford.

Bring Back Bodies

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elmer Schanett of Belvidere left today for Fort France, Ont. to bring back to Rockford the bodies of her brother, Eynier C. Peterson, and his two daughters, who were drowned with their guide last Thursday in a canoe disaster on Lake of the Woods.

The tragedy did not become known until Indians rescued Mrs. Peterson from an island in the lake. There she had spent a night and a day without food or shelter, the only survivor of the accident. Her husband and daughters lost their lives when their outboard canoe overturned. Their guide, Dennis Chabot, a former actor, was well known here as a speaker before Izaak Walton league meetings and other sportsmen's groups.

Peterson was local manager for the Lehigh Cement company. He was well known as an amateur golfer and aviator.

RECALL SMALL HOSPITAL AND PARDON ABUSES

Discredited Appointees in Line for Old Jobs.

During the closing weeks of the campaign for tomorrow's election many of the chapters of Len Small's public record have been brought before the voters by supporters of Judge Henry Horner.

Time limitations have prevented platform and radio speakers from going into detail in the long story which goes back to 1897 when Small gained control of the Kankakee state hospital; but the stories of the missing interest on state funds which resulted in a compromise surrender of $650,000, the facts about some of the most notorious pardons between 1921 and 1928, and the coercion of the general assembly during that period have been mentioned time and time again.

Judge Horner a Bachelor.

In contrast, these speakers have pointed out, there has been no attack on Judge Horner's public career or private life. In the latter field the most tremendous assault has been directed at the fact that he never has married. Republican speakers have asserted repeatedly that the women of Illinois do not want a bachelor in the executive mansion at Springfield.

The first breath of scandal touched Small in his administration of the Kankakee hospital, but those events are so far in the past that there has been no effort to recall them to the memories of present voters. Therefore the exposé began with Small's inauguration as governor in 1921 and covered the eight years he was in office.

It was on inauguration day nearly twelve years ago that the new state treasurer, Edward E. Miller, a running mate of Small's through the primary and election of the preceding year, discovered by accident the conditions that existed in the treasury.

Try to Remove Records.

During the preceding two years Small conducted the treasurer's office as "examiner of securities" under the nominal treasurer, Fred E. Sterling. Small, himself, had served as treasurer in the two years preceding Sterling's term, but he was the real boss of the office for the full four years.

Miller's discovery resulted from an effort to remove the records of Sterling's term from the state house just as the records of Small's term had been removed. Indictments of Small and Sterling resulted. Small was tried alone. A grand jury investigation of bribery in that trial was frustrated by the refusal of two alleged fixers to testify. Small pardoned the two.

Another finale came in this case when it was learned that six members of the trial jury were given state jobs, the Lake county sheriff charged with shutting off the jurors from outside contacts was made superintendent of prisons and others identified with the case were "taken care of."

Pays $650,000 to Halt Suit.

Then came the civil suit, before the termination of which Small voluntarily paid $650,000 which, it has been alleged without contradiction, was only part of the amount collected from thousands of state employés by compulsory assessment. This compromise halted a real accounting in court, with a finding for a much larger sum pronounced certain.

In the meantime Small's efforts to take complete control of the legislature—successful at times—had begun during the first six months of his first term. He sought in vain to destroy state civil service with one bill. With another he sought to give the Chicago city hall Republican machine control of the utilities of the city by creating "local transportation" districts. And a third of his plans was to subordinate all the taxing machinery of the 102 counties in the state to a state tax commission of his own choosing.

Buys Votes of Legislators.

These early battles of 1921 brought exposure of the administration's efforts to buy the votes of legislators with jobs, utilities commission awards, and other considerations, a method of operation that culminated in a systematic use of the location of bond issue road construction in the purchase of assembly votes.

Small's first efforts in bossing the legislature failed, but more than once in vital matters he succeeded. The high spots in this sort of accomplishment were passage of the bill exempting himself from ouster proceedings by the quo warranto route and the blockade of impeachment proceedings, the latter through control of the trial hearing body, the senate.

The pardon scandals began to reach the ears of the public before the end of his first term and the abuses continued all through his second term in spite of protests from public spirited organizations considered among the most influential in the state. These protests Small ignored almost entirely, his one surrender being the removal of the head of the pardon board whom he immediately placed in another state office.

Old Gang Seeking Jobs.

In this connection it is now reported that if Small is elected tomorrow he will appoint that same man, Will Colvin, now his Sangamon county manager, as chairman of the pardon board for the next four years.

It also is reported that he has promised—if elected—to appoint Frank L. Smith, whom he helped elect as Republican national committeeman last summer, to his old position as chairman of the commerce commission. That was the position Smith held when he accepted $125,000 from Samuel Insull as campaign contributions in a race for the United States senate.

The public memory also has been refreshed about the barter of licenses to practice medicine and other professions which are under state control, about condemnation of the handling of insurance matters under Small and a number of other scandals that continued from the beginning of his eight years in office to its conclusion when he was overwhelmingly beaten for renomination.

William J. Stratton for Secretary of State

1. Of all the candidates who will seek office in the November election, one man, at least, deserves the enthusiastic support of every voter in Illinois. He is William J. Stratton, Republican candidate for re-election as secretary of state.

2. During the past four years Stratton has won the praise of numerous civic, political and business organizations. His record is so outstanding that it has taken precedence over party lines.

3. In the course of his administration Stratton has turned into the state treasury every cent of interest earned on all funds that came into his hands as secretary of state. This is the first time in the history of the state that such a procedure has been followed.

4. He has also applied the "blue sky" law diligently to protect Illinois investors.

5. At a time when economy in public office is such an important issue, it is comforting to learn that Stratton has conducted the affairs of his office at less expense, in proportion to the business transacted, than any other secretary of state in the Union.

6. Mr. Stratton gives all of his time and attention to the official duties of his office.

7. He has voluntarily applied the principles of a strict civil service system and has emphasized courteous and expeditious service.

A vote for Stratton on November 8 will be a vote for an efficient administration. Every man and woman voter in the state should see that he is retained.

In the interest of economy and honest government, mark your ballot for Secretary of State for

HOOVER READS VICTORY OMENS ON WESTERN TRIP

Believes Economic Battle Has Been Won.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Greeley, Colo., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—President Hoover traveled westward tonight toward California and Nov. 8, a candidate convinced of the economic recovery of the nation and of his re-election as a reward for having made that recovery possible.

He is confident that if nothing untoward intervenes, the coming winter, instead of being the blackest of the depression, will be a period far less severe than was last winter.

He is confident that his campaign has got the American people to thinking, and that the voters are going to the polls armed with logic and not motivated by emotion or prejudice. So long as the people are thinking, Mr. Hoover has no doubt about the outcome of the campaign.

Such were the impressions and the hopes which the President summed up in a press conference—the first he has had with newspaper men in two months—held as his special train rolled through the flat corn and wheat country of Iowa and Nebraska, and on into Colorado, carrying Mr. Hoover toward a vote in his home town of Palo Alto next Tuesday.

Nonpartisan Talk in Denver.

At Denver, in the evening, the President addressed a crowd of some 25,000 from a platform erected in front of the station. The fact that it was Sunday and that he did not wish to discuss politics fitted in with the wishes of local campaign managers who said the people of Colorado needed what one of them described as a "fireside speech to show 'em how human Hoover is."

The President spoke to them of the duty to direct relief efforts for the benefit of the nation's children, and his words were enthusiastically received.

Politics also had its inning, however, for in a statement handed to the press Mr. Hoover told the state's beet sugar industry that the pending Republican bill for Philippine independence would decrease sugar imports from the islands, while the Democratic bill would increase their amount.

Conservative in Views.

As the train proceeded westward during the day, it was hard to find among the local political prophets any who would predict with assurance a triumph for the Hoover cause. Iowa was "not so good." Nebraska was "as good as gone," and Colorado, on which the Republicans have been counting, was in the doubtful column.

But the President seemed disturbed by none of the tidings. To the wife of one Colorado visitor he declared, smiling: "We're going to carry the country."

His belief is that the voters have been through a Democratic campaign founded on misstatements concerning the cause of the depression. He is sure this public grasp of the situation has knocked the bottom out of the Democratic strategy and exposed it as an effort to play politics with human misery.

He believes that he will ride into office again on the economic upswing of which he sees evidence in every quarter of the country. He is sure that he can see an enormous turn of the political tide.

The President and those about him believe that the political sentiment of the country shows an enormous turn of the tide. He has watched and been encouraged by Republican gains shown by numerous polls, particularly in the midwest, since he started his personal campaign. He attaches great importance to the fact that he has drawn greater crowds than Roosevelt, and greater than during his campaign of four years ago.

Declines to Be Forecaster.

Mr. Hoover declined to engage in any forecast, however, since he said he had never done so and since forecasts were the job of the campaign managers. He denied that there was any such person as the Forgotten Man. He noted that many of those who came to see and hear him drove automobiles. He realized that there had been great suffering in many sections of the country, but he knew of no one actually deprived of food and shelter. He evinced the utmost confidence in the ability of local agencies to care for the distressed, and he praised the "devotion" of local relief leaders.

During all his campaigning, which dates back to the Harding campaign of 1920, he believes he has never seen such a popular response to the fundamentals of government as has been shown by those with whom he has come in contact since taking the stump at Des Moines.

All he asks, he says, is that the people keep on thinking.

Active Campaign Ended.

The President's active campaign was ended last night with his final major speech at St. Paul, where he attacked the radical inspiration of the Democratic campaign, summed up the achievements of the administration and the delinquencies of the Democrats, and finished with a bid for the women's vote, and plea for world peace, and praise for the Kellogg pact.

In deference to the day, Mr. Hoover refrained from political speech-making. But in answer to the appeals of local committees he made the usual back platform appearances.

The first of these was at Council Bluffs, Ia., the second at Omaha, Neb. There the President went to a platform in front of thes tation and was introduced to a crowd of some 5,000 persons by Richard Metcalf, Democratic mayor.

He was pleased to be greeted by so many fellow-citizens, the President told his audience.

"It is a stimulating tribute to the flag which I represent," he said.

Avoids Sunday Politics.

He was similarly zealous to avoid politics at the other stops along the way—at Columbus, Fremont, Grand Island, Kearney, and North Platte.

At St. Paul President Hoover showed visible evidence of the strain of the campaign. His face was drawn and his delivery was nervous. The effect of this weariness on his speech was reflected in more than one telegram from radio listeners, who praised his words, but added: "You sounded so tired. Do take a good rest."

Following a night's sleep the President appeared in better shape today. With the active campaign over he was able to relax.

Various dlegations boarded the train during the day. Among the visitors were Dwight Griswold, Republican candidate for governor of Nebraska, and Senator Robert B. Howell of Nebraska. Though rated as one of the senate radicals, Senator Howell, too, believes that thoughtful voters will reject the Democratic logic and stick to Hoover.

Faces Trial for Shooting Three in Bandit Chase

Thomas Linneen, 39 years old, manager of the D & K restaurant at 4658 Broadway, who fought a revolver battle with three bandits Saturday and shot and captured one of them, will be arraigned in the Town Hall court today on an assault charge growing out of the shooting of three bystanders during the pursuit.

BUSINESS GROUP FIGHTS TO CUT VETERANS' AID

Sees Waste of Millions in Present Laws.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—A reduction of at least 300 million dollars in federal government costs is the goal of a special committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The committee filed today a final report on veterans' legislation, urging that not less than 400 million dollars be saved in financing the veterans' administration.

That report has been sent to 1,500 business organizations in all sections of the country as the first step in mobilizing business "for an aggressive renewal of the economy drive this winter."

"At the rate we are going now," the report said, "disbursements for veterans' relief will at least equal, if not surpass, the total cost of our expenditures during the world war, totaling 23½ billion dollars."

Fears Vast Increase.

"By 1950," the committee's report continued, "veterans' relief will reach a peak of $4,500,000,000 a year, if the present trend of legislation and interpretation is followed."

The committee, headed by Chairman Matthew S. Sloan of New York, announced that it will propose to congress that 40 per cent of the billion dollars plus now being spent on account of veterans' benefits can be saved through revisions of law and administration along the following lines:

"Denying compensation for all disabilities not clearly proved to be service connected.

"Placing compensation paid dependents on a basis of service connected with disability or death.

Pays More Than Allies.

"In 1932," the report shows, "the United States paid out to veterans and dependents almost 20 per cent more than the combined payments of Germany, France, England, Italy, and Canada. The cost of veterans' relief in this country has ben steadily rising.

"The English peak of a half billion dollars was reached in 1920 and has decreased 55 per cent since then. British expenditures for 1932 are expected to account for 5.8 per cent of the cost of that government.

"France, with 8,140,000 men in service and 5,623,000 dead or wounded, expects to spend less than 300 millions for veterans' relief this year. France plans to devote 17.5 per cent of its income for this purpose.

CHICAGO COAST GUARDS TO GET 165 FOOT CUTTER

Within the next ten days, Chicago will have a full sized coast guard cutter, equipped with two one-pound guns and requiring a crew of sixty men. The cutter is the Escanaba, a new vessel. Capt. John O. Anderson of the United States Coast Guard station at the mouth of the river was arranging for a suitable dock for the vessel yesterday. The Escanaba will be in charge of Lieutenant Commander Perkins. The cutter is 165 feet long, has twin screws, and is powered with a Diesel engine. It is capable of a speed of 20 knots.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 6.—It has been many years since South America has shown an interest in a United States presidential election comparable to that with which it has been watching the Hoover-Roosevelt campaign.

In Buenos Aires the leading newspapers have been discussing the campaign issues daily in editorials and giving them much more space than they devoted to campaign discussions in their own elections. They are preparing to publish midnight extras on Tuesday to give theater crowds the results. Only limited returns will be available, since it will be only 9:30 o'clock in New York, because of the difference in time.

South Americans seem convinced that the election of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will mean a lowering of tariff, enabling them to increase exports to the United States. Argentina is even hoping to be able to ship agricultural and animal products, such as corn, wool, hides, and flax to the United States to compete with the American farmers.

Expect Heavy Ticket Splitting Tomorrow; Law Is Explained

Democrats asserted and Republicans conceded yesterday that there will be an extremely large number of split tickets voted in tomorrow's election.

Both the assertions and the concessions concern chiefly the large number of Republicans who will cross over into the Democratic column after starting out with a few nominees of their own party. The two groups say that thousands of Republicans who start out at the top of their ballots by marking for President Hoover and for Senator Glenn will immediately go back to the first column and vote for Judge Horner and other Democrats.

Voters Ask for Ruling.

This situation has flooded the political headquarters, the newspapers and the election officials with inquiries asking whether the law permits the voters to mark a cross in the circle at the head of one party column and then go over into the column of another party and mark crosses before the names of individual candidates there.

Without exception the answers from authoritative sources have been that this method of marking a ballot is one of the legal and long established methods of voting a split ticket. For example, the voter may mark a cross in the Republican circle and then mark for every Democrat but one. His vote would be counted for the one Republican without a cross before his name and for all the Democrats before whose names crosses were marked.

Safer to Mark Each Square.

But it is emphasized this year that the really safe way to mark a split ticket is to ignore the party circle and place crosses in the individual squares.

Propaganda in conflict with these facts has been traced to Republican workers trying to hold the Hoover vote for Len Small. There came from a reliable source last night a report that the remnants of the old Republican city hall machine will distribute tonight thousands of sample ballots marked with a cross in the Democratic circle and individual crosses before the name of Len Small and one or two Republican nominees for minor local offices.

Son of Wayland Brooks Aids His Dad's Campaign

Russell Brooks, 8 year old son of C. Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for state treasurer, wound up his father's campaign yesterday in the rearyard of their home at 1643 Fargo avenue. Russell mounted a box and harangued his playmates in the traditional political manner. He asked them to have their fathers, mothers, relatives, and their friends vote for his father. At the conclusion of his address he distributed campaign circulars to his audience to be turned over to voters tomorrow.

SUMMIT SUITOR SHOT.

Paul Salmento, 22 years old, a Mexican track laborer, was shot and critically wounded by an unknown assailant early yesterday in Summit, as he was leaving the home of a young woman.

NOW! PILES MEET THEIR WATERLOO!

No more pain! No more itching or scratching! No more torture when you sit or walk! No more torture at the stool! The relief of Piles has now been solved. No matter what the form of Piles you suffer from—genuine relief for you lies in Pazo Ointment.

Pazo not only stops the pain and itching and makes defecation easy, but it tends to correct the condition of Piles as a whole. This is because Pazo is threefold in effect. It is (1) soothing, (2) healing, (3) absorbing. Thus, it not only allays the inflammation and repairs torn tissue, but actualy reduces the swollen blood vessels, which are Piles. The method of application makes Pazo doubly effective (see picture below). Thousands say that Pazo is the first real relief they ever got from Piles. Thousands say it saved them the need of a painful operation. Try Pazo yourself and realize from one trial that your days of pile suffering are over. All drug stores sell Pazo in Collapsible Tube with special Pile Pipe, complete for 75c.

Perforated Pile Pipe Attached to Collapsible Tube Makes Application Correct and Easy

The PAZO Collapsible Tube and Perforated Pile Pipe makes it very easy to apply the Ointment high up in the rectum where it can reach and thoroughly cover all the affected parts. Complete interior treatment in all cases of Piles is plainly important.

ALL RUSSIA HAILS RED REVOLUTION OF 15 YEARS AGO

Thousands Will Parade in Moscow Today.

MOSCOW, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Beneath a gigantic white bust of Lenin, which commanded the stage of Moscow's Grand Opera house in striking contrast to Red banners and flags, Dictator Josef Stalin and other leaders of the government and of the Communist party tonight hailed the 15th anniversary of the October revolution which placed all Russia in the hands of the bolsheviks.

The occasion was a solemn meeting of party members held by the Moscow soviet. Stalin, dressed as usual in semi-military khaki blouse and breeches, did not make a speech, but other leaders assailed capitalism and detailed the successes of the soviet system.

Economic Crisis Reviewed.

Michael Kalinin, president of the central executive committee of the government, gave a general review of the economic crisis in capitalist countries. He said the situation in the far east had improved, although "the danger of war has not disappeared despite our policy of peace, which remains the same." Kalinin voiced the hope that France soon would sign a nonaggression pact with the soviet government.

"We have succeeded in constructing socialism," he continued. "Our road was not covered with roses, but we have had great successes and on the whole our work has been satisfactory. Our peasant population is better fed than those of foreign countries, but their needs are not yet satisfied because of the better standards consequent upon the greatly increased demands of the population."

Coinciding this year with the conclusion of the first five year plan, tomorrow's soviet Independence day presaged an even more jubilant celebration by the masses than those that had gone before.

Cities in Gala Attire.

Moscow and all the principal cities of the country are dressed in gala array of red bunting, flags, posters, effigies and electric signs blazoning the successes of socialist construction and the defeat of capitalism.

Stalin and other soviet leaders tomorrow will review a gigantic demonstration in historic Red square, always the most impressive and colorful spectacle of such celebrations, consisting of a day long parade of soldiers, sailors and workers in which thousands will participate.

For more than a month the bolshevik capital has been undergoing its annual dressing up for the occasion, and downtown Moscow tonight was ablaze with light and color as thousands of citizens thronged the streets in holiday mood. Compared with last year, the business section presented a much smarter appearance in many more paved streets and a greatly increased number of tastefully decorated shop windows.

Hotels Crowded to Capacity.

Hotels were crowded to capacity with delegations of workers from foreign countries who came to participate in tomorrow's procession and foreign tourists anxious to view it. Special trains continued to pour in groups coming here for the celebration from all sections of the country.

Since today was a regular "free day," Russians actually will enjoy a three day holiday over the celebration. Tuesday will be a general day of rest for recuperation from the arduous celebrations of tomorrow.

The October revolution is so called because it took place on Oct. 25, 1917, under the old Russian calender, which was Nov. 7 by the calendar which is generally used throughout the world and which now is employed here.

LIBERAL LEADS NICARAGUA VOTE FOR PRESIDENT

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Early returns from today's presidential election gave Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, Liberal, a lead of 11,000 votes. The election was carried on in a quiet and orderly manner with the national guard and United States marine detachments on duty. Planes were used for patrolling sections of the country not connected with the outside by telegraph. Dr. Sacasa's ticket mate is Rodolfo Espimosa, candidate for vice president. Adolfo Diaz was the Conservative presidential candidate.

Two Cuban Political Chiefs Shot at Twice in One Day

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 6.—Unidentified men tonight fired a machine gun at Francisco Sarmientos Morales, Liberal leader of Pinar del Rio, and Ald. Abraham Perez, as they were riding in an auto along the central highway near Havana. At 11 o'clock tonight the same politicians again escaped death when they were fired upon from a speeding car as they sat at supper in Pinar del Rio city. Police blamed political enemies.

DANDRUFF

Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get plain ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store. It won't cost you more than thirty-five cents. No matter how much dandruff you have, this simple remedy never fails.

GERMAN VOTERS STOP HITLER'S DRIVE FOR RULE

Von Papen's Future Is a Mystery.

which would move the voting age up to 25 years, thereby eliminating youthful radicals of both right and left and giving a fair hope that another election would result in a reichstag capable of working constructively.

Leading business men have said in private conversations that the business world would look askance at another dissolution of parliament. They take the position that the country needs a rest.

Powerful forces are working to perfect some sort of lineup to insure a safe reichstag working majority in support of a presidial cabinet—either a coalition from Centrists to Nazis, or, if the Nazis persist in opposition, then even from the Nationalists to the Socialists, paradoxical as this may seem.

Whether the enmity centering upon Chancellor von Papen personally can be overcome is a delicate matter which must be worked out in the near future.

Split Among Nazis Seen.

In political circles it was said that the growth of communism probably would have a salutary effect. In addition the optimists in Wilhelmstrasse assert the Nazis will split and the conservative wing of the Hitler following will rally behind a presidial cabinet.

"Von Papen inflated the communists," the Nazi headquarters in Munich said. "Now let him show how he will get through the winter. It is up to him to take entire responsibility. With whom does he want to govern? The Hitler movement intends to remain in opposition."

Berlin voted strongly communist. Of the approximately 1,000,000 votes cast in the second electoral district, which takes in the largest part of Berlin, the communists totaled 403,813, against 252,418 for the Socialists and 229,313 for the Nazis. The bourgeois parties together obtained only 151,321.

The communists in this district gained more than 20,000 votes, while the Socialists lost 67,000 and the Nazis lost 52,000.

Apparently the Nazi participation in the tramway strike alienated some of their bourgois followers, and the refusal of the Socialists to indorse the strike caused their more radical members to flock to the communist banner.

Few Serious Disorders.

In general the election was carried out without many serious disorders.

After dark there were some attacks on street cars in Berlin—the transportation system is suffering from a wildcat strike—and service was stopped at 10 p. m. Nine passengers were hurt by glass splinters from smashed car windows.

In the 24 hours ended at midnight 91 persons were arrested in Berlin. Elsewhere in the reich election disorders caused injuries to about 40 persons. The worst row was at Chemnitz, where 10 were wounded. At Krefeld six civilians and three policemen were hurt in voting disorders, and at Burgstaedt five persons were injured. There also were casualties at Stassfurt, Bremen, Brunswick, Ahlen, Schoenwalde, and Fraustein.

Strike Follows Slash in Relief Work Pay in Iceland

Young Pilot's Pleasure Hop Ends Fatally.

Frank Penrose Sproul of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The three had left the drome of Skyways, Inc., of which Ames was president, at Boston for a pleasure trip and planned to land at the North Easton estate of the Ames family before returning to Boston.

The plane was seen flying low in this vicinity before it was heard to crash. People in the vicinity ran to the scene and after putting out a fire which was just starting they took the three occupants from their places in the airplane. All were dead.

Much in Public Eye.

Ames' death brought to an end a career which brought him into the public eye many times. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lothrop Ames and a member of one of the most prominent and oldest families in New England. His father died several years ago and his mother is the present Mrs. Roger W. Cutler of Boston.

While an undergraduate at Harvard in 1927 Ames picked a crew of three men and crossed the ocean in a 44 foot schooner and contested in the Cowes, England, races. As a result of his feat Ames was awarded the blue water medal of the Cruising club of America.

In the same year Ames got his state and federal air pilot's license and after flying in this section went to the west coast. Soon after his arrival he surprised society circles by marrying Mlle. Maurice Mozette, a singer and dancer in a Nogalez, Ariz., night club. Miss Mozette had at one time been an assistant coach of the Chicago Opera company. Soon after the marriage Ames made his wife an aviation enthusiast and she gained a pilot's license.

Girl Recently Made a Pilot.

Miss Burnett had been given her flying license only a week ago. She was graduated from Concord academy three years ago and her brother, Joseph, was a flyer for Ames' concern.

Miss Burnett also has a sister, Phyllis. Her father, John T. Burnett, died two years ago. In addition to being head of an extract company he was a director of many firms.

Sproul was graduated from Harvard in 1929 and while there was active in the affairs of the Harvard Flying club. He then went to Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he studied aeronautical engineering and was a member of the class of 1931. Last winter his mother came to Boston and the mother and son made their home at the Ritz-Carlton hotel. Sproul's father was the late Frank Penrose Sproul, said to have been a Pittsburgh banker.

Two Flyers Burn to Death.

Gormania, W. Va., Nov. 6.—(AP)—O. R. Hambrick, 33, manager of Clarksburg, W. Va., airport, and John Shulte, 21, also of Clarksburg, were burned to death when their plane crashed near here today.

They were en route to Washington to bring Lewis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, to his home in Clarksburg. A witness of the crash said the plane's motor was missing and that it suddenly fell and burst into flames when it struck the ground.

BOLIVIANS LOSE IMPORTANT FORT IN CHACO BATTLE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 6. — Paraguayan troops in the Gran Chaco region achieved their greatest victory since the fall of Forts Boqueron and Arce at noon today when they captured the Bolivian Fort Platanillos after a three hour battle. Platanillos is situated 43 miles directly west of Boqueron and 44 miles northwest of Arce, at the junction of several good roads connecting the Bolivan forts of the north, central and southern sectors.

The capture of the fort shuts off the high, dry route for reinforcements to the Pilcomayo sector, where the Paraguayans have been making a determined offensive against the Bolivians, hoping to drive them out of the Chaco. The Bolivians have fallen back to Fort Munoz. Toward it the Paraguayans are pushing with 8,000 infantry, cavalry and artillery, which will be reinforced soon by the newly mobilized Sixth division, consisting of 6,000 reserves.

JAPANESE RAID REVEALS PLOT TO MURDER PREMIER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 7.—[Monday.]—A plot to assassinate Premier Admiral Makoto Saito and to institute a campaign of "white terrorism" in Japan, was disclosed by Saturday's raid on the home of Mitsuru Toyama, 78 year old leader of reactionaries, it was revealed today. Toyama's son, Shuzo, who was arrested in the raid, has confessed to participating in the assassination of Premier Suyoshi Inukai last May. He admitted having protected and concealed men sought in connection with the crime.

Authorities today said that the reactionaries planned to assassinate Premier Saito and other statesmen during the grand military maneuvers at Osaka on Thursday. The entire nation was to be thrown into darkness, followed by a campaign of terrorism. Several bombs were seized in the raid on Toyama's home. Newspapers are handling the story guardedly and still refrain from editorializing.

BEER IS EXTINCT IN CHICAGO, OR PRACTICALLY SO!

Prohibition Group Finds We're Very Dry.

Beer is practically extinct as a beverage in Chicago, according to claims made yesterday by the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation. Less than sixty barrels of beer is brewed here daily, if the foundation's figures are to be credited, compared to 10,000 barrels a day before prohibition.

The prohibition foundation states that its conclusions are based on a two year survey which has just been completed. The survey was made, with the coöperation of the organization, by Chester G. Campbell, editor of the American Fruit Grower. Its details were disclosed yesterday at a meeting of the executive staff at the foundation's headquarters, 7 South Dearborn street. According to the report, beer in Chicago is 99 3-5 per cent extinct.

High Water Mark.

The decline of beer dates from the high water mark of 1917, Campbell finds, when Chicago's fifty-two breweries produced 10,000 barrels.

"In the years from 1920 to early 1923, a cheating group of breweries may have produced as much as 2,000 barrels, daily average," he says. "This amount was probably reduced to 1,500 barrels when the brewing industry came under the domination of the hoodlum gangs. A concerted drive by the Dever administration against gang breweries and speakeasies might have cut the production down to under 400 barrels daily, but upon the accession to power of the succeeding administration, much of the restraint was removed."

During the Dever regime, the foundation's report states, beer gangs were compelled to divide beer making into three phases—wort production, cooperage, and fermenting. This necessitated the trucking of wort and barrels to concealed breweries.

Shadow Trucks to Brewery.

Thus, in 1930, when the "reorganized prohibition bureau took action," the report continues, the dry agents shadowed trucks to breweries and in that way closed ten of them. The few remaining plants, it is stated, have been uncovered one at a time.

"Concluding the survey during the last week, a watch of trucks at the wort plants show that the present supply of wort, from which beer is made, now cannot exceed 12,000 gallons weekly," the foundation declares. "Approximately one-half of this amount is used by the remnants of the Capone syndicate, the balance going to independents.

"An evidence of the rapid decline in the movement of gang beer is that empty barrels are now collected from speakeasies not oftener than one a month, and it is the exceptional out of the loop speakeasy which uses more than half a barrel a week, although some of the larger loop 'speaks' may still use as much as two barrels a week.

Pass Monthly Payoff.

"It is significant that the Capone syndicate passed their monthly payoff last month, following the seizure of a north side brewery."

The American Business Men's Prohibition foundation is composed of business executives and other leaders from various sections of the country. Richard H. Scott, automobile manufacturer of Michigan, is president. Col. P. H. Callahan of Kentucky is vice president, and Charles R. Jones of Chicago is executive vice president. Among the directors are Sebastian S. Kresge of Detroit, chain store merchant, and Frank E. Gannett, Brooklyn publisher.

'GIVE US QUICK FREEDOM,' PLEA OF PHILIPPINES

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The insular legislature, after a five months' discussion in a series of public hearings, today reiterated its stand for immediate independence and redefined its position on independence bills pending in the United States congress. The resolution was presented by Senator Manuel Quezon, her l of the Philippine independence commission in Washington.

Embodied in the resolution were requests for the shortest transition period possible; a trade agreement between the islands and the United States, and more autonomy in regard to insular affairs. Port limitations during the transition period "permitting our industries to survive and compete in open markets when independence is granted" also were asked.

Senator Quezon, in a speech before the legislature, said he, for one, would be willing to postpone actual independence for ten years if the United States would make the island govern ment "autonomous in name as wel as in fact."

INDIANAPOLIS AV. EXTENSION WILL END BOTTLENECK

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] yesterday predicted that a traffic bottleneck in his ward would be eliminated before the opening of the World's Fair by the extension of Indianapolis avenue on a diagonal from Ewing avenue to 100th street at Avenue L, facilitating the movement of motor traffic entering the city from the southeast.

The extension, according to the alderman, will afford motorists coming into the city over Indianapolis avenue a new route to Jackson park. At present most of this traffic reaches the park and the outer drive by way of South Shore drive. When the extension is completed traffic will be afforded a new route into the park by way of 100th street, Escanaba avenue, Anthony avenue, 92d street, and Jeffrey avenue.

Last week the city began the acquisition of fourteen pieces of property needed for the extension as the result of condemnation proceedings prosecuted by Assistant Corporation Counsel John W. McCarthy. Wrecking of the buildings will be started this winter, according to Ald. Rowan, and the paving of the extension will be completed under the direction of Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, before next June.

The improvement will be financed by a $400,000 bond issue already voted. Ald. Rowan said more than $100,000 of this will be turned back into the city treasury as the entire cost will be only $265,000.

ROBBERS SHOOT YOUTH AND TAKE HIM TO HOSPITAL!

Michael Spans, 19 years old, of 5732 Throop street, was shot in the hip this morning and left at the front door of the German Deaconess hospital by three men who he later said were robbers and his assailants. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

Spans said that the trio tried to hold him up at 54th street and Racine avenue, shot him when he resisted, and drove him to the hospital. Police said that Spans is now out on parole from Pontiac, where he served a term for robbery. They are investigating his story.

Bomb Wrecks Truck Body Plant; Perils Watchman

William McRae, a uniformed Pinkerton service watchman, narrowly escaped injury this morning when a bomb exploded less than twenty feet away from him at the Schukraft & Co. plant at 1201 Washington boulevard. The blast smashed a door and large window on the Racine avenue side. McRae was walking toward the place, having seen a gray coupe speed away a moment before, when the explosion occurred. It knocked him down and showered him with broken glass. Police estimated the damage at $75. The Schukraft company makes motor truck bodies.

May Lose Vote

Whether Julius Sheffler is to hold his title as the one-man voting population of a Cook county election precinct depends upon a ruling today by Dan Carey, chief election clerk under County Clerk Sweitzer.

Sheffler lives on a farm in Worth township. For a number of years there was but one voter in that precinct, Julian Dojmoeich, who regularly had himself sworn as a polls official and certified the returns from the precinct, consisting of his own ballot. Two years ago he died, and later Sheffler married his widow.

Sheffler announced that he was to follow Dojmoeich's practice of being a one man election board to register his own vote, but when he got his pollbook back from the county clerk, he found that Dojmoeich was listed as the only registered voter in the precinct.

Sheffler asserted, however, that he had been sworn in as an election official, and had been assured that the error in registration would be corrected. Mr. Carey said he would investigate today.

WISCONSIN WANTS GUS WINKLER AS HOLDUP SUSPECT

Several cities want Gus Winkler, Capone gangster who was arrested Friday evening in Cicero, on charges of bank robbery, the detective bureau was notified yesterday. Sheriff John Gruel of Jefferson county, Wis., notified Chief of Detectives Schoemaker that he would arrive in Chicago today with a warrant charging Winkler with the robbery of the Farmers' State bank at Jefferson. Authorities at Holland, Mich., where a machine gun gang took $73,100 in a bank robbery on Sept. 29, and at Monroe, Mich., where a gang, believed to have been the same, got between $40,000 and $50,000 on Oct. 31, are also expected to send witnesses to Chicago to view Winkler.

Happy Wife Keeps Youth Brushes Away Gray Hair

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No telltale flat "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull, or faded hairs its natural color, youth, and sheen, your money back. Only 50c.

GUNS OF BRITAIN SYMBOL OF HER GRIP OVER INDIA

Need of Force Is Traced Back to Mogul Kings.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DELHI, Oct. 13.—[By Mail]—There was a rumble of big guns across the ancient plains and ridges of Delhi this morning. Out of the hills where the sacred Ganges rises in the legendary home of Shiva, destroyer of evil, came a great winged god. It was the vice-regal airplane, bringing Lord Willingdon, the viceroy, to his new 500 room palace in New Delhi. Thirty-one guns saluted. The smart clatter of the Indian cavalry escort, the opening of the special iron gate in front of the palace, the white turbaned guards at rigid attention, marble halls, red velvet carpets, chaste paintings and statuary, a waiting secretariat! All were there! The government of India's 350,000,000 persons was at home.

In Delhi's older days the "Lord of the World," as the Moghul kings called themselves, made a different entry. In the howdah of a gold caparisoned state elephant, they rode past their subjects who stood with bowed heads, hands pressed to their foreheads, or kissed the earth at their approach.

Today the people gave little attention as a frosty, blue eyed English soldier clad in plain business suit, went back to his job. But the guns were there as of old. The same need of potential force is there. Over in Shah Jahan's old fort, near the deserted site of the Peacock Throne, where the famed builder of the Taj Mahal sat on the seat of the Shadow of God for many years, British soldiers saunter about, and there are rows of guns.

Complain Against British Army.

The army in India is supported by the Indian government and this forms one of the chief complaints of Mahatma Gandhi independence party. The first thing they would do would be to cut the cost in half. The next would be to turn it over to Indian control, permitting the British to serve if they wished. One can hardly imagine the British soldier stepping down from his seat of prestige and power of 150 years without a struggle, even though this be confined to round table conferences.

The army consists of 60,000 British troops, 150,000 Indian troops, an auxiliary force of 33,000 European British subjects, and an air force. The cost is about $200,000,000 a year, about one-half of the central budget and one-quarter of all budgets. It is a burden which the Indians feel keenly in a land where many millions get but one meal or less a day, where the average agricultural wage is about $1 a month, and where 90 per cent of the people are illiterate and poorly housed.

The British, with the aid of the Indian aristocrats, propertied classes and religious separatists, have well nigh crushed the independence movement. Gandhi and most of his all-India congress leaders are in prison and likely to stay there. Every time anyone waves a rebel flag he or she gets six months' rigorous imprisonment, plus a fine. What is coming out of it apparently is an extremely tepid and modified form of self-government in which the army, the finances, foreign relations and all the essentials of central government, are to be left in the hands of the British.

Two Forms of Opposition.

The opposition takes two forms, the civil disobedience or noncoöperation program of Gandhi, expressed in the nonpayment of rent and taxes, and the boycott of British goods, and the terrorist movement of Bengal, which is organized as the revolutionary army of India and said to have communist backing. Gandhi's followers condemn the terrorist activities, yet applaud their goal.

Gandhi remains the great Hindu power. His recent purification fast "unto death" and the cause of the 60,000,000 "untouchables" put him in the light of a god in the minds of the people. Where religion rules life so rigidly from the cradle to the grave, it is only the religious man, the extremist, who can command wide attention.

The British are ready to give the Indians something, probably a good deal, toward greater self-government, and it probably would be good politics for Gandhi to take what he could get and ask for more later on. But he is a poor politician, a man who follows the dictates of a still, small voice which he claims is God within him. There is no reasoning with him on ordinary levels.

The British idea now is to ignore him, to play one religious group against another, and remain in power as long as possible. The only way to defeat this would be for all the Indians to refuse to serve the British in any way. But how can that be when any white man with a sun helmet gets a salaam or a salute as he passes many of these people, and when the Indians of power, and the native princes who have much to lose by the withdrawal of British power, support this government?

Calls It "White Elephant."

Gandhi would take this New Delhi, capital of the British rule, and turn it into hospitals or institutions for the poor. He calls it a "white elephant" and says it never should have been built out of the money of such poor people. The poor are here, living close to magnificence and the English villas, where the ladies are getting out their new dinner frocks for the winter season. And such poor!

Sometimes they are naked, crawling in the dirt. The only standardization is a medley of dirty white cotton garments caught up around the waist, or in skirt and head dress. They live in hovels of mud and stone. They are the same poor that have been here all through the seven dynasties that preceded the British victory in 1857. Their lives are more secure and there are more of them. That is about all! British justice has taken the place of absolutism of the old monarchs, who killed their enemies or those who offended them with less compunction than a farmer kills a hare.

New Delhi is a place of restrained magnificence. In its newness it resembles the new Australian capital, Canberra, with its low white office buildings, restricted residence and shopping areas, long vacant avenues and brand new trees in formal array. Its setting, however, has none of the dark spruce and mountain background of Canberra, but is bare and brown, a great plain where from remote antiquity Indian tribes and invaders from the north have fought for the riches of the land of Hindustan.

Victory Watch Tower.

To the south the great victory watch tower of Kutb Minar, founder of the Slave dynasty, rises dimly through the haze, like a giant redwood defying the storms of centuries. Closer by are the crumbling walls of forgotten cities. The site of one is said to be 5,000 years old. The battlements and kiosks of the six centuries old fort of Indrapat, the observatory of Raja Jai Singh, and in the direction of Old Delhi the red sandstone heights of Jama Masjid, the Great Mosque, link the New Delhi to the past in one sweep of vision.

Kingsway, 1,000 feet wide, is lined with trees and shallow waterways. It sweeps for a mile and a half from the war memorial arch to the Star of India monument and the black dome of the viceroy's palace, flanked by the white domes of the secretariat and the legislative chamber, a circular building with white columns like the Coliseum at Rome.

This building is half a mile in circumference and contains some of the most beautiful halls in India, carved and paneled in colored stone, with fretted stone screens safeguarding the galleries for the purdah women.

East and West Architecture.

The west is wedded to the east in architecture. Here are offices where the earlier "lords of the world" built harems, baths, marble balconies, and fountains of perfumed water. Many of the palace rooms are underground for purposes of coolness. Spread over the plain are the offices and homes of the members of the government, the palace for the army commander, the viceregal estates, the low white bungalows for staff and servants, and even a grass farm for the army horses.

Justice in these days is more complicated affair in the days of Shah Jahan. That Flame of the Faith sat on a marble platform, under a canopy of jeweled stone and rose covered marble and decided the fate of his subjects. He then retired to a low white marble pavilion where perfumed waters flowed and music soothed him and talked with his nobles or played with the ladies of the harem, whose rooms were conveniently nearby.

A cascade of water flowed over pools where flowers were set in niches. There was a rose bath for his mistress, a balcony of carved marble where his wives could sit and look down upon an amphitheater where wild elephants were kept for their amusement. Across one end of this marble pavilion is the Arabic inscription:

"If there be a paradise on earth, this is it, this is it."

Jewels and Throne Gone.

Now the jewels are torn from the walls and ceilings, the flowers are fading, and the peacock throne is gone. The bugles of British soldiers sound behind the high red walls of the great fort that failed to protect the "lord of the world" from the Persian hordes, as the older walls of the older Delhi failed to keep out the British centuries later. Forms change, kings go out of fashion, democracy arises.

There has been no change, however, in the form or conduct of the Great Mosque. The pilgrims still climb its 78 steps every Friday in the hot sun of summer and the chill of winter to pray on the flagstones with faces turned toward Mecca.

The single red hair of the Prophet is just as potent as ever. Hindus are allowed to gaze from afar. The faithful kneel before the high priest, an acre or two of humanity, cleansed of impure dust, listening in bare halls to ancient words.

Mosque Is Bare.

The Mohammedans worship no sacred cows or golden images. Their mosque is bare except for the rich wall carvings. They have no use for the 70,000 gods of Hinduism, the strange, symbolic writhing figures of animals and men that have such a hold on the humble populace. There are 70,000,000 Moslems in India and they have great hopes of a pan-Islam movement.

The British are convinced that this sword will lift again if their paramount power is removed. It makes a good talking point for delay, at least, and so far the Mohammedans have not agreed to trust their civil rights to the Hindus under the new democracy which is now being born.

Magician to Appear at Cooking School

N. SIDE SCHOOL OF COOKERY TO OPEN TOMORROW

Mrs. Ida Chitwood Offers New Culinary Magic.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S School of Cookery will open tomorrow afternoon for its third and final week in the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue. Prominent stage and radio stars will entertain in accompaniment with clicking spoons and swishing egg beaters.

South and west side women who, at the first cooking school a year ago, hailed Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood as a maker of culinary magic, have been out in record numbers these last two weeks to learn the art of cookery from Mrs. Chitwood and to be entertained by actors and singers. The third week's program,

Program Begins at 1.

Phil Maxwell, master of ceremonies, has arranged the daily programs, beginning at 1 o'clock, so the women attending will be homeward bound at 4:45—in time to try out their new recipes on the family for dinner. Opening with an hour of entertainment the program continues with a short introductory talk by Miss Mary Meade, cooking editor of THE TRIBUNE, followed by an hour's lecture and demonstration by Mrs. Chitwood. After a short intermission there is to be more entertainment and a second lecture by Mrs. Chitwood.

Billy Bryant, the middle west's Will Rogers, and Clyde Shafer, super portrayer of the villain of the flowing mustached and whip cracking variety, both appearing in the Showboat company's production of "Hamlet" at the Cort theater, together with Carl Moore, famed hog calling champ and orchestra leader, are the funmakers on tomorrow's program.

Merrymakers on Program.

Ben Barnia of the College Inn, Donald Meek, of "Of Thee I Sing," and Dr. Harlan Tarbell, the smiling magician, are merry makers who will appear at the following sessions.

The program tomorrow will open with community singing conducted by Frank Bennett, director of the former Allerton Glee club, the group that won honors at the 1932 Chicagoland Musical Festival. Mrs. Bennett will play the accompaniments. Harry Phillips and Ruth Streeter, the Cooking School Sweethearts who were married after meeting at the school last year, will sing a group of duets.

Ed Smith, W-G-N announcer of the "Painted Dreams" radio feature, will appear, and Lawrence Salerno, baritone, another favorite son of W-G-N, will contribute one of his picturesque Neapolitan ballads. Dainty dancers of the Betty Jones School of Dancing will present, in rhythmic measures, a birthday cake with two candles to THE TRIBUNE on its second cooking school anniversary.

COMMUTERS URGED TO HELP FEED HUNGRY SCHOOL CHILDREN

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

This is a reminder to all the commuters as they read THE TRIBUNE on their way to work this morning, ready to begin another week in a loop office or shop.

Be thankful you have a job and that you can hang on to the strap and be jostled every weekday morning. And express that thankfulness, if you can, by giving the Hungry School Children's fund a lift. Not necessarily a great deal in these times. But what you can spare—a dollar, or five, or a penny or two.

Today 15,000 children are going to school hungry. Could you spare 5 cents to feed a small child, or 15 cents for a junior or high school pupil? If 15,000 commuters gave that small amount every school day the hungry school children problem would be solved.

These gifts of yours may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE. This special fund was founded a year ago and last winter readers contributed more than $48,000, thus feeding daily 10,000 pupils in 209 public schools. To date nearly $11,000 has been raised this year. Thousands more dollars are needed.

Stop a COLD the First Day!

Taken Promptly, this Four-Way Remedy Will Usually Stop a Cold the First Day and Save You Much Suffering as Well as the Danger of Serious Complications!

The time to stop a cold is before it gets started. Once a cold fastens its grip on you, it becomes twice as hard to remove. And a cold lodged in the system may lead to something worse.

Don't hope to kill a cold with merely local or external applications. A cold is a germ attack, an internal infection and, as such, calls for internal treatment.

Don't hope to kill a cold, either, with anything except a COLD remedy. A cure-all is self-deception. Many preparations which people commonly take for a cold actually make the relief of a cold more difficult because these preparations are constipating and also make the system acid.

The Required Effects

The thing to take for a cold or case of grippe is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine—because it does the four things necessary, in the way that is necessary.

First of all, it opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly—the first step in knocking a cold. Secondly, it kills the cold germs in the system, expels the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Thirdly, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourthly, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

This is the treatment a cold calls for—adequate and decisive.

Harmless, but Effective!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine may be taken with utter safety by young and old. It contains no narcotics and produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate or make the head ring or swim.

In dainty tablet form, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is convenient and pleasant to take, as well as effective. Comes in handy, pocket size boxes, cellophane-wrapped and is sold by every drug store in America.

When you feel a cold coming on, take a few of the tablets immediately. This will usually expel the cold overnight and prevent the infection from spreading within the system. Ask distinctly for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine and resent a substitute as an imposition.

Her intestines were 'tired'

ASK ANY DOCTOR . . . he knows of hundreds of women just like her. Always tired. Never able to finish the simplest tasks before a headache sets in.

What causes such suffering? Is it overwork? Today doctors know that in a great many cases the real cause is . . . constipation!

For intestines get "tired." They can't throw off accumulated wastes regularly. And as a result, poisons spread all through the system. You feel the effects in listlessness . . . often in headaches, indigestion, "nerves."

So famous doctors warn: Strike at the root of headaches. But not with cathartics. Harsh, violent laxatives gradually weaken the muscles of the intestines . . . make bad matters still worse.

Instead, doctors say, eat yeast—Fleischmann's Yeast. That's the safe way.

Yeast, you know, is a food that actually strengthens the intestinal muscles . . . gives them new life . . . restores their action to normal. At the same time it softens the waste materials that clog your intestines . . . makes it easy to expel them each day.

It's really so easy. Just ask for Fleischmann's Yeast, and eat it, regularly, 3 cakes a day. You can get it at grocers, restaurants and soda fountains, and each cake is rich in vitamins B, G and D. Directions are printed on the label.

SHIP WRECKED BY ARCTIC GALE; 13 OF CREW DIE

Hurricane Hits Freighter in Caribbean.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Thirteen members of the crew of the British trawler Golden Deeps perished today when the ship grounded in an Arctic gale off Breivikbotn, in extreme northern Norway, the Oslo Morgenposten reported. The paper said that the captain and three members of the crew were rescued.

Fails to Find Ship in Distress.

COLON, C. Z., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The liner Ariguani went to the rescue today of the Blue Funnel line freighter Phemius, in distress as the result of hurricane damage, 150 miles east of Nicaragua, but was unable to locate her. The Ariguani, however, reported that she would stand by during the night despite the heavy seas in the locality given by the Phemius.

The distress call from the Phemius, a British ship of 7,615 tons bound for Hongkong, said she was hit by a hurricane 255 miles north of here and 150 miles east of Cope Gracias a Dios, northeast tip of Nicaragua. The message said that the ship's funnel had been blown away and that four holds were filling with water.

Schooner Disabled.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The American schooner Abundance was wrecked today off Morant Point, the eastern extremity of Jamaica.

The vessel was bound for Turks island from Barbados. During the voyage she lost her rudder and, because of high winds, was trying to get into Port au Prince when she was wrecked on rocks. The crew of six was saved.

Locates Hurricane Center.

HAVANA, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Belen observatory late tonight said the center of a tropical hurricane lashing the Caribbean was probably 90 miles east northeast of Cape Gracias a Dios, Nicaragua. The observatory was unable to chart the course, but said it probably would be determined tomorrow. Whether the storm will endanger Cuba also was uncertain.

Damage Heavy in Colombia.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Belated dispatches from Santa Marta, Colombia, report that several houses were flooded, docks were damaged and traffic paralyzed by a hurricane Thursday and Friday. The storm was accompanied by a violent rainfall which washed out railway tracks. It was feared the damage in the banana zone, with which communication was interrupted, was heavy. Storm damage also was reported at Barranquilla.

Tows Crippled Steamer.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The American steamer Caracas radioed the coast guard station here tonight she had in tow the steamer Tachira, whose engines broke down earlier today. The Tachira's passengers were reported to have been taken aboard the Caracas. The Tachira had reported her position when disabled as approximately 550 miles east of Jacksonville, Fla.

BRITISH CABINET FACES CRISIS ON DISARM SCHEME

Members Split Over War Plane Ban.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The atmosphere in political circles still is permeated with rumors of a sharp division of the cabinet over disarmament, particularly armed air forces.

Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon's belated departure for Geneva forms one of the outward pieces of evidence on which the reports are pegged. Some sources have the cabinet near a schism, others are more cautious in dealing with the delay in drafting the British disarmament proposals to be presented on resumption of the conference at Geneva.

Says Cabinet Widely Split.

Writing in the Sunday Times, Wickham Steed, well known British political observer, asserts that the cabinet is widely split. He describes the differences of opinion over aerial armaments as likely to lead to a trial of strength between the battling factions, led in the direction of disarmament by Simon and against any tampering with the Royal Air Force by the Tory members of parliament, who have at least the tacit approval of Lord Londonderry, secretary of state for air.

Steed says the cabinet and the disarmament subcommittee have been debating three issues during recent frequent sessions. They were introduced by Simon, who is unwilling to return to Geneva empty handed.

Would Abolish War Planes.

Simon is reputed to support the suppression, or at least radical reduction and control, of bombing and fighting aircraft of all nations, formation of an international body to supervise civil aircraft to prevent their possible conversion to military purposes, and registration of "private planes so that civilian reserves will not be built up on the sly."

Opposition to the first two proposals has gained headway in parliament in the last few weeks, Steed asserts. It is led by Tories, who have whooped up the idea that the cabinet cannot commit itself to any disarmament proposals until they have first been approved by the house of commons.

THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR CHICAGO

1. Cut taxes in half.
2. Pay the defaulted bonds.
3. Overcome crime.
4. Speed up railroad passenger service.
5. Make Chicago the first city in the world.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE BOND ISSUE.

There is no doubt that the voters of Cook county should approve the proposed 20 million dollar state bond issue for poor relief. If the bonds are not authorized the already excessive taxes on real estate and other property in Cook county will be increased by 6 or 8 per cent. At a time when almost half the taxes due in Cook county are unpaid and tens of thousands of property owners do not know where to look for the money with which to pay, any addition to the tax levies is unthinkable.

But that is all that can be said for the bond issue. The choice presented to the voters is a choice between evils. If the bonds are voted the repayment and the interest charges will be met by the counties' share of the gasoline taxes. Cook county, which received 91 per cent of the relief fund, will have to repay 91 per cent of the loan with interest, and the money for the service of the loan will be deducted from the funds which motorists pay for the construction and upkeep of the roads in the county. As a result of the deductions Cook county's motorists will continue to suffer financial loss from delays and accidents.

The Illinois gasoline tax is a tax of 3 cents a gallon. Two cents go into the state road fund and are spent by the state road administration. In spite of the fact that nearly half the automobiles and much more than half of the automobile traffic of the state is in Cook county and its immediate environs a negligible proportion of the state's road money has been spent in this area.

A half hearted effort was made to give Cook county a little road money when the gasoline tax was increased from 2 to 3 cents. The third cent was to be redistributed among the counties in proportion to the number of automobiles registered in the various counties. The tax yields about four million dollars a year to Cook county, which, incidentally, is considerably less than a third of the gasoline taxes paid in Cook county. The four million is the widow's ewe lamb. It is all that Cook county motorists can be sure of having spent for their benefit out of the 20 million dollars which Cook county motorists contribute each year. The rest is distributed, for the most part, at the discretion of the state highway authorities, and that discretion in the past has been exercised against the metropolitan area. Thus, it is estimated that in 1931 47 per cent of the money paid in motor taxes in Cook county went downstate to build roads that a Chicago motorist seldom, if ever, sees. If the bond issue is approved the motorists of Cook county will, of course, get even less for their money.

The principle which this bond issue presents may be phrased somewhat as follows: A Chicagoan is a citizen of Illinois when it comes to paying taxes for the benefit of downstate communities, but when a Chicagoan is in need of relief he has no claim upon the state as a whole. What he gets must be taken from the funds collected for road building in his county.

If Cook county had only a fraction of the money which has been taken from it and squandered on unnecessary roads downstate the county would have no difficulty in financing the care of its unfortunate. The bond issue proposal disregards this aspect of the matter and disregards the fact that it is Cook county and not the rural regions of the state which today is in greatest need of highway improvements. The scheme was adopted because the downstate representatives would assent to no other more equitable plan for feeding the hungry. When Cook county voters mark their ballots in favor of the bond issue they will do so in the conviction that they are victims of an extortionist plot.

NO, ON THE GATEWAY AMENDMENT.

THE TRIBUNE believes that any effort to amend the fundamental laws of Illinois is inadvisable in existing circumstances. There is no question that the state constitution requires revision, but we are passing at this time through a period of abnormal stress and confusion. Pressures which have nothing to do with constitutional restrictions are ascribed to them. There is much uncritical demand for change for its own sake. The impatient idealist, the unpractical theorist, the charlatan and demagogue are taking advantage of suffering and discontent to press for ill advised measures. Public thought has not settled down to calm consideration of realities and enduring principles. In this situation fundamentals are obscured or thrust aside.

There are not the requirements of wise reconsideration upon basic questions of law and government. The result of agitation for amendments would include an unnecessary amount of blundering and shortsighted legislation. The wise course is to wait until our economic, social and political conditions have become more natural to our character as a people, less troubled and perverted by temporary pains and difficulties, and we are free to think out our constitutional needs with calmness and perspective. Such postponement will not involve great delay and it will pay in the avoidance of many costly mistakes. We recommend, therefore, that the gateway amendment be not adopted at this time.

WHERE VOTES COUNT ON PROHIBITION.

On the eve of the election there should be again the reminder that national prohibition is at stake in the congressional district elections. It is an oddity of the campaign that a major issue is on a minor note. Four years ago the national candidates, although Al Smith was one of them, trod softly because they thought that downrightness would be impolitic. Now the question is washed out of the national election because in it prohibition has only Mr. Upshaw as a friend.

No Republican or Democratic candidate for congress can be elected to a place on Capitol hill and there vote against the resubmission of national prohibition in one form or another if he pays any attention to the pledge of his national party, but we have seen party pledges and party lines go to pieces before in congress. Mr. Hoover has stepped beyond his party platform. Mr. Roosevelt needs only to stand by his. The essential difference is that a Democrat is pledged to repeal the eighteenth amendment, meanwhile voting to give the country beer, and the Republican is pledged to submit a modification retaining for the federal government the responsibility of preventing the return of the saloon in any state, while giving the states control otherwise of the question.

That modification has the fault of keeping an undesirable federal function alive. It may be regarded as a fault or a virtue that the function couldn't work. When congress has defined the difference between a saloon and a restaurant the lawyers may laugh and the states will do as they please. The Republican amendment to the eighteenth amendment will be another vermiform appendix in the constitution, but its practical use may be found in the probability that it will unite more moderate minded people, sentimentally at least, than can find common ground in an outright repeal.

But in no case is the question decided in the presidential election. It is in the congressional district. It is in the will and good faith of the individual congressman.

HIRED MONEY AND NEW ENGLAND.

The New England states have declined to take any money from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. One reason suggested for this is the New England character, which does not believe that going in debt is the way to get out of it. Another is the self-reliance and self-sustaining quality which has been traditionally associated with the down east folk. It is true that the old stock has been modified by other strains, including French-Canadian and admixtures from hard working regions of Europe, but certain characteristics still prevail. It is probably also true that even a great depression does not make much of a hole in the New England hills. Many of the rugged people are so accustomed to hard scrabble that they can look hard times in the face and recognize only one of the minor tribulations of a life which is not intended to be soft at any time.

None of the New England states is very high in the list of income tax producers, nor is any found leaning very heavily on the ordinary federal subsidies. Old Vermont comes most nearly to getting back in federal largess what it pays in federal taxes. These hard-shelled boys paid $1,750,000 in 1931 and got back $1,240,000, which is doing pretty well. But Massachusetts paid nearly 99 millions and received only four, which compares favorably with Illinois, which paid 190 millions and got back eight. There is, of course, for the maritime parts of the section a substantial and in a large part wasteful use of navy department funds, but every seaport, Atlantic or Pacific, wants a part of the navy. New Hampshire's twenty or thirty miles of seacoast enables Portsmouth, for instance, to keep alive on navy yard appropriations and not become merely a charming collection of old houses and a monument to Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

It can be noted as a curiosity that the only section of the country which the preelection polls indicated to be in the administration list was this division of New England states which have not taken any preelection handouts from the Reconstruction corporation. California has been favored with the most diligent government care and fostered with the lavish hand of the treasury, but all the outpourings of dole and subsidy seem not to have earned a nickel's worth of political gratitude. It has been observed as one of the features of the campaign, for whatever it may be of use as admonition in the future, that where the most has been done the least has been returned in political gratitude. The rule seems to be: The larger the donation, the larger the grouch. Santa Claus can never live up to the expectations of him.

At the risk of romantic error, however, it seems possible to pay a little tribute to the self-reliance and self-respect of the New England character. Nature isn't prodigal with it and apparently it does not expect anything else to be.

Editorial of the Day

VIRGINIA MOTOR FUEL TAX.

(New Orleans Times-Picayune.)

Virginia has been taking an account of her tax sources and finds that the state's greatest means of revenue during the last fiscal year was the impost on "motor fuel," which in our land is virtually synonymous with gasoline. The state's income from that source for the year ending June 30 was $11,521,160, which was 25.34 per cent of the state's entire revenue for the period. This compares with $10,879,514, or 22.24 per cent, during the previous twelve months. While the gasoline tax return was climbing to new heights, despite the depression, the state's total taxation income fell by roundly three and a half million dollars.

Nor is that the whole of the picture of the state's imposition on the motorists. While the gas tax ran, as above stated, to 25.34 per cent of the total and held first place as a revenue source, Virginia's second tax fountain was closely akin, for it derived from motor vehicle and chauffeurs' licenses, with a return of $6,051,874.62, this being 13.31 per cent of the state's tax total. Therefore the motorists of Virginia paid in those two items 38.65 per cent of the commonwealth's support. This second item also increased to its 13.31 from the previous year's 12.80 per cent.

As compared with this gas tax growth during depression the corporation tax dropped from 4.22 per cent the previous year to 3.78 per cent during the last fiscal year, and the federal individual income tax likewise slumped from 4.19 per cent to 3.75 per cent.

It is plain, therefore, that, regardless of hard times and other losses, the Virginian clung to his motor vehicle and even increased his use of that "necessity."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Here to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THEY'RE GOING TO LET Postoffice Jack Garner make a campaign address after all, and today he's slated to speak before the Texas legislature at Austin. That seems safe enough; Texas is pretty far away and legislators usually sleep during speeches and there'll be no broadcast of the speech and the election's tomorrow. We don't care what Mr. Garner says down there, we still think Texas will go Democratic.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW hints darkly he may come to America for his first visit next year, although he has often said he would never risk his neck in this country. He refuses to discuss the plans for his trip on the grounds that "it might disorganize the United States." George will be surprised when he gets over here to find out how many people never heard of him.

LOST IN CITY STREETS.

And now November brusquely settles down
Upon the dreaming gardens born of June.
Endearing Autumn flees; her lovelorn rune
Can comfort me no more. So to the town
I take my way, and try to find surcease
From agonies of one who loved too well
The full-blown Summer, one who knew the spell
Of crooning rivers and the woodland peace.
But in the city there is naught to heal;
The glaring lights, the clatter of the streets,
Benumb my senses. Still my proud hearts beats
In loyalty to things of old-time weal.
My soul was made for gardens, field, and glen,
And I must wait till they are mine again.

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

A RICH MAN'S WILL in Philadelphia makes a bequest of a yearly sum for the wives of Presidents of the United States. The man who makes the will says this is done "because the President receives such a miserable pittance for a man holding the greatest position on earth." Well, it may be, but if we had a job paying seventy-five thousand bucks a year and five hundred thousand berries overhead we would feel that our wife ought to be able to keep out of the poorhouse for two or three months after we got out of office.

"TEN THOUSAND Watch Corn Husking Contest."—Headline. Well, well! Are they still husking that stuff?

THA B. AN C. NEEDS A SWELL WINTER OUTFIT.

So then she asks me if I'm gonna answer her an I seys there aint no use cause tha reply I gotta dispense might be tha cause of her throwing the geranium at my cranium. Said geranium was a gift from me to her when Joan was born, or was it Mary? (No, it was Burton.) Ennyway I oughta get my head examined fer ever giving her a gift that she cood use as a weapon, tha more I see of that flower pot tha more I think that I might just as well of given her a pick-axe. Next year she's either gonna get a window sponge or a ostrich plume. Tha whole cause of tha B. an C.'s tantrum is that she puts it to me cold turkey that I got to raise enough dough to buy her a swell new winter outfit. It was only last year that I bought her a pair of galoshes an a new snow-shovel an now she's got tha crust to tell me she needs a new cloth-coat, a tailored suit, a hat an some shoes. In my usual sweet manner I inquires as to just how many sheckles this trousseau wood put one in arrears an she figgers close to 85 bucks. Just this minute if I cood get close enough to 30c I'd steal it an buy me a pair of warm sox. When I tells her that $85 is tha interest on $1,500 fer a whole year she says that the only interest she has at present is to get what she wants when she wants it. She's already looked in 3 of our best stores an when I suggests her looking around in a goverment army store she's fit to be tied. Seems to me tha goverment purchasing agents must of over-bought fer tha last year espeshelly equipment like plaid neckties, polo uniforms an fishing tackle. A army store what I was in last week was even serving hamburger sandwiches. I didn' buy any cause I figgered tha meat coodn' be much good after 14 yrs. Ennyway I got a swell job on my hands tryin to raise $85. A friend of mine suggested writin to tha R. F. C. but these smart cookies don't give you their address, they don't even give their full names. Another guy suggests gettin a piece of pipe and sockin some guy on tha bean, now this is foolish in Chgo cause its too damn hard to tell who is a citizen, with my luck I'd be pickin out some yegg with a machine gun in his coat pocket. Yesterday I figger my problem is all solved cause who shood I run into but a old buddy who is supposed to have cleaned up 2 million smackers in tha stock market an I figgers 85 bucks wood just be eigaret money to him, well I ask about his health an how his family is an a lotta other bull an all this time I'm trying to get up my nerve to make tha touch when he says Duke, I've got a little favor I'd like to have you do an I says I'd do anything in the world for you if you'll just let me know what it is. And what do you suppose he asks?

DUKE RAKRAK.

P. S.—"Cood you let me have 2 bits till Saturday?"

DOROTHY KIESLING.

IT'S ALL OVER after today and we'll be so glad when we can again tune in on the radio and, instead of horning into the middle of a frenzied political speech, hear somebody tell us what kind of tooth paste we ought to use that we'll burst into tears of joy and send out and buy a bushel of it.

PARATYPHOID.

M. F. writes: We have a case of paratyphoid in our home. We do not know how or where it was contracted. There is no other case in the village. As it is likely to infect others in many places this time of year, I believe many readers would be deeply interested if you would explain.

REPLY.

Paratyphoid fever is almost, but not quite, typhoid fever. It is caused by either of two varieties of paratyphoid bacilli, and these are first cousins of the typhoid bacillus. They stand about midway between this bacillus and another cousin, the colon bacillus. This is a large family, and amongst the kin people of it are several bacilli which cause food poisoning with diarrhea, vomiting, and fever.

Not only is the bacillus kin to that which causes typhoid fever, but the fevers produced by the cousins are almost exactly similar in their symptoms. In comparison, paratyphoid fever rises a little more rapidly, causes a little more diarrhea, and is a little less prone to cause hemorrhage and perforation. It is a rather milder disease and the chance of recovery is slightly better.

When the effect of the infection in the organs is investigated it is found that in typhoid the ulcers are principally in the lower end of the small intestine. In paratyphoid more of them are in the upper end of the large one. The two diseases are so very similar in symptoms that without laboratory tests, telling one from the other is just a guess, though some are better guessers than others.

Typhoid fever causes a positive Widal; paratyphoid, one that is negative or certainly atypical. But the best test is a blood culture. By this test a laboratory can say with certainty that a given case is typhoid, or that it is para.

If the fever is accompanied by a considerable amount of digestive disturbance that line of symptoms suggests that it is not typhoid but some variety of food poisoning. In these food poisoning fevers cultures show the cause to be Gartner's bacillus, or some one of several cousins to the typhoid and paratyphoid microbes.

The best method of prevention of paratyphoid is vaccination. Typhoid vaccine now includes typhoid bacilli and two paratyphoid ones, and is called triple vaccine.

In the earlier months of the world war the typhoid vaccine used contained typhoid only. In consequence, typhoid disappeared from the armies, but paratyphoid remained. Later on they used the triple vaccine, and, after that, there was neither typhoid nor paratyphoid. Our troops on the Rio Grande in 1916 were vaccinated against typhoid only, and they had some paratyphoid. In the world war triple vaccine was used on them.

The accessory methods of prevention used against typhoid are used in the control of paratyphoid. These are back door quarantine, disinfectants added to excretions, cleanliness, screening against flies, pasteurization or boiling of milk, especial protection of foods, avoidance of raw foods.

MILD CLIMATE AIDS.

J. R. K. writes: I am 53 years old. Eight years ago I had pneumonia and one year later I had a second attack. Since then I have been very shortwinded. I have been in a sanitarium, but the laboratories there have never reported any tubercle bacilli in my sputum. My physician tells me I have miner's phthisis and my lungs are full of iron. Would I be better off in another climate? What shall I do?

REPLY.

Probably living in a warm, dry climate near the sea level might contribute to your comfort and length of life. I do not know of anything else to suggest.

DEPENDS ON THE CAUSE.

P. J. S. writes:

1. I have a slight attack of yellow jaundice. I would like to know how long it will take before the yellow effects leave the body. I have had it about seven days already. I am a man 40 years old.

2. Is it a serious sickness? What is the cause?

REPLY.

1. If it is a simple disorder you should be unyellowed in about a month.

2. How serious this symptom is depends on the cause. If it is due to cancer it is very serious. If to gall stones, it is serious, but less so than when cancer is the cause. Jaundice due to malaria may be serious. Due to pernicious anemia, it is highly important. Acute catarrhal jaundice and diseases of that group are fairly important, but not necessarily serious. If the cause of the yellow discoloration is eating carrots, that is still less important.

OBEY YOUR PHYSICIAN.

A. B. K. writes: I am very nervous. I have been told by the doctor not to go places where there is excitement, not to climb stairs, etc. Some women told me not to pay any attention to this advice. Will you please tell me if it is my heart? I don't want to disobey the doctor's orders, nor do I want to be thought a quitter or a whiner. The doctor says I must lose weight and I am on a diet.

REPLY.

You will not get far disregarding the advice your physician gives you.

STOCKHOLDER'S LIABILITY.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a friend who traded for five shares in a bank in October, 1930, after the bank was in the hands of a receiver. He was told by the receiver that there could be no assessment on the stock if it was sold to him and that the liability, if any, would be against the seller and not the purchaser. Is that true?

P. G. K.

Sec. 6 of the chapter on banking in the Revised Statutes provides that "every stockholder in any bank or banking association organized under the provisions of this act shall be individually responsible and liable to its creditors, over and above the amount of stock by him or her held, to an amount equal to his or her respective shares so held, for all its liabilities accruing when he or she remains such stockholder." We see no basis for the receiver's opinion. We suggest that you ask him what authorities he relies on.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BUILDING AND LOAN.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Oct. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Would like some information regarding building and loan associations in Indiana. Payment is withheld on matured stock account the officers [1] claim they are not in position to pay and have not been for some time. 2. Could you tell me to whom I should write in Indianapolis to ask if the officers are within their legal rights in withholding payment? 3. I understand the Illinois building and loan companies cannot withhold payment when solvent.

M. D. S.

1. If any corporation or individual is unable to pay that is another way of saying that they cannot be forced to pay.

2. You might try writing to the state auditor.

3. Here again it is practically a truism that a person who is solvent can be forced to pay his debts.

LIMITATION THREE YEARS.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—On Aug. 8, 1924, I was injured by a train, but due to the fact that I was ignorant nothing was done about the matter. My doctor tells me that my brain is very much affected on account of my accident and I received seventeen stitches on my head. Can I start suit against the railroad after waiting this long?

F. G.

The limitation period on personal injuries sustained by adults is three years. Unless you can show mental disability such as to excuse the delay you would be barred. Even if the claim is not barred by delay you would not be entitled to recover unless you could show that the railroad company was to blame and that you were not to blame.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 7, 1916.

CHICAGO.—More than 906,000 voters, men and women, of Cook county are eligible to express their preference for public officials at the polls today. Of this number 807,000 are in Chicago, 9,000 in Cicero, and 90,000 in the country towns outside of Chicago and Cicero. The total registration after revison in Chicago was 808,119, of which 504,421 are men and 303,698 are women.

NEW YORK.—The curtain on one of the most hotly contested presidential campaigns in the history of the nation has been rung down. Chairman William R. Willcox of the Republican national committee in his final statement claims the election of Charles E. Hughes by a majority of not less than 100 in the electoral college. Approximately 17,000,000 voters will determine whether the affairs of the United States shall continue under the direction of Woodrow Wilson or be committed to administration by Charles Evans Hughes.

BERLIN.—In Rumania, southwest of Predeal, the invading Austro-German forces captured Laomu height, it is announced officially. Further progress was made southeast of Rothen Thurm pass. Rumanian attacks in the region of the Szurduk pass were repulsed.

PETROGRAD.—German forces several times assumed the offensive east of Lipitina-Doinaia and west of Sliaventin with the object of capturing the commanding heights occupied by the Russians. All the German attacks were frustrated by a violent Russian artillery and rifle fire. The battle is still going on. Heavy fighting occurred near Kirilibaba, in the Carpathians, on the border between Bukowina and Hungary, where the Austro-German forces were repulsed after a temporary success.

CHICAGO. — The long cherished dream of Poland — freedom — in the eyes of the Polish leaders of Chicago has come true. That the announcement issued jointly by the central powers of Europe was made in all good faith and sincerity was accepted as a fact at an overflow massmeeting of Poles at Walsh's hall, Noble street and Milwaukee avenue. Under the auspices of the Polish National Defense society, an enthusiastic meeting was held, and in response to pleas by several speakers a deluge of money poured into the heretofore feebly struggling fund of the society.

CHICAGO.—Rather than allow his son to wear, under threat, the little green cap of freshmandom, Morris S. Dean, vice president of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, withdrew Burt Dean from Northwestern university. Although it is the custom for freshmen to wear the cap, young Dean refused. Consequently he was treated to the Northwestern panacea for all first year ills, a ducking in Lake Michigan. When he did not appear the next day wearing the required cap he was again ducked in. "I would never permit my son to wear the cap under threat," said Mr. Dean, "and I don't care for him to go to a school with such kind of students."

CHICAGO.—The will of Ben Hogan, former pugilist and owner of "Hogan's flop," filed for probate, left $38,000 to relatives in the east.

A QUAKER AND THE PIRATES.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 29.—While listening to President Hoover's Indianapolis speech last night I was reminded again and again of a story told to us kids by my father, a stanch Quaker farmer in Iowa, some 50 years ago. If memory serves me rightly, the story ran something like this:

"An old Quaker carpenter and builder was taking a sea voyage in an old time sailing ship that was overtaken by pirates. The captain and crew prepared to give them a warm reception and armed themselves to the teeth. Not so the old Quaker carpenter. Fighting was against his principles and he positively refused to take any hand in it. But he did get out his tools and commenced work on a small repair job along the rail.

"Soon the pirates took to their boats and started to board the ship, and fighting took place fore and aft with fearful slaughter. Some pirates started to climb up the side where the old Quaker was working. He instantly seized a heavy broad axe and whenever an arm or head hove in sight along the rail down would come the axe with slashing effect, and at every blow the old Quaker would shout out, 'Take care, take care, thee'll get hurt. Can't thee see that I am working here?'"

Sounds as though Friend Herbie is working along the rail of the Republican ship.

F. E. BENEDICT.

UNCLE SAM AS JOB FINDER.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt [not Theodore] in his radio talk last night has pledged his administration to an extension of the employment exchanges of the federal government.

Will you permit me to call your attention to the fact that the government now operates employment exchanges and their last report shows that it costs the taxpayers $316.68 for each man, woman or child that said exchanges placed in a position, whether this position proved to be of one hour's or one week's duration? This was last year's report. I shudder to think what it is costing the taxpayers for 1932 to keep open the United States employment service, based on the cost of each applicant placed in a position. It will probably be around $400 for each man put to work at $10 per week for one week. This sounds ridiculous, but I venture to say it is true.

The federal operation of the employment exchanges becomes an absolutely useless thing during times like these, and an absolutely unnecessary thing in good times. The operation of the employment exchanges by the government represents a vicious combination of bureaucracy and communism. It means the absolute control of the distribution of labor and the strangulation of industry by politicians.

THIS MAY TURN THE TIDE.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—About 7 weeks ago the Democrats held a picnic at Riverview park which I attended, also holding one of their valuable prize tickets. I won second prize and that was supposed to be a beautiful $300 rug. They made such a fuss over the rug and bragged about it one would think you were getting the world with a fence around it. But the people who were there and heard them brag about it should see what I got—not a $300 rug, but some bargain basement kind. It certainly is a disgrace to the Democratic party. Why, if I was to put that on my floor it would ruin the floor, that's how coarse the rug is.

Of course, I didn't expect a $300 rug, but I did expect to get one at least valued at $100 or so. Every time I look at it I feel like sending it back and telling them to keep their $300 rug. Not that alone, but I had to spend a dollar trying to get it. So after five weeks I got it. Well, we unrolled it and called in some of our neighbors and friends to look at our $300 prize rug which the Democrats sent us. Well, you might know how they razzed the Democratic party for their bragging.

Anybody is welcome to view our $300 prize rug. It's on display in our basement. I also tried to talk to Mr. Sonnenschein, in charge of the prizes, concerning the rug, but every time I called he was out. I am from the 41st ward, 52d precinct.

COINCIDENCES.

La Salle, Ill., Nov. 3.—In betting on the election watch your O's and 2s. Double O's in Coolidge, Hoover, and Roosevelt. Democratic victories 1892, 1912, 1932—20 years apart. We have O's and 2's in Roosevelt's birth—Jan. 30, 1882. He is at present 50 years old. ITALIAN AMNESTY DECREE EMPTIES JAILS OF 5,000

Clips Terms of Political Offenders.

ROME, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Publication today of Italy's long awaited amnesty, which Premier Mussolini described as the "most liberal of all amnesties," revealed that it applies to thousands of prisoners other than political ones and holds out a shadow of hope of pardon for fugitives in foreign countries.

The main feature of the decree, signed last night by King Victor Emmanuel, is that all prisoners serving terms of less than five years are freed. It is estimated this will apply to more than 5,000 persons. Most of the principal political offenders of recent years, however, have received longer terms.

Excludes "Repeaters."

Repeating offenders and fugitives in other countries are excluded excepting those of the latter group who surrender to authorities within four months.

Three years are deducted from sentences of from five to ten years and five years from sentences exceeding ten years.

All offenders against tax laws are pardoned but must pay delinquent taxes before next Jan. 31. Offenders against compulsory military service also are pardoned providing they present themselves to authorities within four months.

Duce Lauds Decree.

Premier Mussolini accompanied the decree with a statement describing it as "equal in grandiosity to the events of the decennial [last month's celebration of the end of the first Facist decade] wherewith it is connected.

"The decennial commemorates not only a memorable event, but is a period of high spiritual fervor, economic reconstruction and political rebirth," he declared.

"With a tranquil and harmonious coördination of all activities assured, a new modern juridical order established, a rapid rhythm given every form of life and every category of work and the authority of the state reenforced internally and its prestige increased abroad, Italy appears today as the creator and initiator of a new phase of civilization," the premier said.

Pays Respects to King.

He reiterated devotion to the king with the conclusion addressed to him: "Victorious Italy gathers on foot around you, sire, in a single powerful will, a single impetus to action, waiting to resume the march."

The amnesty restored the right of freed prisoners to hold public office, lifted fines imposed simultaneously with prison sentences and condoned military offenses excepting treason, espionage and desertion.

Many early anti-Fascists are expected to be released, particularly the group which received and are serving five year sentences, although political prisoners are not mentioned in the decree. The Fascist council communique yesterday, however, definitely included them.

Terms of Generals Clipped.

The amnesty is expected to lift five years from the 30 year sentences of Gens. Copello and Zaniboni and Cesare Rossi, former Fascist grand council member and close companion of Mussolini in the early days of Fascism. They were convicted of attempting assassination of the premier.

The 15 year sentences of the Neapolitan poet, Mario Vinciguerra, and the Roman writer, Renzo Rendi, charged with circulating anti-Fascist pamphlets, are expected to be reduced five years.

The amnesty would lift a few days from the 5 year sentence of Mario Buda, friend of Sacco and Vanzetti, whose executions for murder in the United States resulted in widespread political agitation in many countries. Buda, charged with uttering statements against the Fascist régime, was to be released from the prison island of Ponza Nov. 20.

Hoot Fascist Deputy.

LYONS, France, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Deputy Giarratana of Italy was the object of an anti-Fascist demonstration here today. About 100 of his compatriots hooted at him. The police restored order and made five arrests.

ALUMNI BESIEGE HIGH SCHOOLS TO RESUME STUDIES

System Cannot Handle Them, Bogan Says.

Hundreds of boys and girls who want to return to Chicago's senior high schools for post-graduate work are being turned down because of the congestion in that branch of the school system, Supt. William J. Bogan revealed yesterday. The senior high school enrollment is 105,000, the largest in school history, and the seat shortage is 47,000.

"These boys and girls have been unable to find jobs because of the business depression," said Mr. Bogan, "and have decided to return to school until times are better. However, we don't have the teachers to handle the work nor do we have enough seats."

Handicap to Regular Pupils.

Mr. Bogan said that high school principals had been instructed not to allow the post-graduates to enroll. "We feel that they have already had their chance for high school education," he added. "If we took them it would mean a serious handicap to regular high school students."

In the current educational report of the United States department of the interior it is estimated that 100,000 jobless graduates have gone back to high school in the larger cities. Registration of graduates has increased 300 per cent in the last 10 years.

The estimates for the report are based on queries sent out by William John Cooper, United States commissioner of education. Many superintendents reported three and four times as many post-graduates in school this year than were enrolled a few years ago.

Committee Appeal Cited.

"The past year has witnessed a greater jump in the number of post-graduates in America's high schools than ever before, due, it is believed," the report said, "to a plea of the President's committee on unemployment relief for high school graduates to return for further study and to remain out of the job market during the business lull."

In high schools in some of the cities where staffs are low, alumni are used as secretaries, assistants to teachers with large classes, assistant coaches, or as helpers in janitorial or lunchroom service, in an endeavor, the report said, "to make the former students 'assets' instead of 'liabilities' to the school budget."

TALKS 30 MINUTES TO INTRODUCE MAN; FINDS SPEAKER GONE

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Clyde Vinson's 30 minute speech of introduction before a Democratic "vote the ticket straight" meeting neared conclusion.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen," he said, "it is my privilege to introduce the speaker of the evening, the Hon. Thomas L. Blanton, congressman from Abilene, Tex., who will address you."

Mr. Vinson looked about for the fiery representative from the Clear Forks of the Brazos. But Mr. Blanton had left his seat and the assembly room in a huff five minutes before, asserting the introductory address was too lengthy.

So the meeting was over.

SEEK TO RECOVER $1,000,000 FOR BANK DEPOSITORS

Receiver for N. W. Trust Files Claim in Court.

Judge Robert E. Gentzel of the Superior court will be asked today to decide whether the transfer of $1,000,000 of assets of the North Western Trust and Savings bank, now in receivership, to the North Western Securities company, an associated corporation, was legal.

In effect, the question at issue is whether the assets of the North Western Securities company belong to the stockholders of the bank, which was closed on June 10, 1931, or to the bank depositors. The securities affiliate is operated by former officers of the bank as trustees for the bank stockholders. The transfer of assets was made six months before the bank's closing.

Calls Transfer Illegal.

A petition filed Saturday by David E. Shanahan, receiver of the bank, stated that Mr. Shanahan had been informed by the state's attorney's office that this transfer of assets and a reduction of indebtedness of the securities company to the bank were illegal because they were accomplished without consideration to the bank.

The receiver further alleged that if the $1,000,000 of assets transferred had been properly accounted for on the bank's books there would have been no funds available to pay dividends of $25,000 on Jan. 1, 1931, and that under the Illinois banking laws the dividend payment was illegal. The same claim is made in regard to a $15,000 dividend to bank stock holders on April 1, 1931.

Benefit of Depositors.

Altogether Mr. Shanahan is requesting that Judge Gentzel order a total of $1,170,354—paper assets and cash—turned over to him for the benefit of the depositors of the North Western bank. This sum is made up of the $1,000,000 of transferred assets; $120,354 which, it is alleged, was the reduction in the indebtedness made by the bank for the benefit of the North Western Securities company; $10,000 which the securities company collected on a loan that was in the transferred $1,000,000 and retained for its own uses, and the $40,000 in dividends. The last item is sought from bank stockholders; the remainder from the securities company and its officers.

The involved story of the transfer of the $1,000,000 from the bank to the securities affiliate is detailed in the petition of Mr. Shanahan. The document stated that on Nov. 28, 1930, the bank directors authorized a reduction in the capital stock of the institution from $1,250,000 to $625,000. Also, the directors at the same time made the transfer of the $1,000,000 of assets, called "slow and undesirable," to the securities concern.

Writes Off $1,000,000.

By reducing the capital stock $625,000 and taking $375,000 from the undivided profits account the $1,000,000 was thus written off as bank assets and the North Western Securities company became the owner. It was stated that the securities company had assets of $1,000,000—of a sort—and its liabilities were all to the bank stockholders. This arrangement was approved by vote of the stockholders.

On Jan. 13, 1931, the North Western Trust and Savings bank increased its capital stock from $625,000 to $1,000,000 and offered its stockholders the right to purchase an additional 3,750 shares, prorated according to their holdings then, at $200 a share.

The petition of Mr. Shanahan stated that in the transfer of assets from bank to securities company the latter received $379,645 in notes and mortgages of persons other than the securities company. At that time the securities affiliate owed the bank $170,000.

Debt Is Settled.

This debt was settled by allowing the securities company to take back its own note and to issue obligations to the amount only of $49,645. Thus the round million figure was reached and the securities company's indebtedness to the bank slashed by $120,355.

It was admitted in the petition that while Assistant State's Attorney Henry E. Ayres regarded the transactions between bank and affiliated company as illegal, other legal experts were of opinion that no illegality had occurred. The North Western Securities company is now also in the hands of a receiver, who has refused to admit that the depositors have any claims against the transferred $1,000,000 of assets. Judge Gentzel is requested to inform Mr. Shanahan what he should do.

BEGIN HEARINGS THIS WEEK ON SEAWAY TREATY

Parley Likely to Be Held in Chicago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Hearings on the treaty providing for joint construction of the St. Lawrence waterway by the United States and Canada are scheduled to begin this week with the return to Washington of Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee.

Senator Borah is scheduled to reach Washington Wednesday and a meeting of the special subcommittee appointed to study the St. Lawrence project will be held that same day. It is likely the first witnesses will not be heard before Thursday or Friday.

Opposition Develops.

Prior to Senator Borah's departure for his home last summer, he announced that all interested parties would have a chance to be heard, either for or against the treaty. He stated at that time that hearings will be held in New York and most likely also in Chicago.

At the Chicago hearings special attention would be accorded to that section of the treaty which places a special limitation on the amount of water which flows through the Chicago sanitary canal.

Vigorous opposition to senate ratification of the treaty already has developed. Indications today were that the opposition will be centered around the section permitting Canadian authority over Lake Michigan to the extent of limiting the Chicago water diversion, the power features of the half billion dollar project, and the divisions of cost between the United States and Canada.

Couzens Sees Fight Over Treaty.

As the treaty is now written it provides that the United States should pay the major portion of the cash still to be expended on the St. Lawrence development. It does not make specific arrangement for the disposition of the power, although the treaty was framed on the assumption that New York state would be given a monopoly of the power developed along the New York boundary in the St. Lawrence. The New York state power authority has taken the position the power installations should be turned over to New York state for around $75,000,000.

Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, predicted that the St. Lawrence treaty will have "very rough sledding" when it goes before the senate for ratification.

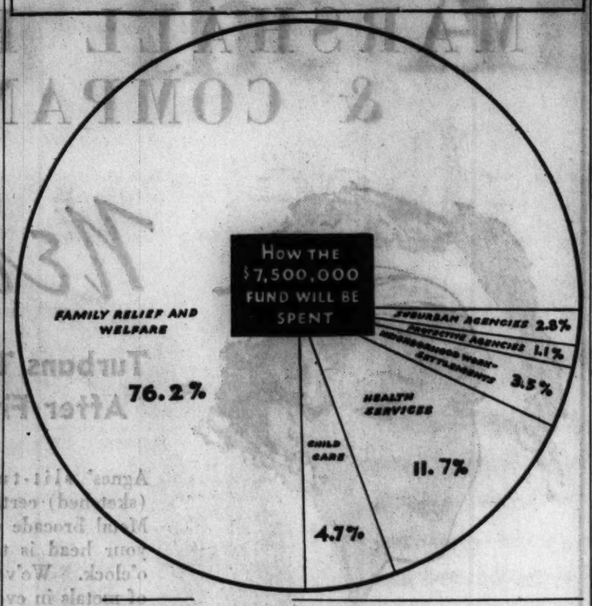
WHERE WELFARE FUND WILL GO



Division Is Explained

The Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook County, Inc., which is raising $7,500,000 to be spent for welfare work other than jobless relief this winter, yesterday announced how it proposes to spend that sum. More than $1,500,000 has been gathered in a preliminary drive for large subscriptions. The public campaign is to be opened on Nov. 14, according to Robert A. Gardner, director of the drive.

The largest part of the fund, 76.2 per cent, is to be spent for family relief and welfare. The agencies through which that sum will be spent have been giving relief to an average of 15,000 families a month. Health services, through hospitals and clinics, will receive 11.7 per cent of the fund. Those services last year provided an average of 146,600 days of free hospital care and an average of 295,000 free clinic visits.

Child care agencies are to receive 4.7 per cent. An average of 5,272 children are being cared for each month by that group. Thirty-one neighborhood work organizations and settlements will receive 3.5 per cent. Suburban and other miscellaneous agencies and funds will receive 2.8 per cent. They care for an average of 5,833 families each year. Protective agencies which took care of 102,000 persons last year will receive the remaining 1.1 per cent of the welfare fund.

ALLEGED TRAFFIC LIGHT BANDIT IS SHOT BY POLICE

Frank Stachura, 21 years old, an alleged stoplight bandit, was shot three times and seriously wounded yesterday when he tried to escape from policemen who went to the home of his parents at 1507 Dickson street to arrest him.

Stachura was charged with participating with Stanley Dussa, 35 years old, 1350 Holt street, who is now a prisoner in the county jail, in holdups of motorists stopped late at night by traffic lights. Policemen William Stahle, John O'Gara, and William Sife of the Racine avenue station learned that he was at his parents' home and went there to arrest him.

SWEDEN ACTS TO TAKE CONTROL OF ARMS INDUSTRY

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 6.—The Swedish government has ordered an immediate inquiry into the possibility of controlling the arms industry of this country. A committee of three has been appointed to consider placing effective restrictions on the private manufacture and exportation of war materials and to investigate the possibility of transforming the arms industry into a state monopoly. In the government's view a move in this direction would be an effective contribution toward solving the disarmament problem.

GILDA GRAY'S FATHER DIES IN COUNTY HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Max Michalski, 63 year old father of Gilda Gray, the shimmy dancer, whom she called the cause of all her annoyances, died today in the county home. The dancer caused him to be put there a month ago after she had returned to the county $98 poor relief, which she said he had asked the county for just to annoy her.

The daughter's success as a muscle dancer, friends said, was the ruination of her father. Not from embarrassment, but from pride. They said he took up the profession of being "Gilda Gray's father" in the neighborhood saloons and cafés and as folk at first seemed glad to buy him drinks, his appetite grew.

Ordered to County Farm.

Judge Michael S. Sheridan in ordering him to the county farm found severe fault with him, declared his daughter always had helped him and that he had not treated her as a parent should.

Michalski became sick with pneumonia about a week ago. He got worse Saturday and another daughter, Mrs. Josephine Sielecki and his grandson, Martin Gorecki, visited him. Gilda Gray, the dancer, is now appearing in Springfield, Mass. She was notified of her father's death.

Michalski came to Wisconsin from Germany when a young man and had lived most of the time in Cudahy. With his daughter's rise in the theatrical world, he became a conspicuous figure about the cafés and occasionally about the courts on minor accusation.

Daughter Gets Bill.

His receipt of poor relief from the county this summer did not square with the public idea of the situation the father of a presumably right and successful daughter should occupy. There were complaints and the daughter was billed with his cost to the county.

She was here in September for a theatrical appearance and her father was brought into county court when Judge Sheridan sent him to the county farm for care. Mrs. Sielecki and Gilda Gray are his only surviving children.

This Office Seeks the Man!

The Auditor of Public Accounts is a Business Executive of the great corporation of the State of Illinois. This office seeks an incumbent who has proven his fitness for the job, who has successfully solved similar problems, who has established an outstanding record in public office, who has demonstrated his fitness for this job by the way he has handled the present office of STATE TREASURER which the people of Illinois entrusted to him two years ago.

This Man Is Fitted for the Office

Although banks were closing their doors all over the state, Mr. Barrett, completing his term as STATE TREASURER, may justly be proud that not one cent of state funds under his control were lost through such closing—a testimony to his judgment and watchfulness. The State Treasury is richer by over $1,750,000 in interest he collected and turned over. He has shown a remarkable grasp of the business essentials of the office of STATE TREASURER—an office which is a logical prelude to the duties of Auditor of Public Accounts. His honesty, good faith, ability, efficiency and undivided attention to the duties of the office of STATE TREASURER have never been questioned and give confidence that he will conduct the office of Auditor of Public Accounts in an equally admirable manner. Mr. Barrett pledges that he will apply to the office of Auditor of Public Accounts the same rigid and impartial enforcement of existing laws he applied during his term as STATE TREASURER.

Endorsements of Mr. Barrett's candidacy for this office are made by individuals, firms and organizations throughout the State who believe that the personal qualifications and the personal record of the incumbent of this important office are paramount in any questions of party. Among those endorsing him are the following:

Illinois League for Better Government.

United Depositors' Association of Illinois.

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS SAYS:
"Edward J. Barrett, of Chicago, is the present state treasurer and the candidate of his party for state auditor. He was an independent candidate for the democratic nomination for treasurer two years ago and succeeded in defeating the choice of the democratic leaders for the position. When only 17 years old he enlisted with the 131st infantry and served overseas, being severely wounded while fighting in the Argonne. His Record Commends Him

Edward J. Hughes

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR

SECRETARY OF STATE

He has served the public for nearly 20 years, during which time his efforts for tax reform and government economy have been outstanding.

Was elected to the Illinois Senate, where he became known as the champion of the small property owner; demonstrated his independence in opposing vicious measures.

In 1930 he was elected on his record to the Board of Tax Review by the largest majority ever given a candidate for that office.

Played a leading part in framing the Kelly Bill, under which taxes in Chicago have been reduced 30 per cent.

The Chicago Daily News,

in commenting on the admirable record made by Edward J. Hughes in public office, says: "There are, fortunately, politicians whose ideals of service are beyond reproach, and the people of this community have reason to think that Mr. Hughes is one of them. He knows that politics and just taxation will not mix."

For efficiency and economy in the office of Secretary of State, place an X before the name Edward J. Hughes when you vote on Tuesday, November 8.

The Legislative Voters' League Said:

"Edward J. Hughes served four terms in the State Senate with an excellent record. He is one of the most capable and useful members of the Senate, level-headed and efficient. He is alert in legislative affairs and is entitled to full credit for his good work."

HENRY HORNER

"WHEN elected governor I shall serve the entire state with equal interest and devotion to every part and section of it. I shall have only one thought guiding my course—the welfare and prosperity of the great state in which I was born and in which I have lived all my life."

HENRY HORNER

WILLIAM H. DIETERICH

Democratic Candidate United States Senator Makes This Statement:

"The Democratic platform clearly and definitely advocates the repeal of the 18th Amendment.

"Furthermore, pending such repeal it advocates immediate modification of the Volstead Act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the constitution, and to provide therefrom a proper and immediate revenue.

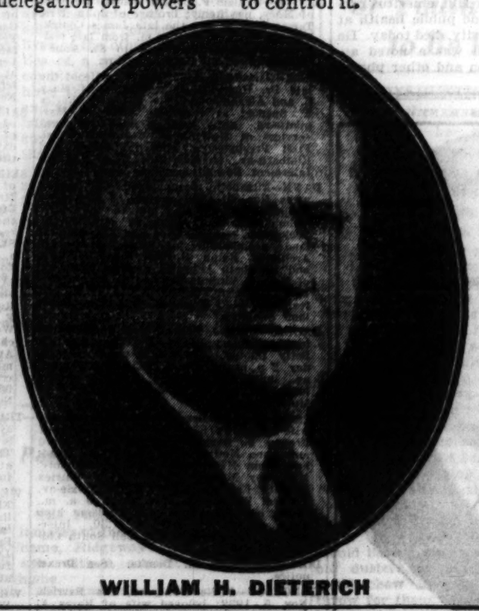
"As the Democratic nominee for United States Senator from Illinois, I unqualifiedly and positively support this stand, and if I am elected will do my utmost to bring about speedy repeal of the 18th Amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead Act.

"I have always been against national prohibition. When I was a member of the Illinois Legislature, as the records will show, I worked and voted against ratification of the 18th Amendment. I thought delegation of powers inherent in the states and the people thereof to the Federal Government by the 18th Amendment was wrong then. And I have not changed my mind since.

"The people of this country have not changed their ideas about temperance or morality. Well-meaning people conceived the idea that national prohibition would forward the cause of temperance. Experience has proved the error of this view. The people of this country are against both prohibition and drunkenness.

"I am for temperance and sobriety and I feel that the best way to achieve temperance is to return the authority given to the Federal Government by the 18th Amendment to the states and local communities.

"The only way to do this is to repeal the 18th Amendment so that the states and the local communities can define their own temperance and make such laws as seem to them to be necessary to control it."



WILLIAM H. DIETERICH

"WHEN elected United States Senator from the great State of Illinois I shall become the servant of the people to carry out in every detail the contract of the Democratic party, made with the people, and so expressed in the platform of the Democratic party."

WILLIAM H. DIETERICH

THOMAS J. COURTNEY

Democratic Candidate State's Attorney Endorsed by:

Chicago Bar Association Nominating Committee:

Chicago Crime Commission:

"The present State's Attorney's administration of his office has not been such as to merit his return. The best interest of the public will be served by the election of Thomas J. Courtney as State's Attorney."
—Frank J. Loesch, President.

United Depositors Assn. of Illinois:

"The record of Thomas J. Courtney has indicated a zealous faithfulness and application to his duties of public trust and gives promise of a fearless enforcement of our banking laws, and a vigorous prosecution of their transgressors. His promises of effort in behalf of depositors of closed banks has prompted the endorsement of this association."

Charles M. Thomson, former Judge, says:

"The present state's attorney has signally failed. I cannot support him in view of the record he has made. I am for Senator Courtney."

Chicago Federation of Labor:

"The voting record of Senator Courtney on Labor Bills is 100% favorable."—John Fitzpatrick, Pres.

Mr. Thomas J. Courtney is also endorsed by the following organizations and prominent citizens:

Citizens' Association . . . The Crusaders . . . Better Government Association . . . Employers' Association . . . Greater Robey Street Property Owners' Association . . . E. M. SCHAEFER GIVEN KARCH'S PLACE ON BALLOT

Latter Dies Suddenly in Congress Race.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 6.—Edwin M. Schaefer of Belleville, Ill., treasurer of St. Clair county, and Democratic county chairman, was nominated to succeed the late Charles A. Karch of the Twenty-second Illinois Congressional district. Schaefer was nominated at a conference of the Democratic chairmen of the five counties constituting that district. They met hastily following Karch's death in a hospital here today.

Schaefer said he accepts Karch's platform, including repeal of the eighteenth amendment and modification of the Volstead law. Election judges will be given stickers bearing Schaefer's name to paste on the ballots in place of Karch's before handing them to the voters.

Campbell Denies Offer.

The nomination was first offered to Bruce A. Campbell, East St. Louis attorney, who was runner up to Judge Henry Horner for the Democratic nomination for governor. Campbell is managing the Democratic state campaign. Campbell declined. Party leaders expressed confidence virtually the full Karch vote can be mustered for Schaefer, who is widely known in the two most populous counties in the district, St. Clair and Madison. Both have large Germanic elements that vote wet. Schaefer is a member of one of the old German families of St. Clair county. Before his entry into politics was an auditor for Armour & Co. He is 41 years old.

Dies of Pneumonia.

Karch, who died of pneumonia, served three terms in the lower house of the Illinois general assembly and was United States district attorney for the eastern Illinois district in 1914-18. He served later as attorney for the United Mine Workers of America.

Karch was elected to congress in 1931 defeating Ed M. Irwin, Republican incumbent. The counties in the district are Bond, Madison, Monroe, St. Clair and Washington.

He was born in Mascoutah, Ill., and received his education at Northern Illinois Normal university and Wesleyan college at Bloomington. He is survived by his widow, Hulda, and daughter, Marguerite, who was his secretary.

The funeral will be held at the home Wednesday, at 2 p. m.

Widow Burned to Death; Believe She Fired Her Bed

Nashville, Ill., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Marie Grathwole, 61, a widow, burned to death in her home three miles east of Hoyleton today, and Dr. P. B. Rabberneck, county coroner, said he believed she ended her life purposely by setting fire to her bed. Mrs. Grathwole's son, George, with whom she lived, found her body. Neighbors helped extinguish the flames and save the house.

Florence Eleanor Sage, Pianist, Dies in Indiana

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Florence Eleanor Sage, long prominent as a pianist, died here today. A native of Terre Haute, she toured Indiana and Illinois with her own company at the age of 16, later studying in this country and abroad and giving concerts in Chicago, New York, Paris, and London. She lived for many years in Chicago but returned here a few years ago.

3 ARE DROWNED WHEN BOATS IN STORM CAPSIZE

King's Park, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Three men were drowned and a fourth was missing today following the upsetting of their two outboard motorboats in Long Island sound yesterday during a heavy sea. A fifth member of the fishing party, Detective Thomas Carmondy, 55, of New York, related the story today when he was found, exhausted, on Meadows beach.

Carmondy said John Sheridan, 28; Michael McClusky, 32, and Daniel Ryan, 35, who occupied one boat with him, were drowned. Charles Beck, 30, who was in another boat which was washed ashore empty, was missing. All were from New York.

Carmondy told state police they were fishing about five miles out when the boat containing Beck began leaking and his own craft was capsized. He said he managed to swim ashore.

U.S. Chamber of Commerce Head to Speak Wednesday

Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will speak Wednesday noon at a luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the La Salle hotel. Mr. Harriman will make a post-election demand on the federal government to "Unshackle Business," it is announced.

PASTOR'S AUTO KILLS MAN IN LA SALLE STREET

Deaths Raise County Toll to 956 for Year.

An automobile driven by the Rev. Norman H. Camp, 65 years old, of 5416 Winthrop avenue, of the Moody Bible institute, struck and killed a man at La Salle and Kinzie streets last night. The victim was identified as Joseph Gust, 44 years old, a resident of the relief station in the old Criminal Court building.

The Rev. Mr. Camp, who is in charge of the Colportage association, a division of the Moody institute, was released by police when he said the accident was unavoidable. He was driving north with the traffic lights when his car hit Gust. He took the injured man to the Henrotin hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Kill Pedestrian and Escape.

Another relief station resident, Daniel Ruset, 57 years old, of 509 North Union avenue, was killed almost at the same time by an automobile at Grand avenue, Milwaukee avenue, and Halsted street. The car, containing three passengers, did not stop.

John Carlotta, 39 year old, of 11713 Lafayette avenue, was killed last night, and two other persons were seriously hurt in a collision in Indiana avenue, near 145th street, Riverdale. The two injured, who were passengers in Carlotta's automobile, were Mario Tarazolo, 36 years old, and Tarazolo's son, Aldo, 3, of 39 West 115th street. They were taken to the county hospital. Carlotta's wife and occupants of the other car, Luther Williams and wife, Negroes, 4929 Calumet avenue, were bruised.

County Death Toll 956.

These deaths and three others increased the motor toll in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 957. The other victims:

Anthony Page, 50 years old, of rural route 2, Elgin. Killed last night in a collision during a heavy fog.

Joseph K. Jones, 39 years old, of St. Louis. Fatally injured yesterday when an automobile driven by his nephew, Carl Kendall, 20 years old, also of St. Louis, hit a pole at Harlem and Ogden avenues, Lyons. Police said Kendall told them he fell asleep at the wheel.

Nicholas Hilger, 60 years old, 813 North Larrabee street, died early this morning in Westlake hospital, Melrose Park, from injuries suffered on Saturday night when he was struck at Lake street and 17th avenue, Melrose Park, by a machine driven by Miss Lorraine Zeigler, 317 East Chicago street, Elgin, and knocked into the path of another car driven by Otis Maginn, 609½ Lake street, Maywood, which also struck him.

Five Arrested for Killing Indiana Harbor Policeman

Five Negroes were held last night in the East Chicago, Ind., jail on charges of murdering Sergt. Joseph L. O'Brien, a special railway policeman, at midnight Oct. 29, in the Baltimore and Ohio railroad yards at Indiana Harbor. In the same encounter Lieut. Fred Manberg, another special railway policeman, was severely wounded.

Prof. A. B. Hill, British Health Authority, Is Dead

BIRMINGHAM, England, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Alfred Bostock Hill, emeritus professor of hygiene and public health at Birmingham university, died today. He was 73. Prof. Hill was a noted authority on sanitation and other phases of public health.

GUGGENHEIM, CASH CUT OFF, NOW BUSBOY

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Examiner says Albert James Baron Guggenheim, 23, member of a wealthy New York family and heir to $800,000, is working as a busboy in a Hollywood cafe where he once tipped waiters at $10 a throw.

He is the son of Albert Guggenheim and Mrs. Fanny Baron Guggenheim of New York, the newspaper said, and upon the death of his grandfather, Bernhard Baron, English tobacco king, a trust fund of $800,000 was established for him.

"I play a good game of bridge, a pretty fair game of golf, and I have a polo handicap," the newspaper quoted Guggenheim as saying, "but one must eat. Six weeks ago the trustees of my grandfather's estate decided not to give me the allowance which has been mine since the death of my grandfather.

"For these six weeks," Guggenheim continued, "I have been actually in want and I took the first job I could get. It's from riches to dishes for me."

Winter Coat Sales Draw the Shopper

November Buying Month for Stylish Models.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The famous thirty days of November are remembered for various things . . . among the most lingering memories, depending upon your enthusiasm, are candidates who were or were not elected, football teams that flopped dismally, fashion shows that took your breath away, and for the bargain hunting shopper all the stunning winter coats that clever shopkeepers hung about with seductive price tags.

November is the traditional month for coat prices that make even the shockproof shopper gasp with unbelief . . . and so far, the month has been a brilliant success. Astounding and astonishing values are generously provided . . . you can get fur trimmed coats for prices that are extremely modest sums . . . you can spend more and buy a coat literally submerged with fur for a collection of dollars that will keep you whistling for weeks . . . and if you really want to squander your shekels you can buy a coat of regal splendor, trimmed with priceless furs, for the lowest price in years.

The most exciting news about winter coats is the excellent and even inspired choice of fur trimmings that is displayed in every collection. Dissatisfied shoppers with money to spend used to fuss and fume about the faithful reproduction of one good model. In other words, former seasonal collections of winter coats were rather dull and anything but assorted.

This year the coat designers have zealously tried everything . . . tall and stately shoppers can find gorgeous models with the shoulders sunk in fluffy long haired furs . . . medium sizes can take the furs long or short, and for once the short shoppers can have a grand time selecting coats scaled down to short silhouettes, short coats that are as sophisticated and as exquisitely designed as any supercreation always modeled by a willowy, slender, stately mannequin.

Flat furs are tremendously effective this season . . . some of the swankiest street and afternoon coats are made of suedelike woolens and then contrasted with all the new flat furs. Sleek caracul that looks like moire satin is used in gray, black, the new congo brown, copper and a cinnamon brown on woolen coat fabrics that feature delightful contrasts. Gray in shades of smoke, gunmetal, dove, and silver are the new fashionable tones that best contrast the deep brown flat furs, such as Persian lamb, Galyak, caracul, and beaver. Bronzen green, a green with a faint bronze luster contrasts with practically any fur, but the pets of many collection are the bronzeen green coats trimmed with silver gray krimmer or mink.

Black coats trimmed with black Persian lamb in a Russian manner, with a high standup collar, bands of Persian zooming up the front and other bands decorating the sleeves are speedily taken away. These black coats are as practical as they are smart and exceptionally slenderizing . . . such a black beauty is the foundation of the best wardrobes, for, with a black coat, all colors are acceptable. They can go with sports wools, crinkled crêpes, gleaming satins, and thin woolen fabrics in all the bold, bright colors of the season. Until you have seen the colorful coral shades, the bright yellows, rusts, coppers, gold, and vermillions splashed against a black coat, you have missed a big color thrill.

But whatever brown, black, green, red, or gray furred winter coat you may know you need, now is the time to shop and buy any of the numerous good looking models especially priced during this month.

Swedish Groups Recall the Death of Gustavus Adolphus

Chicagoans of Swedish descent yesterday observed the tercentennial anniversary of the death of Gustavus Adolphus, king of Sweden. More than 5,000 persons attended services in the Moody Memorial church, Clark street and North avenue, during the afternoon. Volmar Bostrom, Swedish minister at Washington, delivered an address on the life of the king. Dr. Julius Lincoln also spoke. Gustavus Adolphus succeeded to the throne at the age of 17. He was killed in the battle of Lutzen Nov. 6, 1632.

Open Flower Show at New Oak Park Conservatory

The third annual chrysanthemum show of the Oak Park park board was opened yesterday in the new park conservatory at East avenue and Harrison street in the suburb. There are 2,600 plants and some 12,000 blooms on display, according to Gustav Lindberg, superintendent of the park board, and the display will be open to the public for six weeks. Several thousand persons yesterday attended the annual chrysanthemum show of the west parks system in the Garfield park conservatory.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Hell's Highway" depicts in stark, realistic fashion the wretched life of men condemned to the chain gang in a convict labor camp.

The laudable ambition of its makers was, a title tells you, to call attention to a system which still exists, as recent news dispatches have proved, and to provoke pity and aid for that system's unfortunate victims.

The sweat box, the lash, brutal guards are lined up for contemplation and the story on which the cruel disclosures are hung is a harsh and bitter one. It features actual incidents that have been in the headlines.

Two brothers, the elder a resourceful and dangerous bank robber and the younger an impetuous lad who gets sent up for shooting his elder's enemy, are the principal characters. The episodes that concern them involve the lives of the other prisoners, the activities of a private contractor who, to complete his contract in given time, hires thugs as guards, those guards, and representatives of the state. The latter are shown as good chaps, anxious to do right. [Something here that doesn't ring quite true.]

A jail break, a fire and a man hunt are among unforgettable incidents in a film that, as a whole, will remain an uncomfortable memory for a long time.

Richard Dix and Tom Powers as the brothers give admirable performances. Supporting players were well chosen. Direction, photography, sets and dialogue are excellent. The "atmosphere" seemed right to me. I thought the men acted as convicts might.

We're not civilized yet, by a long shot, are we?

TWO STYLES IN WINTER COATS

Dove gray suede-like woolen fabric is distinctively contrasted with deep brown Persian lamb. Very unusual sleeves and neckline are featured.

Normal Activity of Youth Needs to Be Diverted

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Their mother is a little thin and nervous with her maternal cares—and also a little on edge. So, I took the four puppies up on the sofa with me the other evening and tried to go on writing. Foolish attempt. They gave me no peace.

Yippy caught my moving sleeve in his mouth and alternately pulled it and barked. Little Sister did her Victorius Gladiator act and got Spotty over on his back and chewed his ear. Biffy pulled out a tucked-in fold of the slip cover and gnawed it—growling fiercely the while. When I took this away from him he chewed a favorite head cushion. When I pried open Little Sister's mouth to free Spotty's ear she began to chew his foot. When I worked my sleeve out of Yippy's jaws he began on my skirt. No sooner did I stop the little rascals doing one thing, than they began doing another.

Perpetual motion—that's what they were. If I hadn't been so tired I would have gotten up and found some old dusters or stockings that they could chew in peace—or a ball to throw for them. Because they had to be chewing and playing just at that moment and nothing could stop them.

It's the same way with children. When their sensation of touch is so new they must use it. They can't be stopped. So they should have the opportunity to do so with intelligent supervision. When they're at the climbing stage they must climb. Except from dangerous places they must not be pulled and dragged away.

Activity is a sign of growth—of normal development. The lid must not be clamped on it. Instead the energy must be diverted into the right channels, as in training the sense of touch and providing the right toys and playthings. Fortunately for nature's plan, they are not easily squelched or discouraged.

Billy Bryant Gives Parody 'Hamlet' Show

Ohio River Thespians Open at Cort Theater.

"HAMLET."

THE CAST.

Hamlet.....Cecil Drummond
Claudius.....Clyde Shafer
Horatio.....Vernon Gilmore
Laertes.....Donald Weiss
Polonius, Grave Digger No. 2, Bernardo.....Billy Bryant
Grave Digger No. 1.....Morris Seifried
Francisco.....Sam Bryant
Player Queen.....Violet Bryant
Gertrude.....Florence Bryant
Ophelia.....Josephine Bryant

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

In fulfillment of threats uttered a year ago Billy Bryant, commodore of a Thespian ark that plies the Ohio river, has brought his gangplank mummers back to Chicago in "Hamlet." At any rate, he gives his exhibition that honorable title; but Shakespeare refuses to turn over in his grave, for last night's proceedings at the Cort theater cannot be attributed to his pen. He merely supplied a theme upon which Mr. Bryant, a most audacious wag, has improvised with a slapstick.

This strange haphazard frolic is the most delirious and frantic burlesque that has happened since Huckleberry Finn encountered the Royal Nonesuch. To quote a line from Mr. Bryant's embellishments of the sacred text to describe his hero, it is "as nutty as a model T Ford." It represents the showboat tradition gone sophisticate and lunatic.

* *

The commodore has been smart enough to realize that "Hamlet" is an exceedingly long play, and that any parody of its story would be a long, long joke. So he has taken precautions against monotony, and his show frequently jumps the track from "Hamlet" into other sections of the classic repertory. Shylock barges into the picture in the mock-play scene, and then everybody in the cast goes crazy, reciting speeches from "The Merchant of Venice," "King Lear," "Romeo and Juliet," and "Julius Caesar."

When I departed at the end of Act II, not wishing to view the painful spectacle of the interment of the entire company in Ophelia's grave which Mr. Bryant had promised in his curtain speech, the troupe was parading around to the "Toreador" song from "Carmen." The eminent actor-manager marched at the tail of the procession leading a goat. So, you see, this is the kind of a show in which anything may happen.

Feeling under an obligation to enter into the spirit of the occasion, the first-nighters behaved according to showboat tradition. They hissed the King of Denmark with self-conscious enthusiasm; they laughed at the things that were dumb as well as the things that were funny; and finally they began to toss pennies upon the stage. This reckless waste of small coin of the realm gives Mr. Bryant the right to boast that he has defeated the depression single-handed and ought to be elected President.

* *

But while free hand travesty is the slogan of the production, the rôle of Hamlet is played "straight," or in other words, in earnest.

Here again was proof that Billy Bryant is a smart young fellow and a stage director who knows something about the drama, no matter how much he abuses it. This treatment of the principal rôle keeps the show out of the madhouse category and gives a certain degree of edge to the callous and witless burlesque. Moreover, Cecil Drummond, who appears as the melancholy Dane, reads with intelligence and a good voice, Shakespearean endeavor.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

WRIGHT IS WRONG.

Even the hardened Reynolds blanched slightly as he caught sight of the bloody figure.

"A maniac must have done this, professor," he exclaimed, staring at the man slouched in the armchair. He was about sixty years old. The top of his gray head had been smashed in and his face battered beyond recognition.

"God! What a sight!" muttered Reynolds. The man was literally covered with blood; the newspaper in his lap, his trousers, vest and shirt were saturated. The blood stained iron pipe by his side bore witness to the manner in which he met his death. With a searching look about, Fordney called Wright in from the next room.

"Tell me exactly what you saw," he requested the young man.

"I heard two men's voices raised in argument as I walked past the house. Crossing the yard I looked in the window. Hunter was sitting there in the chair and a fellow was threatening him with that piece of pipe. Suddenly Hunter sprang up. They grappled for a minute when this man hit him a terrific blow and knocked him back in the chair. Like a madman he crashed the pipe down on Hunter's head and face repeatedly and then ran out the back way. I rushed in, but Hunter there was beyond help," concluded Wright wiping his face on a handerkerchief on which Fordney noticed blood stains.

"O," he stammered, "I got blood on my hands when I felt his heart, but I didn't touch anything else."

"Well, Wright, lying about the affair has placed you under suspicion," quietly stated the professor.

WHY WAS FORDNEY SUSPICIOUS OF WRIGHT?

[See Solution on page 26.]

Tibbett Wins Big Crowd at Orchestra Hall

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Every time that Lawrence Tibbett comes to town he appears to be a somewhat better singer than he was before, though this is not entirely surprising. It is an artistic law that no one is permitted to stand still in music.

The Woman's Aid society of Passavant Memorial hospital brought him here yesterday afternoon, and filled Orchestra hall almost to capacity to hear him. Mr. Tibbett prepared a comprehensive program and sang it with much distinction. He was first known hereabouts as a baritone of marked dramatic tendencies. Of late he permits dramatic singing to be only a part of what he has to offer, as when he sang the aria, "Eri tu," yesterday. More and more he goes in for solid, sustained singing, and more and more he is the better artist thereby.

He has a wide range of musical sympathies and a wide repertoire to express them. Thus he was able to pass from a group of Schubert, Brahms, and Strauss, sung with the finest lyric impressiveness, to such bits of modern melodic lightheartedness as John Alden Carpenter's "Jazz Boys" and Wolfe's "De Glory Road," or back again to English folk music on the order of "Twenty Eighteen."

What he did was well done, studiously learned, presented with manner and force. Incidentally he is well versed in the projection of languages, and even that linguistic stepchild, English, is by his skilled art taken into full family communion.

* *

An uncommon type of recital was made audible at Kimball hall yesterday by the appearance of Gaylord Browne and Gibson Walters, who describe themselves as duo-violinists. With Henry Jackson to provide piano accompaniments, they played a program not of first and second violin, but of two violins of equal importance and rating.

They are both competent players, perhaps as well balanced in tone and technic as any pair could be. Their trouble is not their performance, which can be passed with a high mark, but with the difficulty of finding enough music written in that form and deserving to be presented on a program. As a matter of fact they had two sorts, good and less good. Their efforts for the future should therefore be directed toward finding a full supply that is all good.

Parish Dance.

More than 3,000 have pledged their attendance at the annual dance and card party to be given on Thursday night at the Edgewater Beach hotel by parishioners of St. Timothy's Catholic church, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. Francis Dolan, assistant to the pastor.

"When Chicago Was Young" Opens Tonight; Benefits Olivet

Large and Fashionable Audience Expected to Attend Play in Goodman Theater; Debutantes Usher.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ONE of the largest and most fashionable of the numerous benefits that have engrossed society's attention recently will be the one for Olivet institute that is taking place tonight at the Goodman theater, the opening performance of "When Chicago Was Young." Mrs. Howard Linn heads the committee that has arranged the benefit and all advance indications point to a gala occasion that will be a very profitable one for Olivet.

Great interest is felt in the play itself, the work of Alice Gerstenberg and Herma Clark, and many of those early Chicagoans who were prominent in the city's development and who are characters in the play will have grandchildren in the smart audience which will fill the theater tonight.

The curtain will rise promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Ushering will be a group of the season's debutantes who will be entertained at a buffet supper before the performance by Miss Marjorie Goodman.

Quite a few of the same debutantes who will usher at the Goodman later will sell cigarets at the Cradle benefit at the Drake hotel. This benefit is to be a dinner dance with dinner served from 8 to 12 so that those who want to go to both benefits can do so. The Cradle party is to be a broadcasting studio ball, with the first broadcast at 11 o'clock, when Melvin A. Traylor will talk.

Among the acts that the guests and also the listeners-in on the radio will enjoy especially will be Ethel Dixon's and Edna Doering's singing of "Rain, Rain, Go Away," one of the "hits" of "Stepping High," the Service club revue.

Helen Castle Is Introduced.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. McNally of 237 East Delaware place introduced Mrs. McNally's daughter, Miss Helen Marie Castle, to society yesterday afternoon at a tea and reception at the Fortnightly club.

Present Play for Children.

A six year old's account of "The Secret Garden," produced by the Junior league theater for children Saturday morning at the Playhouse:

"There was a little girl. Her curls were pretty. Mommy, I wish I had curls like hers. She lived in Indiana. She came to England. She lived with her uncle. Martha was the maid.

"The little girl's name was Mary. She lived in a very big house. She had a boy cousin who thought he was crippled. He cried in the night. The maid said, 'That is the wind,' but the little girl thought it was a ghost. Her uncle, Mr. Craven, told her she could have a garden. Mrs. Medlock—wasn't she horrid, mommy?—wouldn't let her find the little boy who was crying.

"Mary said, 'I don't care about Mrs. Medlock I'm going to find that

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we make in our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Winter is a good time to have any loose, fallen or cracking plaster repaired. A careful examination of the walls and ceilings will reveal spots which are danger signals. The heating plant in cold weather will be a big assistance in curing and drying the new plaster if there is any considerable amount of this work to be done. It is best to take one room at a time, and in this way any general commotion or disorder is avoided. In this way everything is ready for spring decorating when the sun shines warm again. Get in touch with a good local plasterer for work of this kind. LOUISE BARGELT.

Screen Actress Keeps Youthful with Her Girls

Irene Rich Swims, Rides, Plays Tennis.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You can talk about your beauty remedies—yeah, and you can do a lot of talking about them, too, for there's value in them thar skin foods and preservative lotions. I'm not the one ever to decry their usefulness. Not with women looking as pert and snappy as most of them look today who aren't above giving their faces a bit of daily care.

Nevertheless, when you're looking for the real magic lotion for which we women are all looking I claim there is no youth preservative like keeping alive; like doing things; like taking an active interest in what's going on in the world and finally, and most beneficially, like having a family around to keep your foot on the gas every minute!

I dropped in on Irene Rich one afternoon recently for a little chat. In this good looking screen personage you see illustrated the youth preserving lesson of active association with youth. Miss Rich has two daughters, the older now in the movies, the younger, 15, still in school. There was present at our tea party a man who had been a recent guest at Miss Rich's Hollywood home.

He told of how Miss Rich outswam him, rode a horse like a professional and what a mean game of tennis the gal could play. All of which Miss Rich modestly waved aside as too fulsome praise compared with her daughter's skill. But the point is that this mother swims with her girls. She rides with them and she plays tennis with them. With the result that today her silhouette still passes the most trying of all figure tests—the screen one.

She dresses with simple dignity. No attempt here to look the flapper's flapping sister. That afternoon she wore one of those simple but probably expensive frocks of grayish blue; brimmed hat of like shade turned up in back. No jewelry. Long hair worn in a knot on the nape of her neck. We recalled how some years ago in Hollywood she fooled me with her startlingly long eyelashes. She was one of the first to employ the artificial lash. Now, they're all using them who haven't been born with the luxurious gift. Miss Rich does not wear hers on the street, however. She commented, too, on the improvement that has come over the artificial eyelash product of recent days.

Tony, the Horse That Helped Mix Earn 7 Million, Retired

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Veteran of 20 years' active service in films with his master, Tom Mix, the noted horse Tony has been placed on the retirement list as the result of an injury. In his place on the screen with Mix will be seen Tony Jr., a chestnut sorrel which, like Tony, has white stockings on each foot and a white diamond on the forehead. The new equine star, however, is no relation to his dark bay predecessor.

Tony, now 23 years old, was acquired as a sickly colt by Mix for $12.50 in 1909, and was fed by hand on a mixture of milk and oats while he gained strength and the appearance known to millions of "western" fans.

Having trained him, Tom took Tony when he joined the old Selig Film company and introduced the horse to the cameras in 1912. Since then the horse has helped Mix earn a total of approximately $7,500,000, has traveled in state with the star, slept in the finest stables in America and Europe.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury as bailiff, and he and his wife, an ill bred pair, hold a strange influence over her. The three hold nightly seances in the library. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilbury's. Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister, Rachel, are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Braselton, an old friend, in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London asking her to search for an alligator bag left in the car. The bag is not found. Caroline doesn't reach Paris. The police are notified. Her body is found in a ditch near her estate. She'd been brutally murdered. The Tilbury's are left Caroline's fortune, on condition they search for the Holy Grail in the ruin of an ancient abbey on the estate, which Caroline believed to be her father's wish. Natasha is arrested. It is learned that the man she'd been meeting secretly was her wastrel brother, Michael, who is wanted for theft and has left the country. News is received of his death. Natasha is brought to trial. There is no proof of guilt. She is freed, though still under suspicion. Neil continues the murder search.

INSTALLMENT XLIX.

THE MISSING BAG MYSTERY.

An hour later, in a chemist's shop in Glastonbury, Neil was leaning over the counter asking for liquid thyroid.

"Liquid, sir?" The assistant smiled regretfully. "I'm afraid we don't stock it. Won't the tabloids do?"

"Then you never keep it in liquid form?"

"No, sir, simply because there's so little call for it. I don't remember but one customer wanting it in—O, all the years I've been here. That was about three months back, if I'm not mistaken. We can get it for you."

"Don't trouble, I'll try somewhere else."

"I feel certain you won't find any in Glastonbury, sir. It's not in demand."

As by an after thought, Neil made another inquiry.

"I wonder if you happen to recall who ordered the last lot?"

"I'm afraid I can't, sir. He wasn't a regular customer."

At three other establishments Neil met with similar replies. None of the chemists stocked liquid thyroid extract, and all declared that about three months ago a gentleman had obtained some through them. In the second shop a record of the purchase had been preserved. The date was Feb. 8, and the applicant's name set down as Mr. Tracey. No address was given, the preparation having been called for in person. The last chemist, an old fashioned, garrulous man, volunteered some conclusive information.

"I'll tell you who it was, sir," he said confidentially. "It was our local celebrity, Mr. Tilbury of Stoke Paulton. At that time I didn't know him, though I believe his photographer's business was just along at the end of this street. It was at the inquest of Miss Bundy that I saw him again and recognized him. Shocking affair that, eh, sir? Doesn't look as though we'd got to the bottom of it yet—and not likely to, either, now this young Russian scapegrace has taken himself out of reach."

Neil hid his indignation and steered the talk back to the thyroid. Did the proprietor know why Mr. Tilbury preferred the liquid sort?

"Why, yes; it was because he'd a rooted objection to swallowing tabloids. The sole advantage of the other is that you can mix it in soup, tea, milk, and as it's practically tasteless you don't know you're taking it."

This explanation set Neil thinking furiously. Practically tasteless—could be given in anything liquid. His mind flew back to the time he had seen the bailiff measuring out a dose of Miss Bundy's medicine. Suppose at that actual moment thyroid was being poured into the glass, or better still, into the bottle itself? If the fellow had wanted to play this game he found ample opportunity, made childishly easy by the old lady's short sightedness.

O, undoubtedly it could have been managed, and whether it was or not, the fact remained that four bottles of the stuff had been ordered on or about the same date, all called for personally, and in no case with the right name or any address supplied. Stupid, unnecessary precautions—but why any precautions, unless the purchaser had something to hide?

And yet there seemed to be no clear object in all this. The prolonged administration of thyroid might, indeed, have brought about an untimely decease, but unless the schemers knew they would benefit by it, they could hardly have wished to kill so useful a benefactress. Nor was there the slightest reason to think they did know either that a new will was contemplated, or that its terms would leave them rich. It had been definitely ascertained that not one of the servants had mentioned the matter to them, and they themselves had gone out for the entire afternoon.

He set himself laboriously to reconstruct, step by step, the events leading up to the crime, hoping to read into them some fresh meaning. First, Miss Bundy's attack. Next, the week in bed with a complete cessation of nerve strain—and thyroid?—followed by recovery. Then Emily Braselton's arrival and the hurriedly planned seance; and on the ensuing day, the agreement to go abroad and the solicitor's visit, carefully timed to coincide with the Tilbury's absence. After this a blank, and forty-eight hours later the murder, to all intents and purposes totally unrelated to all that went before.

Ah, here was the damnable stumbling block! If Caroline Bundy had died of high blood pressure—but no, she had left home in good health and spirits, to be found with her skull shattered, twenty miles from Stoke Paulton, and more than a hundred from where she was last seen! There was something perverse and provoking about it—no sequence or logic.

Hardly had Neil returned to the vicarage when Crabbe was announced. Shutting the door carefully behind him, he took a newspaper from his pocket.

"I found this, sir, in the servants' hall at our place half an hour ago," he said, pointing at the same time to the personal column of the advertisements. "Just cast your eye over it and see if it means anything to you."

What Neil saw was this:

> Lady's alligator skin bag lost or taken from car in West End of London March 20, ample reward for return with contents intact, no questions asked. Address C. L., Box 53, Daily Express.

"Well, sir—is it, or isn't it——?"

"If it's not, Crabbe, it's an extraordinary coincidence. The description, the right date——"

Neil picked up The Times from the table and turned to the "Agony" column. Yes, here was the same appeal, but it was signed with other initials.

"I saw that, too, sir—and it's in The Telegraph, and last Sunday's People."

"The police made a thorough search for this bag at the time of the murder," said Neil doubtfully. "If this had appeared two months ago they would have investigated it like a shot."

"It didn't appear then, sir. I can swear to that. That makes me think the person, whoever it is, didn't like chancing any move till the police had turned their attention elsewhere."

It was true that during the trial the actual bag had been almost forgotten.

"You said something about a manuscript, sir, didn't you? Isn't it possible it has a value for some one?"

"Not to any casual thief, who would very probably destroy it."

"This C. L. evidently hopes it hasn't been destroyed. If he doesn't think there's some chance of getting hold of it, why is he making such a fuss?"

"There's something in that. Yes, he must either want the manuscript, or else something we don't know about—for, of course, there may have been other things in the bag. If it's Tilbury who's advertising, we'll soon find out."

"If you want to know when Tilbury goes up to London again, I can suggest a way of finding out. He always leaves the car at the garage—Saunders' place, in Glastonbury. Why not get Saunders to ring you up the next time this happens? You could get on to your man within the hour, and have him pick up Tilbury at Waterloo."

It was a useful expedient, even though it involved taking Saunders into partial confidence. Neil, filled with excitement, started back to Glastonbury.

Saunders was out, and the only visible appendage of the garage was the young employé, Albert Stokes, whose ill warranted nervousness in the witness box had so struck Neil a few days ago. With his loose jointed frame bent over the racing model he was washing down, he did not notice the visitor's approach, and this gave the latter a chance to observe him closely. Everything about him betrayed a low mentality, probably arrested at the age of fourteen.

Chicago Scene Has Part in Two Good Volumes

Dr. William Barton's Life Story Published.

"The Autobiography of William E. Barton." [Bobbs-Merrill.]

It is not often that the comments on the covers of a book, the so-called blurb, are so perfectly expressive of what is in between. In this case, however, the value, the interest, and the permanency of "The Autobiography of William E. Barton" can be discovered or not discovered in these words, "The story of a two-fisted preacher, circuit rider, editor, and Lincoln lover who carved out an honorable career because he was clean and strong."

DR. BARTON.

Dr. Barton records the adventures of his childhood in Illinois, the struggles and simplicities, the joys and sorrows of a life led naturally and humanly. When he was still a boy he ran away from home to carve out his own destiny free from parental restraint.

He worked his way through Berea college and married before he was graduated. After several years of preaching and teaching in one town after another in the backwoods of the Kentucky and Tennessee mountains he decided to complete his theological education at Oberlin college in Ohio. After successful years in this state he was called, at the age of 32, to a church in Boston. And finally he went to the First Church in Oak Park, Ill., where he remained for twenty-five years.

Dr. Barton's varied career supplies ample proof of his fine and undaunted courage. He reveals himself as brave, possessed of initiative and persistence, religious in an intelligent and realistic way, and scholarly. The autobiography, written casually and candidly, does not do justice to the author's interest in Abraham Lincoln, his extremely valuable contribution to Lincolniana and his own unique Lincoln collection. Only one chapter is devoted to his researches in this field. His scholarship resulted in original and sympathetic portraits of Lincoln as well as in a permanent contribution: the information concerning Lincoln's forebears.

"The Autobiography of William E. Barton" contains interesting material on his contemporaries, the trends in various fields, political and religious, of his time. The chapters concerning his boyhood and manhood in small towns and in mountain communities many people will find the most vivid and interesting parts of the book. The character of William Barton is set down with an enviable finality. It is not often that the art of autobiography is so guilessly used for effective portraiture. If from time to time the reader receives the impression of innocent egotism and dogmatism, and of a curious lack of humor, it does not detract from the ultimate goodness of a sterling character.

"Epic of Chicago" Is Vivid Story.

"The Epic of Chicago," by Henry Raymond Hamilton [Willett-Clark], is as vivid a portrait of the Chicago scene, which Barton knew so well, as the Barton autobiography is of a man. There have been few records of Chicago's early history available since the disastrous fire. The personal narrative of the author's uncle, Gurdon S. Hubbard, an early inhabitant, supplies a rare commentary on the beginnings of Chicago.

Besides that material the author ". . . grew up in the mental atmosphere of the frontier . . . he brings to the task of writing the story of Chicago unusual qualifications. A feature of this work that is quite unusual is the extensive quotation of casual comments of well known travelers who visited Chicago in her infancy," according to the introduction by Caroline M. McIlvaine, former secretary of the Chicago Historical society.

Henry Raymond Hamilton has studied carefully the documents that are left, various newspapers as well as most of the literature that has been written on the discovery of the west.

From the earliest settlements and settlers to the last part of the 19th century in Chicago, the author chooses and presents the most dramatic, picturesque and romantic episodes. There is much space given to the Indian life that flourished on and around the site of Chicago, the traits and customs of the Indians, the massacres, the trading and the gradual impenetration of the whites. The incorporation of Chicago as a city, the exciting times of the civil war, the terrible fire, the game of politics as it was played in the middle west, and the death of the pioneer spirit all are described with unusual vigor and dramatic perception.

'When Chicago Was Young' Opens Tonight

noise. It's somebody crying.' So she ran out of the room. She went in another room and found her cousin. She had a candle in her hand and a long white nightgown—mommy, when can I have a long white nightgown like that? Colin was crying loud. He said, 'Are you a ghost?' Mary said, 'I am a girl.' She made him stop crying and sang him to sleep.

"Pretty soon he got well and went into the secret garden with Mary and Dickon. Mommy, wasn't Dickon nice and didn't he have rosy cheeks? Colin got out of his wheel chair and played tag with Mary and Dickon. His daddy was happy when he came home. Then the play ended and I was sorry, terrible sorry."

And so were all the other children in Saturday's audience sorry when the play was over, for each and every one loved it. The Junior leaguers are beyond the amateur stage in producing and acting in plays for children and the one they are doing this season gives promise of being one of the most popular they have ever given. It will be given for five more Saturdays. Children from the Gold Coast and orphan asylums almost filled the theater last Saturday for the opening performance.

Society Attends Tibbett Concert.

Due to the persuasive powers of the ticket selling committee of the Passavant Woman's Aid society, Lawrence Tibbett's audience at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon was as fashionable as any audience that assembled in the old days of Chicago's Civic opera. The hall was practically filled and the women who have been working so ardently on the ticket committee were all congratulating themselves when Mrs. Charles K. Cossant announced that she thought the proceeds would be close to $5,000.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, president of the Aid and general chairman of the benefit concert, held a sort of informal reception outside of her box during the intermission. She wore a becoming wine colored dress and hat and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Francis Johnson, vice president of the society, was busy introducing the good looking Mrs. Tibbett to her friends.

Among the hundreds of fashionable supporters of Passavant hospital in the boxes and on the main floor were Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Johnston (the latter looking well and handsome again after her weeks of convalescence from a serious operation), Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Dexter Fairbank, Mrs. Frank Hibbard, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. James R. Offield, Miss Betty Offield, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, Miss Jeanette Peterkin, Miss Agnes Foreman, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Yager, Miss Florence Otis, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, John Alden Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mr. and Mrs. Laurance Armour, and Miss Florence Carr.

Affairs for Lord Bishop.

Lord William Gascoyne Cecil, bishop of Exeter, and his wife, Lady Florence Cecil, who have been guests of Bishop and Mrs. George Craig Stewart since their arrival in Chicago last Thursday, will move today to the Woodlawn avenue residence of their old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Goodspeed, whom they visited several years ago. They will remain with the Goodspeeds until Wednesday, when they will go east again on their return trip to London.

Mrs. Goodspeed is to give a luncheon today for Lady Florence at which the guests will include Lady Craigie, wife of Sir William Craigie, who is teaching this winter at the University of Chicago; Mrs. Edwin P. Frost, Mrs. John M. P. Smith, and her cousin, Miss Grace Thomas, one of the bishop's parishioners in Exeter, who is here visiting Mrs. Smith.

This afternoon the English Speaking union is to give a tea for the bishop and Lady Florence and this evening they will be guests of the Church club at a large dinner and reception at the Hotel Sherman. The hostesses for the tea include Mrs. Arthur Meeker, her daughter, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer; Mrs. Joseph Adams, Miss Helen Gilbert, Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, Mrs. Andrew MacLeish, Mrs. Frank H. Scott, and Mrs. Waller Borden.

Among those who have made reservations for the dinner are Dr. and Mrs. Duncan H. Browne, whose guests will include Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine Jr., Mrs. Richardson Dunham, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Miller; Mr. and Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, Col. and Mrs. Robert G. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Angus S. Hibbard, and Lewis Bernays, the new British consul general, and Mrs. Bernays.

Will Give Tea on Byrd Ship.

Admiral Byrd's famous ship City of New York, which small boys have been examining with such keen interest since it was docked in the Chicago river at Michigan avenue several weeks ago, is to be the setting for a tea to be given on Wednesday afternoon by the Evanston Women's auxiliary of the Gads Hill center at 1919 West Cullerton street, assisted by the Winnetka auxiliary. Proceeds will be used for a program of relief planned by the settlement house for this winter.

Mrs. Harry B. Sutter of Evanston is general chairman of arrangements.

Debutantes who have been asked to assist with plans for the Arden Shore "Shadows of Paris" ball to be held on Dec. 10 at the Stevens hotel and women who will be patronesses will be guests of Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, honorary president, and members of the Chicago committee at a tea from 4 until 6 o'clock this afternoon at the Fortnightly.

Miss Janet Fairbank will give a talk on "A Music Student's Life in Berlin" at a tea to be given for her at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Woman's City club, under the auspices of the distinguished guest committee.

Mrs. Harold Bryant Visits Sister.

Mrs. Harold J. Bryant and her daughter, Miss Haroldine Bryant, arrived on Saturday for a visit with Mrs. Bryant's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour of 209 Lake Shore drive. One of the first things the Bryants did after arriving was to get acquainted with the Armours' new grandchild, little Adrienne Osborne, who came home from Alice Home hospital a few days ago with her mother, Mrs. W. Irving Osborne Jr. of Lake Forest. Mrs. Bryant and her daughter will remain in Chicago for a few days and then will join Mr. Bryant in Florida, where they'll spent part of the winter before returning to their London residence.

The New Orient society has issued invitations for its annual meeting and dinner to be held on Friday evening, Nov. 18, at the Palmer house.

An Arts ball, termed by its instigators a "Sojourn in Mars," is to be held on Dec. 9 at the Stevens hotel. The guests will be instructed to come costumed as inhabitants and immigrants to Mars so as to correspond with the fantastic modernistic decorations that are being planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Dutton have closed their house on the Exmoor Country club grounds and will be at the Drake hotel until late December, when they will go away for a winter holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Otis Hinkley have moved into the Lake Shore Drive hotel for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Uri B. Grannis have leased the Hinkley house in Lake Forest until spring.

What, O what to have for lunch? How many times have we wakened in the early morning hours to rack our brains over that eternally bothersome cookery problem?

Let me suggest, then, one family which you may have been overlooking—that of the piquant, versatile deviled or stuffed egg.

In service, stuffed eggs may be borne to the table either hot or cold. Simply place the desired number in boiling water which more than covers them. Cook gently [do not boil] for fifteen to twenty minutes. Then plunge quickly into cold water to prevent possible discoloration.

The yolks may be softened and made packable by the addition of cream, mayonnaise, boiled dressing, softened butter, chili sauce, or catsup. They may be seasoned in addition with salt, pepper, paprika, onion juice, celery salt, vinegar, lemon juice, curry powder—any of a hundred odd and flavorsome condiments.

Or to change completely the aspect of things, blend the smooth yolk paste with minced pickle and anchovy; with deviled tongue and tomato catsup; with grated peppy cheese and a flavoring of peppery sauce.

When the filling is ready—remember to taste it to be sure the flavor is all you wish it to be—pile it lightly into the waiting egg white shells, mounding well over the top.

Now comes another point of decision. These same stuffed eggs may be served either cold or hot. If cold, nest in crisp lettuce cups, garnish, if desired, with pickle fans or fagots and top with a spangling of paprika. If a warm luncheon dish is desired there should be toast. Prepare this and when the second side has just started to brown, place one or two stuffed egg halves on each piece and continue browning, at the same time toasting the egg. Quickly butter the toast around the egg and serve with a savory white sauce and a dash of paprika over all.

Or cheese sauce substituted for the white sauce is most palate tickling served over plain, well seasoned stuffed eggs. Minced parsley sprinkled over all gives the final festive touch.

NOW WHITEN YOUR TEETH 3 shades in 3 days

If you think yellow, stained, unsightly-looking teeth are natural, start using Kolynos—a half-inch on a dry brush twice daily. In 3 days you'll see your mistake. Your teeth will look 3 shades whiter!

Kolynos—unlike any preparation you've ever used—contains two important ingredients that clean and whiten teeth remarkably. One—the finest cleansing agent known—erases stain and tartar, foams into every tiny fissure and washes away decay-causing debris. While the other ingredient kills the millions of germs that cause most tooth and gum troubles and helps to make teeth absolutely clean.

Thus Kolynos gently cleans teeth right down to the natural white enamel and soon makes them more attractive than ever. It refreshes the mouth and stimulates the gums. Buy a tube of Kolynos today.

Substitutions: Chicago—Corbett for Grange; Tackwell for Franklin; Ely for Engebretsen; Brumbaugh for Molesworth; Joesting for Nagurski; Sisk for Nesbitt.
New York—Molenda for Vokaty; Cagle for Feather; Irvin for Owen; Gibson for Bowdoin; Grant for Munday; Badgro for Flaherty; Caywood for Jones.

New York, Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Red Grange today led the Chicago Bears to a 28 to 8 victory over the New York Giants in a National Professional league game at the Polo grounds. Grange crossed the New York goal line three times, and in addition contributed several exciting dashes.

Despite their commanding lead at the end of the game, the Bears were not always ahead of their rivals. The Giants, showing a steady and powerful attack, jumped into the lead two minutes after play began when they climaxed a march of 34 yards by scoring a touchdown on a pass, McBride to Flaherty. The attempt to convert the extra point failed.

Giants Relinquish Lead.

The Giants' advantage was short lived, for the Bears came back with a touchdown in the first period. Grange took a pass from Molesworth on the four yard line and stepped across the goal. Engebretsen kicked the seventh point.

The Bears, seizing the aggressive, rolled up two more touchdowns in the second period. Grange took a long pass from Nagurski and scored easily. Johnsos blocked a punt, picked up the ball and ran across the goal for the third touchdown. After yielding a safety to the Giants in the fourth quarter, the Bears scored their fourth touchdown on a short end run by Grange.

McBride led the Giants capably in their first period scoring burst. He passed to Vokaty and Flaherty after the Bears kicked off. These passes, together with runs by McBride and Moran, enabled New York to reach the Bears' 25 yard line, from where McBride hurled a long pass to Flaherty, who scored. McBride missed his try for the placement.

Bears Strike Back.

The Chicagoans struck back almost immediately. Franklin intercepted a Giant forward pass on the New York 25 yard line. Molesworth ripped through the line for 10 yards, and on the next play hurled an aerial to Grange, who stepped over the Giants' goal for his first touchdown. Engebretsen kicked for the extra point.

In the second session the teams traded punts, and the Bears came into possession of the ball on the New York 45 yard stripe. Two tries at the line were productive of small gains, so Nagurski tossed a 20 yard pass to Grange, who ran the intervening distance to the Giants' goal. Engebretsen's kick again was good.

The Giants yielded another tally late in the second quarter. Johnsos blocked Burnett's kick on the New York 15 yard line, picked up the ball and ran for a score. Engebretsen added the extra point.

Fumble Stops Giants.

The opening of the fourth quarter saw the New Yorkers within scoring distance. They fought their way to the Chicago 3 yard line, where McBride lost the ball on a fumble, Sisk recovering for the Bears. Molesworth missed a pass from center in his own end zone, and the ball rolled out of the field of play, giving the Giants a safety.

Late in the quarter the Bears, following a 20 yard run by Grange and two shorter gains by Molesworth, traveled from their own 44 yard line to the Giants' 6 yard stripe. Two attempts at the line failing, the Bears essayed a lateral pass, Molesworth to Grange, who raced around end to the goal line. Tackwell kicked the extra point.

BOSTON WINS, 19-6.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Boston Braves, led by Gyp Battles and Oren Pape, beat the Stapletons in a National Football league game today, 19 to 6.

The Braves took the kickoff and passed and plunged to the nine yard line where Battles sliced off tackle for nine yards and a touchdown. Hughes missed the extra point. Battles broke away again in the second period to score from the 20 yard line and Hughes kicked goal.

Stapleton scored in the fourth quarter when Campiglio broke away for a succession of long gains. On the kickoff after the score, Pape raced 85 yards through the Stapleton team for a touchdown.

My Greatest THRILL in FOOTBALL

BY HEARTLY ANDERSON.
[As Told to Charles Bartlett.]

HEARTLY ANDERSON.

My greatest thrill as a football player occurred in my last year on the Notre Dame varsity. Any lineman who has worked three years paving the way for backs, letting them do all the scoring, will appreciate it. It happened during the Notre Dame-Purdue game at the Boilermakers' stadium on Oct. 16, 1921, which we won with little difficulty, 33 to 0.

That Purdue battle was one which we wanted to win by at least 133 to 0, not because of any feeling against Purdue but to make up to Coach Rockne for the game the preceding week, when Iowa ended our 20 game string of victories with a 10 to 7 defeat. We never got the chance to run up a huge score, however, for Rock took us out early and used shock troops the greater part of the game.

Varsity Rolls Up 30 Points in First Half.

We scored thirty points in the first half, Johnny Mohardt getting a pair of touchdowns and Paul Castner a field goal, while I, a mere guard, crossed the line three times, but got credit for only two touchdowns, the third being recalled after a penalty.

I got my first big kick when I broke through in the first quarter and not only blocked a Purdue kick but recovered it for a touchdown. That would have been enough for one day but it wasn't long after that a Notre Dame man smeared another kick and I picked up a loose ball and ran the remaining distance to my second touchdown of the day.

Scores Third Time, but It Doesn't Go in Books.

I thought it was a regular field day two minutes later when I got in the way of another Boilermaker kick, followed it through, scooped it up and ran for another touchdown. That one didn't go in the books, however, for I was called back and the score nullified when officials ruled that we had been offside. I had no reason to kick, however, for I had scored two touchdowns, something a guard doesn't do very often, and also drew a double barreled thrill out of it.

Heartly [Hunk] Anderson, head coach at Notre Dame since the death of Knute Rockne, hails from the same town which sent the late George Gipp to the South Bend school—Calumet, Mich. He was born there 34 years ago, and after prepping at the local high school entered Notre Dame in 1918. He played guard on the teams of 1919, 1920 and 1921, three of the greatest elevens in Notre Dame history. He was assistant coach to Rockne from 1922 to 1928, specializing in line work and making himself known as one of the best forward tutors in the country. His most notable charges were the "Seven Mules" who played with the Four Horsemen. In 1928 he became coach at St. Louis university, but returned and in the spring practice of 1930 had full charge of the team while Rockne was in Florida.

BLACKHAWKS WIN FROM ST. PAUL, 1-0, IN EXHIBITION

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Professional hockey returned to St. Paul tonight after a year's absence when the Chicago Blackhawks of the National league defeated the St. Paul Greyhounds of the new American association, 1 to 0, in an exhibition game.

The only score of the game came in the first period, when March shot a goal on an assist from Romnes in 15:14.

Leader, Binda.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Norman Hill, of San Jose, Cal., whom experts adjudge the best American six day bike rider, though he's never won a six day race, and his partner, Alfredo Binda, road champion of the whole wide world, had forged into the lead in the grind at the Stadium last night as the spectacle went into the 99th hour.

The pair had been in a mileage tie for the lead at brief intervals during the early evening, but in a series of jams shortly before 11 o'clock they took charge all by themselves.

As all sleepless fans know, the Hill-Binda team is one of the two teams formed from remnants of starting teams in the race, the two boys having got together after their partners were laid out by injuries on opening night.

Five Teams Gone.

The field now is reduced to two-thirds of its original enrollment. This thinning of the ranks lessens the danger of spills, but it makes it tougher for the riders to pull any foxy stuff now that most of the plugs are out of the race and can no longer run interference for the schemers.

One of the several funny things about six day bike races is that they run seven nights. So the information that tonight will be the sixth night of the even need not cast down your spirits, for tomorrow night the race still will be going on—that is, until 11 o'clock, when the big finish takes place.

While there was no such mad riding as that which characterized the early hours yesterday morning, when the artists engaged in the most sensational pedaling seen here in a half dozen races, the lead switched enough in the several hours after dinner last night to keep the fans alert.

Lead Changing Starts.

At 3 o'clock last night the team of Letourner and Debaets had retained a lead they had gained in the terrific riding 18 hours earlier. They had held the advantage through the afternoon jamming, which saw a total of 32 laps stolen—a most unusual tabulation for a matinee.

At 9 o'clock J. Walthour and Ritter had ridden into a mileage tie with Letourner-Debaets and technically were in fir. place on sprint points. At 9:05 Audy and Peden became technical first placers, though they shared mileage honors with the B. Walthour-Rodak, J. Walthour-Ritter, and Letourner-Debaets teams.

B. Walthour and Rodak took the lead alone at 9:12 o'clock, but 13 minutes later Binda and Hill had moved up from the third flight group to a tie for first. These combinations prevailed at 10 o'clock, then Bobby and Mickey shook off their pursuers for a few minutes to lead alone. At 10:30 o'clock, however, the mileage tie had been restored.

Wagner Team Out.

At 10:35 o'clock B. Walthour and Rodak again were leading alone with Binda and Hill one lap back, Audy and Peden two laps back, the J. Walthour-Ritter, and Dempsey-Wissel teams three laps behind. McNamara and Horan were trailing by four laps and Deulberg-Grimm, the biggest disappointment of the race to date, plodding along five laps back of the pacesetters.

The field at 9 o'clock was reduced to 10 teams when Wagner and Petri were flagged. Walker and Delille thus became the caboose boys, eleven laps behind.

Results of 2 a. m. sprints follow:
1—Audy, Linari, Wissel, DeLille.
2—B. Walthour, Severgnini, McNamara, Grimm.
3—J. Walthour, DeLille, Walthour, Deulberg.
4—Peden, Grimm, McNamara, Dempsey.
5—Linari, Horan, Deulberg, Wissel.
6—Ritter, Severgnini, Walker, Dempsey.
7—DeLille, Linari, Binda, Deulberg.

Notre Dame Next; No Rest for Wildcats

Northwestern's football team, buffeted about by Big Ten opponents during the last three week-ends, steps outside the conference Saturday with the prospects of encountering even sterner opposition in Notre Dame.

The tradition built up through the years that a Northwestern team always plays inspired ball against Notre Dame is about the only consolation for the Wildcats as they make ready for Saturday's effort.

Several changes in the lineup are contemplated by Coach Hanley. Al Kawal is to be shifted back to a guard position from quarter back. He played in the line as a freshman, but has been used in the back field this year because of his ability to block. His presence in the line will add much needed strength, since once again the Wildcats forwards will be greatly outweighed.

George Potter, who was inactive Saturday, due to an injured shoulder, is expected to be ready for first string duty against Notre Dame. He and Roy Augustson will handle the signal calling assignment for the Purple.

IRISH POINT FOR N. U.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Northwestern and Notre Dame meet here Saturday in the twelfth game of their 43 year old rivalry. Neither team has hopes of a title, but it seems to have detracted but little from the game's lure.

J. Arthur Haley, business manager of athletics, said today there are in excess of 35,000 tickets sold and that there is a heavy sale now.

Notre Dame showed promise of coming back when it beat Kansas 24 to 6, Saturday. The play of Joe Sheketski, senior right half from Shadyside, O., who was promoted to the varsity late in the week and scored on two long runs, was particularly impressive.

It is no secret here that Coach Heartly Anderson is pointing his team for Northwestern. In its last three defeats, by Southern California, Army, and Pitt, Notre Dame has gone to pieces in the last period. In the Northwestern rivalry, the Irish have won eight times and most of the victories have been achieved in the closing minutes of play.

Football Back to Normal; No Major Upsets

The first November Saturday brought return to normalcy in intercollegiate football. It would be difficult to find a first class upset in major competition, for, while the size of the scores was unusual in several cases, the results followed predictions generally.

Ohio State's victory over Northwestern, 20 to 6, was the nearest approach to the unexpected in the Big Ten. Many had believed Ohio State would win in view of its scoreless tie with Pittsburgh, but its ties with Wisconsin and Indiana and a defeat by Michigan, had convinced others that Northwestern, if not a winner, would be beaten no worse than the week before when Minnesota won by a touchdown.

That was almost true, for Ohio State's third touchdown resulted from a blocked kick. Once again it was demonstrated that Northwestern does not have the necessary line strength.

Rentner Breaks Away.

Pug Rentner got away on his longest run of the season when he dashed 67 yards for Northwestern's touchdown. But here Northwestern's offense virtually ended, fumbles erasing other promising situations.

Michigan's victory over Indiana was expected and it was in line with the Wolverines' record. One touchdown was sufficient, after which Michigan's sturdy and consistent defense stopped the Hoosiers short of the goal and a possible tie.

It has been interesting to watch the conference teams adopt the forward-lateral pass combination. The idea is as old as the forward pass, but it is probable that Southern Methodist brought the play to the attention of the Big Ten. Anyway, in 1930 Southern Methodist used such a play against Notre Dame and while beaten 20 to 14, the Mustangs gave the Irish secondary no end of trouble.

Northwestern has been using the forward-lateral pass for a couple of years. Last year, under Fritz Crisler, Minnesota employed the play.

Badgers, Buckeyes Adopt It.

Wisconsin and Ohio State now have adopted the idea, although each plays it differently. Against Illinois Saturday the Badgers scored their first touchdown on a pass to Schneller, an end, and a lateral pass to Kabat, a guard. Another pass scored in the

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Cardinals could not stop Johnny Blood yesterday afternoon at Wrigley field. Almost without help the black haired veteran led the champion Green Bay Packers to their seventh professional league victory in their march for a fourth consecutive title. The final score was: Green Bay, 19; Cardinals, 9. Official attendance was 8,323.

Twice in the first half Blood grabbed perfectly thrown forward passes from the hand of Arnold Herber for touchdowns. Then in the last quarter, when the Cards had threatened to overcome this lead, Blood took another pass from Verne Lewellen and raced to the Cardinal 5 yard line. From here the Packers counted their third touchdown, Clark Hinkle getting the credit after Hank Bruder had plunged twice for a total of four yards.

Only Team to Score on Packers.

Although they were defeated, the Cardinals, who have been the only team to cross the Packers' goal line this year, repeated the performance yesterday. Tim Moynihan, who played furiously in the center of the Card line, took the ball after Jess Tinsley had blocked a punt with his chest and ran for a touchdown in the second quarter.

Trailing 13 to 7, the Cards had the better of the play during the third period. They completed passes until the rally died when, on third down, Irwin Hill fumbled and the Packers recovered on their 3 yard line. This cut short the threat, but it also provided the setting for the safety which gave the Cards two points on the next play.

Herber went into his end zone to kick. There he momentarily fumbled Barragar's pass from center, and went down under a flurry of red shirts in a vain effort to reach the goal line.

Malloy Plays Quarter.

While the Cardinals were helpless to stop Blood from dashing through the center of their secondary defense, they did better than might have been expected. Simas, the regular quarter back, was unable to play because of injuries, and Les Malloy, with no experience at the position, was assigned to the job. Then, too, Joe Lillard, the Negro back, played under the handicap of an injured ankle. Even so, Lillard did his share in the passing attack which threatened to reach the Packer goal line in the third quarter.

But Johnny Blood was the hero. Johnny has been catching passes many years for the Packers. He has been a substitute half back this season. Johnny was slowing up, the fans said. But yesterday Johnny gave proof of his speed by outrunning his opponents. During part of the game Johnny directed the Packer offense.

Fumble Halts First Drive.

The game started slowly. The Cards were unable to complete their yardage during the first half and the Packers were successful only three times. Bruder's pass to Rose gave Green Bay its first opening when Rose, after running 24 yards, fumbled out of bounds on the Cards' 29 yard line. Bruder fumbled to halt the drive, and the Cards took the ball on their 22 yard line.

A minute later the Packers had the ball in midfield. Herber failed to gain, but Blood went through center on a spinner for five yards. Then Blood, from a wide left wing back position, set sail down the center of the Cards' defense. Herber's throw dropped in his hands at the 10 yard mark and Blood might have walked the remainder of the distance. Harry O'Boyle place kicked the extra point.

Blood Grabs Another.

Again at the start of the second period the Packers threatened, but Hinkle fumbled on the Cardinal three yard line and Moynihan captured the ball.

An exchange of kicks followed. Then Hill of the Cards fumbled and the alert Packers had the ball 18 yards from the goal. Bruder showed a net gain of a yard on two tries. Then Blood galloped down the same path he had followed before and caught Herber's pass as he ran into the scor-

GEESE, BEWARE WINGING WAY TO THE SOUTHLAND

Storms Are No Better than Hunters' Guns.

BY BOB BECKER.

Wild geese traveling south during the storm days of October and November have a big hazard to get by the thousands of hunters in the various states. But when the reports from scores of observers are compiled regarding the peculiar accidents which the migrants suffer while coming southward the list of natural hazards runs from gleaming wet pavements and brilliant lights to the glass roofs of hot houses. Winging their way on a stormy night the big honkers have to chart a blind course. Visibility is poor when the atmosphere is thick, so accidents are numerous.

On such nights our waterbirds may be fooled by a wet pavement glistening under artificial light. It is not uncommon for the birds to swing down to such a pavement, believing it to be water. This year some of the residents of a small town in Canada had no trouble in getting goose dinners without firing a shot when a flock of honkers banged into a wet pavement on a stormy night under the delusion that they had found a refuge from the storm.

Autos, Wires Take Toll.

In the case of ringneck pheasants [nonmigrants] telephone wires and automobiles take a big toll every year. In South Dakota we saw two birds strike telephone wires after they had flushed from a field and headed across a highway along which there were many wires. Last fall we saw a big ringneck cock bang into a wire at full speed. The bird kept going, but he obviously was seriously hurt.

The recent big migration of geese and ducks from the north country [about a week ago] brought down thousands of birds. But it also revived the goose versus brant question. Frank Collins, Morris, Ill., sportsman, called us on the phone to tell us that he had gotten into a flock of "brant" and had bagged four. Then the following day Colin Sanborn, in the department of zoology of the Field Museum of Natural History, brought up the question of brant, blue geese and Canadian geese in northern Illinois and the argument was on.

Brant Uses East Coast.

Briefly the situation regarding these birds is this: The true brant uses the east coast for its migration. It is very rare in the interior. Another species stays along the west coast. Therefore, there isn't much doubt but what the bird known as a brant to many hunters is not a real brant. Having seen blue geese migrating over northern Illinois and knowing that the white fronted goose often is called the brant or prairie brant we have a hunch that the birds which midwestern hunters call brant some day will be assigned to either of these species.

Meantime Mr. Sanborn is doing considerable sleuthing in northern Illinois to see if he can't get close to some of these birds called brant so as to fix the birds in the records.

C. Y. O. TOURNEY SHIFTS TO OUTLYING CENTERS

Preliminary matches in the Catholic Youth Organization boxing tournament for the championship of the Chicago archdiocese will be held in the suburban centers this week, with the Lake county district titles to be decided first at Waukegan.

One of the features on the program is the contest in the heavyweight class, in which Richard Manty of St. Mel's parish, lightweight champion of Camp Grant in 1929 and 1931 runner-up in the Golden Gloves tournament, will box Victor Della Maria of St. Lucy's parish.

BABY RUTHS WIN 2 GAMES WITH 3,142 PIN TOTAL

The Babe Ruths shot a 3142 series in the Classic Bowling league last night and scored two victories over Wass & Schroeder. The double victory sent the Ruths into fifth place.

The Green Rivers won two games from the DeBarry team, Louis Levine of the latter shooting 708 for high for the night. Ben Bernicchi of the Green Rivers totaled 704. The league leaders, the Lorenz Knitting Mills, won two from the tail-end Edelweiss.

SWEETSER AND OUIMET DEFEAT SARAZEN, HAGEN

Glenhead, L. I., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Jess Sweetser and Francis Ouimet defeated Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen, 1 up, in a charity exhibition match at the Women's National Golf and Tennis club here today. Sarazen, who has been on a campaign through the southwest, had an opportunity to square the match on the last green but took three putts.

Red Wings Lose Detroit Hockey Series by Goal

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Red Wings, Detroit's national hockey league entry, won the third and rubber game of the city championship series with the International League Olympics tonight, 3 to 2, but the Olympics won the series on the basis of total points, 12 goals to 11. Tonight's game went into overtime, Buswell breaking the tie after nine minutes of the extra session by slapping home a pass from marker.

Injury in Football Game Proves Fatal to Boy, 16

SMITTY—EVERY KNOCK'S A BOOST

Tennessee and Vanderbilt to Meet Saturday

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Tennessee and Vanderbilt, a pair of resourceful and unbeaten elevens, resume their traditional rivalry at Nashville Saturday in a game that may decide the southern conference football championship.

For four years Tennessee has crushed Vanderbilt, but Vanderbilt, with its best team in many seasons, has high hopes of victory. Tennessee never has won a conference football title.

Tennessee now leads the conference with five victories, while Vanderbilt has four and a tie. Auburn and Louisiana State are the only other unbeaten teams in the conference. Auburn meets Florida Saturday at Montgomery and Louisiana State goes outside the conference to meet Centenary at Shreveport.

Alabama Whips Virginia Poly.

Virginia Poly was toppled from the unbeaten class yesterday by Alabama, 9 to 6. Virginia Poly led at the half on a second period touchdown, but could not withstand the pounding of Alabama's line and backs during the last two periods.

South Carolina's valiant defense almost halted Louisiana State, but the latter slipped over a touchdown pass in the last five minutes to win, 6 to 0.

Tennessee won easily from Mississippi State, 31 to 0, while most of the stars rested for Vanderbilt as the Commodores beat Maryland, 13 to 0. Auburn defeated Howard, 25 to 0. Duke stopped several dangerous Kentucky thrusts and beat the Wildcats, 13 to 4; Don Zimmerman engineered a last period passing barrage to overcome and defeat Georgia Tech, 20 to 14. North Carolina defeated Florida, 13 to 13, and Washington and Lee surprised with a 7 to 0 victory over Virginia for its first triumph.

Lose Intersectional Battles.

Disaster came to all of the six southern teams essaying intersectional challenges. New York university beat Georgia, 13 to 7; Minnesota won from Mississippi, 26 to 0; Catholic university turned back Wake Forest, 14 to 6; Syracuse defeated Oglethorpe, 27 to 6; Penn State whipped Sewanee, 13 to 6, and Colgate won from Mississippi college, 32 to 0.

Clemson defeated Citadel, 13 to 6; Virginia Military lost to William and Mary, 10 to 7, and North Carolina State beat Davidson, 7 to 3.

Mercer eliminated Centre from the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association title race with an 8 to 0 triumph. West Kentucky beat Georgetown, 24 to 0, and Furman turned back Wofford by the same score as these elevens continued unbeaten.

Birmingham-Southern beat Southwestern, 20 to 0; Mississippi Teachers defeated Louisiana college, 12 to 0; Louisiana Tech won from Millsaps, 19 to 14, and Centenary crushed Durant, 44 to 0.

MEMPHIS BURIES MILLS ELEVEN IN MUD, 40 TO 0

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—The Memphis Tigers found a morass of mud to their liking today and buried the Chicago Mills, 40 to 0, in a professional football game. Frosty Peters scored one touchdown, passed to Freddy Getz for another, kicked a field goal from the 32 yard line, and made five successive extra points kicking from placement. Lineup:

Johnny Coulon Postpones Boxing Show Until Friday

Matchmaker Johnny Coulon last night announced that his weekly professional boxing show, scheduled for tomorrow night at the Midway Arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, has been postponed until next Friday.

Danny Neenan, former Golden Gloves boxer, will meet Eddie Chinski of Kankakee in the five round windup Armistice night. Five other bouts and one wrestling match will support the main event.

Culver Seeks Third in Row Over St. John's

Revenge for the two 19 to 0 defeats handed them in the last two years will be St. John's Military academy's goal in its annual game against Culver at Dyche stadium Saturday. Proceeds from the game will be turned over to charity.

Should Culver win, it will be its fourth triumph in the eleven games between the two schools. St. John's two splendid backfields have run down all competition this year.

In the first four games of the year the backs piled up 133 points, an average of over 40 points per game. The opposition, meanwhile, was being limited to a lone touchdown. The games won include Oshkosh Teachers' College Reserves, 51 to 0; Lawrence university freshmen, 45 to 0; Wisconsin School of Mines, 28 to 6; Ripon College Freshmen, 39 to 0; and De Paul College Freshmen, 20 to 0.

Culver, while not such a high scoring eleven, has taken its usual place among the best prep teams in the middle west. Its record thus far includes three victories, two losses, and a tie. It is composed of a 12 to 0 victory over Central High of Evansville, Ind.; 25 to 0 over Brazil, Ind., High school, and 31 to 0 against the Valparaiso university freshmen. Mooseheart academy defeated the Cadets 24 to 7 and a Notre Dame hall team triumphed 28 to 2. A 7 to 7 tie was played with Shattuck Military academy.

State Normal Holds Lead in Little 19

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—State Normal, leader of the Little Nineteen for two weeks, was still at the top today, after last week's games, but a gallant Macomb Normal eleven almost ruined the State homecoming by forcing the leaders to rally to win, 13 to 12. Only Quarter Back Murray's place kick kept Normal from falling from the select group.

Illinois Wesleyan remained close behind in second place by defeating Bradley, previously unbeaten, 6 to 0. It was Wesleyan's second straight victory over Bradley. Wesleyan continues to be the only Little Nineteen team whose goal line has not been crossed by a conference opponent.

McKendree Is Third.

McKendree is in third place, by dint of a 27 to 7 triumph over Elmhurst. It was the fourth consecutive conference upset for Elmhurst.

Shurtleff remained in the upper half of the standings by whipping the Carbondale Teachers, 6 to 0, when Abbott scored on an off-tackle thrust in the third quarter.

Illinois College lost to James Millikin when Joe Rolinatis, Millikin guard, kicked a field goal from the 25 yard line to give his team a 10 to 3 triumph. It was the first field goal in the Little 19 conference this year.

Westray Runs 100 Yards.

St. Viator moved into the .500 per cent class by beating Charleston Normal, 25 to 0. It was St. Viator's first league victory. Westray, St. Viator back, ran 100 yards for one of the touchdowns. Monmouth, 1931 champion, also won its first Little 19 game by conquering Carthage, 33 to 13.

Lake Forest's second Little 19 triumph, halted Wheaton, 7 to 6. In nonconference competition Cornell college of Mount Vernon, Ia., beat Knox, 13 to 7.

Ki Cuyler and Bob Smith Back from Hunting Trip

De Paul, 25; Loyola, 6.
St. Rita, 25; Joliet, 12.
Leo, 19; De La Salle, 12.
St. Ignatius, 31; St. Patrick, 14.
Mount Carmel, 13; Peoria, 0.
St. George, 33; Weber, 0.

De Paul won the north section championship and qualified for the Catholic High School league finals by defeating Loyola, 25 to 6, at Loyola yesterday before 9,000 fans.

Led by its full back, Steinkemper, who averaged five yards on each attempt in the first half, De Paul took an 18 to 6 lead in the first two periods. Steinkemper's plunging made possible the first two scores.

Loyola scored its lone touchdown in the second quarter on a 25 yard pass from McCarthy to Corrigan over the goal line. Helm and Tonnelli scored De Paul's other touchdowns.

Steinkemper was taken from the game early in the second period when it became evident that Loyola could not overcome De Paul's lead. De Paul dominated the play throughout, making eight first downs to Loyola's four.

DICK TRACY—The Toils of the Law

BUT WHY DID YOU WISH TO SEE ME — CHIEF BRANDON?
MISS TRUEHEART, IT'S ABOUT THIS GUN THAT WAS PICKED UP IN THE FLAT WHERE TRACY WAS SHOT.
IT'S THE WEAPON THAT WOUNDED HIM AND IT HAS JUST ONE PERSON'S FINGER-PRINTS ON IT.
AND THAT PERSON?
THAT PERSON IS — THE BOY—JUNIOR!
BUT — CHIEF — IT'S RIDICULOUS! THIS BOY DIDN'T DO ANYTHING. HE WORSHIPS TRACY — HE COULDN'T HAVE FIRED THAT GUN!
I'M SORRY — BUT I CAN'T IGNORE THE EVIDENCE. I'LL HAVE TO HOLD HIM.

CUB PITCHER MARRIES

same quarter, and in the last period a third touchdown was pushed over on line plays for a 20 to 12 victory.

Gil Berry's 87 yard run with Wisconsin's opening kickoff was the day's record in the conference.

Ohio State used the forward-lateral for its first touchdown. Rosequist, a tackle, shifted to right end to receive a pass from Hinchman. Then Rosequist threw laterally to Oliphant, who ran to the goal.

Purdue remains undefeated by virtue of an overwhelming 37 to 0 victory over Chicago, but the Boilermakers were tied by Northwestern, which gives Michigan, undefeated and untied, an advantage. The same situation is likely to exist a week from now, for Michigan faces Chicago this week and Purdue meets Iowa. The last Saturday of the schedule offers more action. Michigan plays at Minnesota, and Indiana meets Purdue.

Iowa Just Misses.

Minnesota has lost one game, to Purdue, and won two conference games. Wisconsin and Michigan remain on its schedule. The Gophers certainly rate on a par with Wisconsin, and they are not far below Michigan in potential strength. Saturday Minnesota whipped Mississippi, 26 to 0.

Iowa showed a startling finish against Nebraska and failed of a tie again the leader of the Big Six by one point, 14 to 13. Nebraska previously had fallen before Minnesota, 7 to 6.

Missouri scored an upset Saturday. The Tigers won their first game by dropping Oklahoma from a tie with Nebraska, 14 to 6. Missouri's victory leaves Iowa State in last place, for the Ames eleven lost to Kansas State on Saturday, 31 to 0.

Kansas Offers Opposition.

The other Big Six university, Kansas, fell before Notre Dame, 24 to 6, but not until it had given the Ramblers considerable trouble. This week the annual Northwestern-Notre Dame contest is on tap at South Bend.

Even if Notre Dame beats Northwestern and the Navy, which lacked one point Saturday of breaking Columbia's undefeated and untied record [7 to 6], the Irish may look with trepidation on their last two opponents. Army and Southern California loom more impressive each week, and they expect to repeat their 1931 victories.

Army, despite its defeat by Pitt, apparently is one of the best teams in the country. Saturday the Cadets gave Harvard its most decisive defeat in modern football, 46 to 0. Only once has a Harvard team been trounced more soundly. Southern California defeated California Saturday, 27 to 7, and while the score was run up by intercepting California's desperate and ineffectual forward passes, the Trojans' blocking on these touchdown runs stood out.

Stanford Beaten Again.

Washington gave Stanford a 18 to 13 licking. St. Marys, which two years ago ruined a Fordham team's perfect record, was beaten Saturday, 14 to 0, at the conclusion of its transcontinental journey.

Pittsburgh continued on its way to a claim for the national championship by beating Pennsylvania, 19 to 12. Penn seems certain to offer Ohio State argument Saturday, when they meet at Columbus. Princeton scored its second victory of the season by swamping Lehigh, 53 to 0. The Tigers, however, have played scoreless ties with Cornell and Navy. Princeton now points for Yale on Saturday, its big game and the last of the season.

Brown continued undefeated by beating Holy Cross, 16 to 7. New York university ended its losing streak by whipping Georgia in intersectional combat, 13 to 7. Colgate also kept intact its record of not losing a game nor having a point scored against it by routing Mississippi college, 32 to 0. Two other southern teams, Sewanee and Oglethorpe, fell before Penn State and Syracuse, respectively.

Tennessee Plows On.

In the Southern conference, Tennessee continued its undefeated pace with an easy victory over Mississippi State, 31 to 0. Duke beat Kentucky, 13 to 0; Alabama dropped Virginia Poly, heretofore undefeated, 9 to 6, and Tulane edged out with a 20 to 14 triumph over Georgia Tech.

Bowen Erases 3 Games Won Under Protest

Bowen High school's victories over Lindblom, Tilden Tech, and Hyde Park will not count in the Chicago Public High School league final standings, Secretary A. H. Pritzlaff announced last night. Bowen used an ineligible player in the three games.

School records from Farmington, Ill., revealed that William Velon, the ineligible player, was 23, three years over the league's limit. Bowen, however, did not know Velon's correct age, since the Chicago records give his age as 19, and has decided to erase the victories from its record.

Bowen last Saturday lost to Englewood, 20 to 0, for the central section championship. The semi-final games for the league title will be played next Saturday.

The sites of the semi-final contests will be determined at a meeting today in the board of education offices. It is believed that the north-south game between Schurz and Morgan Park will be played at Logan Square park, and the west-central contest between Harrison Tech and Englewood at Normal park.

Green Bay's Passes Beat Cards, 19-9

The Cards came back with a touchdown following the kickoff. Hinkle kicked on third down on his own 27 yard line. Jess Tinsley tore in and the ball shot from his chest sideways. Phil Handler of the Cards had first call on the ball, but he was surrounded by Packers and his best was a shove to one side where Moynihan took the ball on the bounce and ran to the goal. Hill place kicked the extra point.

In the third quarter the Cards marched from their own 24 yard line to the Packers' 30 yard mark on passes. But here Holmer's long aerial went into the end zone for a touchback.

Again the Cards attacked. Lillard passed to Chuck Kassell for 22 yards as the third quarter ended. On fourth down, with seven yards needed, Lillard again threw and Hill went to the Packers' 24 yard line. Now Holmer took up the passing burden and it was Rogge who traveled to the Green Bay eight yard line.

Holmer went through center for two yards and Hill followed with three more. On the next play Hill fumbled and Jugger Earpe recovered for Green Bay on the three yard line. Herber's fumble on a kick formation then provided the Cardinals with two points.

Packers Start March.

Evidently the Packers, now leading only by four points, decided they needed another touchdown. Without delay, and with the tired Cardinals offering slight opposition, they marched 75 yards for their score.

Two successive first downs were registered on running plays by Bruder, Blood, and Hinkle, and the Packers reached the Cardinal 37 yard line. From here Blood ran down field for a third long pass of his afternoon's labors. He was brought down on the Cardinal five yard line. Bruder smacked center for two yards, then went outside his right tackle for two more. On the third play Hinkle went through center to the goal line. Hinkle missed the extra point.

The Packers made seven first downs, three on passes. The Cards made the distance eight times, all but two on passes.

SPARTANS, 17; DODGERS, 7.

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—After being checked by two great goal line stands, the Portsmouth Spartans scored ten points in the final quarter today to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 17 to 7, in a National league football game before a crowd of 25,000.

Ace Gutowsky, former Oklahoma back, scored the final touchdown on eight successive plunges. The Dodgers scored first in the opening period, John Karcis going over after a long march down the field. Earl [Dutch] Clark tied it for Portsmouth in the second quarter. Clark later booted a field goal.

Pocket Billiard Tourney to Open Today; 9 Entered

Nine players will compete in a pocket billiard tournament which will open at Bensinger's today. Among the entrants are two who will see action in the world's championship tournament in New York next month. They are Pasquale Natalie of Chicago and Walter Franklin of Kansas City, Mo.

Among the others are Bennie Allen of Kansas City, former world's champion; Major White, Chicago champion; Walter Collingwood, Asheville, N. C.; George Nuss, Atlantic City; Joseph McCann, Detroit; Al. H. Miller of Racine, Wis., and Coy Julian, Springfield, Ill.

The schedule calls for four games daily, two each afternoon and evening, each game for 100 balls. Today's schedule:

1:30 p. m.—White vs. Nuss.
3 p. m.—Natalie vs. Julian.
7:30 p. m.—Collingwood vs. Allen.
9 p. m.—Franklin vs. Miller.

MICHIGAN NEXT FOR CHICAGO—OR IS CHICAGO NEXT?

Stagg Hopes Cripples Will Be Available.

Out of Purdue's frying pan into the fire of Michigan. That's this week's program for Coach Stagg's singed Maroons.

As to the former, there was a note of awe in Stagg's voice yesterday when he described the Boilermakers as "a great offensive team, a wonderful offensive team, the best we have encountered in recent years."

"You know, I was honestly scared of that team's ground gaining ability," the Maroon coach said. "Now that I've seen them, I haven't changed my mind."

As to Michigan, Stagg looks to meeting a team as proficient on defense as Purdue is on attack, so it's sick of one and half a dozen of the other for Chicago.

Fans Have Hunch.

Maroon fans, most of whom were too busy last Saturday admiring the mechanical excellence of Purdue's blockers to commiserate with the home team, have developed a kind of intuitive belief that the Maroons are going to rise up and do things to the Wolverines.

This is based partly on the stirring battles Chicago has made against Michigan in the past two seasons, partly on the hope that Peter Zimmer, ace of the Maroon back field, will again be in action, and partly on a simple hunch.

Zimmer Still a Problem.

Whether Zimmer can play Saturday is still problematical. Walter Manelkis, first string guard, and George Mahoney, reserve half back, are also doubtful. And Hugh Mendenhall, half back who started for the Maroons Saturday for the first time after a lapse of four years, performed brilliantly on three plays, and then was knocked unconscious going up for a pass, was still in Billings hospital last night. His condition is not serious, however, and he is expected to be back in uniform within a few days.

The Maroon invasion of Ann Arbor, the first Chicago game away from the Midway in five weeks, will be the semi-final of the season.

FINDS FAULTS AT MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Michigan's football team must show more speed and determination if it expects to keep on winning, Coach Harry Kipke admitted here today. Kipke said he was pleased with the defensive showing against Indiana Saturday, but he said lack of aggressiveness on offense and sloppy ball handling are faults that will have to be overcome.

The team took some punishment physically, as a consequence of which Pete Petoskey and John Regeczi may have to be kept out of the Stagg day game with Chicago next Saturday. Both suffered aggravations of the injuries they received in the Princeton contest.

Kipke also expressed skepticism about Kowalik's ability to play next Saturday. The bulky guard did not get into the Indiana game. Whitey Wistert, who was badly bruised Saturday, and Stan Fay will both be ready.

SIX BUCKEYES INJURED.

Columbus, O., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—Six Ohio State football players will be unable to appear in uniform for several days because of injuries received in the game with Northwestern Saturday.

Capt. Hinchman, left half back, probably is the most seriously hurt of the group. He received an injury to his kicking leg. Vuchinich, Carroll and Oliphant all suffered leg injuries. Varner and Gallos, guards, received painful bruises which will necessitate their layoff for two days at least.

With the exception of Hinchman all of the regulars will be ready to play in the homecoming game with Pennsylvania here next Saturday. Both Pennsylvania and Ohio State have lost one game this season, the former to Pittsburgh, 19 to 12, and Ohio State to Michigan, 14 to 0.

The game marks the first meeting between football teams of the schools and the first new competition for Ohio State since the Navy series was started in 1930.

ZUPPKE LAUDS PLAYERS.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 6.—[Special.]—The Illini, who returned from Madison today, were praised by Coach Bob Zuppke who declared they played the best possible game against the Badgers and that victory rested on the turn of a hair several times.

Zuppke commended Gil Berry for his 87 yard run which resulted in the first Illinois touchdown, and had good words for the performance of Frank Froschauer, sophomore back, who scored the second touchdown.

"We kept the crowd standing up all through the game, anyway," Zuppke said. "After we were two points behind we had to take some chances which cost us a third score by the Badgers."

Indiana loomed more than ever as a stubborn opponent after a scout's report that the Hoosiers at times had a chance to upset Michigan. The Hoosier passing attack was described as dangerous. The Indiana line is big and Zuppke will work this week on strengthening the Illinois' forward wall to withstand its charges. The Illini encounter with the Hoosiers Saturday is to be the main attraction for the annual Dad's day at Illinois.

Gonzaga Triumphs, 6 to 0, Over San Francisco

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Gonzaga defeated the University of San Francisco, 6 to 0, today on a touchdown in the third period. Krause, Gonzaga full back, took a lateral pass from a teammate on San Francisco's 27 yard line, reversed the field and dashed to the goal.

990,000 voters can't be wrong
CAST YOUR VOTE TO RE-ELECT

Clayton F. Smith

RECORDER OF DEEDS

990,000 voters elected Clayton F. Smith Recorder of Deeds in 1928 on the basis of his previous unblemished record in public office.

Chicago Tribune, October 25, 1928, in an editorial entitled "An Easy Choice" said: "Against any opponent Clayton Smith would be entitled to serious consideration."

Chicago Daily News, 1928, said: "Mr. Smith has served with distinction as a member of the local board of public improvements, as warden of the County Hospital, as city treasurer and as deputy commissioner of public works. He has abundantly proved his ability to administer the important office of Recorder."

Chicago Tribune, 1928, said: "He has a good record as alderman, deputy commissioner of public works and city treasurer."

Chicago Daily News, 1929, in referring to the stand of County Recorder Clayton F. Smith on his proposed adoption of the merit system, said that his position was "remarkable for its good sense and frankness" and that he has given other officials "abundant reasons for joining in his intelligent and public-spirited stand."

Chicago Daily News, 1929, in referring to Mr. Smith's effort to reduce the taxpayer's cost of operating his office, said, "Similar displays of public spirit and good administration have yet to be made and taken to heart by other county officials." Also, "while Smith has been in office he has set an example for other officials."

Chicago Daily News, 1932, said of Mr. Smith that he was "ending his first term as recorder with an excellent record."

Chicago Tribune, 1932, in making its recommendation for the primary, recommended that Clayton F. Smith be voted for "as a reward for capable, hard work which has left his administration free from adverse criticism."

Times like the present place a premium on experience and capability. Clayton F. Smith has been a faithful, trustworthy and efficient public servant in the office of Recorder of Deeds. Sound judgment and the best interests of Cook County taxpayers point to the wisdom of his re-election on Tuesday, November 8th.

GRAIN PRICES MAKE HISTORY IN LAST WEEK

All Except Corn Sell at All Time Lows.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation in breadstuffs all over the world, which has continued for an unusually long period and been especially heavy during the last thirty days, has carried prices down to the lowest levels known. The one exception is corn, which is not far from the low level of 1896.

December wheat in Chicago at the low point was 41⅛c; May, 46⅛c; July, 48⅞c. In Kansas City December wheat touched 37c, and May, 40¾c. In Minneapolis December sold at 43¾c and May 45¾c, while at Winnipeg December touched 45c, and May, 48¾c.

Later in the week the Canadian government pegged the May at 50c. Net losses for the week were small in both Winnipeg and Liverpool. Argentine wheat for December was 43¼c on Saturday, and 39¼c for May, while Argentine wheat was offered in Liverpool at 47½c c.i.f. that port, the lowest price known.

Buying Power Lacking.

These low prices in all markets are partly due to lack of buying power and to low money exchange rates. Exchange is in an unsettled condition in all countries, especially in Great Britain and Canada. There were intimations at the close of the week that Canada and Argentina are both likely to go off the gold standard in the near future, which may further complicate grain sales.

Prices are so low that it does not seem to the majority of leading traders they can go much lower. At the same time there is nothing in the immediate outlook to justify heavy buying in expectation of a sharp advance in the near future. The Argentine and Australian harvests are under way and will progress rapidly in the next two months.

Canada a Free Seller.

An outstanding feature that has exerted a depressing influence in the last few years is the surpluses carried, especially by the United States and Canada. The latter country is selling its wheat as fast as buyers will take it. Its exports in the last week are estimated at 10,000,000 bu, while in the United States sales were 500,000 bu of hard winters. Our exports this year have been about the lightest since we became an important exporter. In the past we exported between 250,000,000 and 350,000,000 bu of flour and wheat a year. At one time the latter figure was exceeded. When wheat was around $3.25 and $3.50 a bu in Chicago in 1919 and 1920 it was difficult to buy, which is the reverse of the situation the last week with prices at 45c to 50c.

Cash Wheat at Premium.

A striking feature in the American markets is that light receipts have quickened buying by millers and elevator interests, who had to pay premiums of ½c to 1¼c over December to obtain any grain. This, it is said, had some influence of a strengthening character at the close, suggesting possible reductions in stocks at terminal markets from now on. At the close wheat prices, as compared with a week ago, were ½c to 1c lower with speculators buying both bids and offers, good thoughout the week, in a liberal way. December wheat in Chicago closed at 43⅛@43½c; May, 43⅝@43⅝c, and July, 49⅝@49½c. Probably this is the first time in the history of the trade that July wheat, which represents 1933 crop, has been obtainable below 50c in November. Prices for the week follow:

Foreign Outlet for Corn.

Indications are that American corn exports are to be liberally increased from now on, provided speculators do not advance prices above a parity with Argentine in foreign markets. It is estimated that export sales of corn by cash handlers were over 1,000,000 bu. This has created a friendly feeling in the corn market and cash corn has advanced to a fair premium over December in the face of liberal receipts.

With immense supplies, however, and expectations of an increase of around 10,000,000 bu or more in government crop estimates, due Thursday, consumption in the country should be heavy, as there has been a large movement of feeder cattle back into the corn belt in the last few months. The close was at net gains of ⅝@⅞c for the week, with December 25@25⅛c, May, 29⅝@29¾c, and July 31½c, all prices being only slightly under the highest of the week. Prices follow:

Small Gains in Oats.

Oat prices, although making new lows with other grains, were well supported and closed ⅝@⅞c higher, December being 15@16⅛c; May, 18¼c, and July, 18½@18⅝c. The country is selling very few oats and receipts have seldom been as small at this season. Prices for the week follow:

Trucks Cut In on Railroad Wheat Traffic

BY PAUL POTTER.

Already faced with demands from producers and distributors of farm products that rates be reduced in transporting the low priced commodities to market, railroads which have always regarded the grain shipments as one field the trucks could not invade have seen even this phase of business opened to highway competition in recent weeks.

The problem is one confronting not only the railroads but the owners and operators of several thousand midwest elevators as well. As long as the prairies have been under cultivation the grain elevators and railroads have had the grain shipping business to themselves.

Trucks Cut In.

Trucks have been feeding the grain from farm to local elevator and from elevator or mill to the live stock grower. They have been feeders to the great two railed arteries of grain commerce. But in the last three months the trucks have tackled even the long hauls in a limited but menacing volume of trading.

Several meetings to discuss this development have been held in midwest states and in Chicago in the last six weeks. Farmers' elevator companies and rail traffic executives are watching the new invasion with considerable concern. For it not only reduces their volume of business, but seems likely to act as a source of supply for lake and river shipments to the east and south seaboards.

"This is a brand new development," declares Lawrence Farlow, secretary of the Farmers' Grain Dealers' association of Illinois. "I was one who thought it would be a long time before trucks would invade this traffic but we are told there have been some new developments along this line."

Haul Here from Indiana.

One of the centers for the new traffic is Star City, Ind. J. C. Phillips, elevator operator of that city, reports loads of 300 to 1,500 bushels each are picked up at the farm and delivered in Chicago. He says trucks had been seeking this business for some time, but found an elevator in Chicago to handle the grain only in mid-August. The elevator is situated on the lake front and has had a good business in trucked-in grain this fall.

Phillips also reports that portable milling outfits are shelling corn on the farm, loading it into trucks that carry it direct to the lake elevator. They are hauling loads at rates in competition with the railroads, based on lake rates to the eastern seaboard. The farmer is saved the cost of hauling to the elevator and in some communities the portable shelling rates are lower than that in the local elevators.

Use Trailers.

In the case at Star City, the trucks make the entire haul of 100 miles from farm to lakefront in Chicago for 8 cents per hundred pounds. Return hauls consist of tankage or other country shipments. In some cases the trucks have a trailer. Where no local scales are available the farmers accept the weight of the grain as recorded at the terminal elevator.

For some time local elevators have been restricting the purchase of truckloads of grain from distant points. There is no reliable means of knowing if such grain is not mortgaged, or has been secured by other than legitimate means. This practice has largely prevented long hauls of grain by trucks at interior country points unless the grain is sold to live stock growers or to elevator owners willing to assume ownership risks.

SHORT INTEREST IN N. Y. STOCKS VARIES LITTLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 6.—The continued decline in bear operations on the New York Stock exchange is reflected in official figures on the weekly fluctuations in the short interest on the exchange during October. The figures showed an increase of 39,053 shares in the short interest from Oct. 3 to Oct. 31, the smallest change for any month since the exchange began to issue these statistics in May, 1931.

The report, which was issued at noon, after the stock market had closed, indicated that the total short interest had fluctuated in a range of less than 87,000 shares during October, compared with a range of 235,000 shares in September, and 473,000 shares in August. On Oct. 31, the total short interest was 1,339,939 shares, against 1,300,886; on Oct. 3, the last day in the exchange's previous report.

From Oct. 3 to Oct. 31, the stock market declined approximately 15 per cent. This decline, in the light of the small increase in the short position, brokers declared, must have resulted from liquidation rather than from bear operations.

The short interest reached the record total of 5,559,700 shares on May 25, 1931, and since has decreased fairly steadily. The lowest figure since the exchange began to issue these statistics in May, 1931, was 1,657,096 shares on Sept. 16, 1932.

October Financing 20 Pct. Over September Offerings

New York, Nov. 6.—October stock and bond financing, according to Standard Statistics company's compilation, amounted to $92,600,000, or 20 percent above September, although somewhat under July and August.

COMPLETE THE FINANCING OF 910 LAWRENCE

BY AL CHASE.

Conveyance of title in the twelve story apartment building at 910 Lawrence avenue, to the Straus National Bank and Trust company, by Kenneth G. Anderson, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee marks the completion of the reorganization of the $450,000 first mortgage bond issue, secured by that uptown property. The building, designed by Huszagh & Hill architects, and financed by Huszagh, Musson & Co., was completed in the fall of 1929. It contains 88 two and one-half room apartments.

FERD KRAMER. [Moffett-Russell Photo.]

Interest defaulted on Sept. 15, 1931, and the bondholders' protective committee called the bonds for deposit. Foreclosure proceedings were instituted, and Ferd Kramer, a member of the committee, was appointed receiver, acting without compensation, thus effecting a substantial saving to the bondholders, according to Mr. Anderson.

"Since his appointment on Oct. 27, 1931, management of the property has been under the direct personal supervision of Mr. Kramer and the occupancy maintained at a 90 per cent average," said Mr. Anderson. "During this time mechanic's lien claims and claims against equipment, totaling over $14,000, have been settled from the earnings of the property. All taxes have been paid to Jan. 1, 1930, as well as the equity of redemption acquired on behalf of the bondholders.

Foreclosure Dismissed.

"As soon as the entire bond issue was deposited with the committee, the foreclosure proceedings were dismissed and the liquidation trust plan of reorganization was adopted. The entire beneficial interest in the ownership of the property is held by the former bondholders, subject only to unpaid taxes from Jan. 1, 1930, and to the unpaid balance of expense of reorganization. The committee is seeking a small mortgage for the purpose of paying all taxes and costs to date."

Mr. Kramer, Henry J. Merle, and George P. Rinn, members of the committee, have been appointed trust managers and will be responsible for the operation, management, and eventual sale of the property. The other members of the committee are James E. MacMurray, Peter B. Kranss, Harry L. Oppenheimer, and Hiram S Cody. D'Ancona, Pflaum & Kohlsaat are counsel for the committee.

Reorganization Pays Its Way.

Reorganization of the Fond du Lac business block and theater, in Fond du Lac, Wis., has been accomplished with funds derived from the operation of the property and without the aid of any other financing, according to the Garard Trust company bondholders' protective committee. After all claims are settled and all expenses and fees are paid a cash balance of approximately $2,500 will be left to the bondholders' credit to be applied on 1932 taxes, it is stated. All other taxes have been paid.

When the receivership terminated there was a cash balance of $22,286. Management since June 2 for the benefit of the bondholders has yielded $9,139. Nearly 95 per cent of the bonds were deposited with the committee. Of the remainder, $14,000 were held by the receiver for the Garard Trust company. Only $1,700 were not deposited. The latter are receiving $34.60 for each $100 bond held.

MODERNIZATION DRIVE PLEDGES ARE $70,875,000

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A. W. Robertson of Pittsburgh, chairman of the committee on industrial rehabilitation which was set up at a White House conference, announces that more than $70,875,000 will be spent for modernization by companies reporting to his group.

At the same time Robertson said the committee's program "will continue indefinitely without regard to the result of the national election next Tuesday or any other political considerations."

The American Telephone and Telegraph company, with a $35,000,000 modernization program, and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, committed to a $20,000,000 outlay for improvements, head the list of reporting companies.

Other large modernization programs reported by Robertson include those of the Pacific Gas and Electric company, $5,000,000 in the next 12 months; Great Southern Lumber company, $1,250,000; Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, $1,260,000; Bogalusa Paper company, Bogalusa, La., $1,500,000; National Steel corporation, $900,000; Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, $200,000; Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, $350,000; Continental Oil company, $780,000.

New York, Nov. 6.—Fourteen steamers with coffee cargoes have cleared from Santos, Brazil, for the United States since the port was reopened after the Sao Paulo revolution. Two boats have arrived with shipments totaling 105,300 bags. The others are bringing 245,000 bags.

MERCHANDISE MART COMPANIES REPORT LAMP BUSINESS GAIN

More than the customary seasonal activity was shown in October in the sales of electrical appliances and household lamps, according to a monthly survey conducted among 623 wholesalers by officials of the Merchandise Mart.

Manufacturers and distributers of all lines of merchandise housed in the huge building reported business as "steady" during October, instead of the anticipated preelection drop. In electrical goods of all kinds, mainly lamps, there was a decided increase, varying from 10 per cent to 60 per cent over the business done in September.

A. W. Meyer, Chicago branch manager of the Mutual-Sunset company, said:

"Although we were disappointed in October in business done in the central states, our business as a whole was 42 per cent better in October than it was in September of this year. An increase of 35 per cent was shown in unit sales in October of this year, as compared with October of 1931."

Mr. Meyer said that his company's factories in the east have hired approximately 250 more men in the last few months. During the month of October the working forces were larger than at any time in the history of the company's business, 22 years.

Another company in the lamp field, J. W. Bakster, Inc., wholesale sales agents for the H. T. Cushman Manufacturing company of North Bennington, Vt., reported their factories operating at full force. Both September and October of 1932 showed a decided increase in business, being 44 per cent better than the same two months in 1931, Mr. Bakster said.

"Resumption of business on a large scale in the textile and shoe factories in New England and the reopening of many factories in all lines in New York state had a great deal to do with business increased in our field this fall," he stated.

Textile firms did not hold during the last half of October the great strength shown in the previous six weeks. Other fields showing decreases included arts and giftwares, hosiery, men's shorts, and haberdishery, and furniture.

PRE-ELECTION DULLNESS RULES IN CURB MARKET

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Dull preelection markets have been the rule on the curb exchange recently. In very quiet trading, prices eased in earlier sessions last week, regaining some of their losses when shorts covered, but showing little vitality on the recovery.

Trading was stagnant. Less than a dozen issues provided most of the turnover and those were largely dealt in by professionals, public interest remaining at a minimum. Early heaviness was apparent chiefly in utility and specialty divisions, for the oils moved narrowly.

Electric Bond and Share common reacted under 20 before the turn came on Friday and the same company's 6 per cent preferred stock lost around half a dozen points. A number of other senior shares also suffered, although more from a thin market than from pressure of liquidation.

Aluminum of America tumbled to a midweek low of 44. New York Steam, Great Atlantic and Pacific and Dow Chemical were also subject to declines. Fisk Rubber issues were among the most active industrials, the preferred easing about 3 points. Woolworth Ltd. reached new high ground for the year, while Stutz Motor had a substantial percentage decline before rallying with the general list.

Australia Offers Loan to Fund Treasury Bills

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Subscription lists of a new 10 year £5,000,000 [roughly $26,400,000] 3¼ per cent commonwealth loan will open tomorrow and remain open until Dec. 5 if the issue is not oversubscribed meanwhile. Half the proceeds will be used to fund treasury bills and the remainder for financing public works to reduce unemployment. The loan is being underwritten by the Commonwealth Bank of Australia and trading banks, and will be sold at par.

Canada and France Start New Trade Pact Discussion

PARIS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Preliminary negotiations have started for a new trade agreement between Canada and France. Discussions were held yesterday by the French ministry of commerce and Philippe Roy, Canadian minister to France, and Charles W. Cahan, secretary of state for external affairs in the Canadian government.

Auto Buying Keeps Steel Output Steady

New York, Nov. 6.—Although miscellaneous demand for steel products tapered off somewhat, it was offset by moderately improved buying by the automobile industry and ingot production was maintained at approximately 20 per cent of capacity during the last week.

Buying of car and repair materials by railroads also developed, and, with rail orders said to be in prospect toward the close of the year, the trade was more optimistic. Tin plate and wire mills were maintaining or expanding activity slightly. Prices held steady. Pig iron was quieter following an October gain in production estimated at 5.3 per cent over September.

Copper Is Quiet.

Copper remained quiet, reflecting partly a disposition to await elections here, a decision by Great Britain on a preferential duty on the metal, and conversations of world producers in the near future with reference to problems of the industry. Electrolytic was still offered at 5¼ cents delivered in the Connecticut valley, but consumers were said to be showing little or no interest.

Tin continued quiet, with prices showing practically no change. The trade was said to be awaiting announcement of new tin plate prices expected in the coming week. Sellers were not pressing, owing to anticipation of better demand in view of maintenance of tin plate production.

Lead More Active.

Moderately active buying of lead was reported at unchanged prices, reflecting some consumer interest in December as well as nearby requirements. Offtake was said to be approximately equal to smelter output.

Zinc was dull owing to absence of consumer inquiries, but smelters showed little or no disposition to press offerings on an unwilling market and prices were unchanged.

Antimony was steadier, advances reflecting firmness of the Chinese market, where a better demand from Europe was reported. Inquiry increased somewhat in the domestic market, but actual business was limited.

Steel Output Gains.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Steel production advanced from 19½ to 21 per cent last week, the first time the rate has crossed the 20 per cent mark since early in June, said Steel today. Schedules for this week indicate another gain of one point.

The improvement, the magazine said in its weekly survey, was largely due to bunching of orders in the Pittsburgh district and the release of automotive requirements to Cleveland and Youngstown mills.

The operating rate in the Pittsburgh district gained two points to 19 per cent, in Cleveland rose seven points to 33½ per cent and in Youngstown was up half a point to 19 per cent. Cleveland mills probably will jump to 38 per cent this week.

"But beyond the current week, producers are not disposed to look," the magazine said. "Actual bookings since Nov. 1 have been strikingly smaller than the average for October, a slump which is in large measure ascribed to uncertainty over the election. The tendency to await the outcome of the election unquestionably has delayed some business."

Greece to Pay Interest if Extension Is Granted

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The new Greek government today informed representatives of Speyer & Co. of New York and the National City bank that it was ready to pay $225,000, representing six months' interest on the loan obtained from the American interests, on condition that Greece receive a further extension of six months in the total advance of $7,500,000. The offer was transmitted to the Greek legation at Washington.

S. S. Kresge October Sales Set High Record of Year

October sales of S. S. Kresge company, totaling $10,505,763, were the largest for any month this year, although they represented a decrease of 15.9 per cent from a year ago. September volume was $9,480,252. The best previous month was March, with an aggregate of $10,383,401.

McCrory Stores Corp. Sales Decline Less in October

McCrory Stores corporation had October sales volume of $3,474,728, a decrease of 10.4 per cent from a year ago. The September decline was 13.3 per cent. Stores in operation Oct. 31 numbered 241, two less than on the same date in 1931.

CHICAGO HOTELS OFFER BUSINESS BRIGHT SPOT AS GUESTS INCREASE

The hotels offered the bright spot in Chicago business circles last week, reporting an unusual increase in guests, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Due to a pre-election uncertainty and hesitation the volume of sales in all lines of merchandise displayed a marked recession over the volume of former weeks. This was particularly noticeable in some of the larger local wholesale houses.

At retail the normal decline for this season was apparent, although the sales of special novelty and featured items continued to hold well. Men's and women's ready to wear also made a good showing. The president of one of the larger department stores reported that as a result of the successful outcome of the company's annual anniversary sale, just concluded, a new campaign is being put under way. This campaign started last week and will extend throughout November. Every department in the store will participate.

Consumers of steel placed numerous fair sized tonnage orders for finished material, but buying in the main was not heavy and in some cases was even sluggish, especially on the part of the railroads which have submitted only scattered orders for rails. The rail mills in Chicago, as a consequence, are practically idle.

With the exception of June, when only 32 permits were issued, building operations in Chicago for the month of October were the smallest of the year, as indicated by the issuance of only 41 permits for that period.

Electric power output went to a new high level last week. This is the seventh consecutive week of improvement in that line.

REPORTS FORD TO MOVE PLANTS TO SEABOARD

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Charlotte Observer says it learned today at the local assembly plant of the Ford Motor company that "within ten days" all Ford assembly work will be centered in six seaport cities and that 26 plants throughout the country will be abandoned.

The story says formal announcement of the plan at Detroit is expected within the next few days. It continues, however, to say that work of dismantling the Charlotte plant preparatory to its removal to Norfolk, Va., has already begun. It also says the Atlanta, Ga., plant is to be moved to Jacksonville, Fla.

The Observer, while not naming its sources of information, quotes them as describing the reorganization as the most drastic in the history of the automobile industry, and one which will involve expenditure of millions of dollars.

W. F. Duckworth, manager of the local plant, refused to comment on the report, but added:

"However, we will have an important announcement to make within the next two weeks."

In Dark on Plan.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Ford Motor company officials who could be reached tonight were unanimous in asserting that they knew nothing of plans for abandoning any of the company's assembly plants or centering operations in seaports cities.

U. S. DISCONTINUES TAX EXEMPTION ON 6X6 LUMBER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Acting Secretary Arthur Ballantine of the treasury tonight instructed customs collectors to discontinue exempting lumber bigger than 6 by 6 inches from iport taxes.

His statement said that heretofore that size had been classed as timber, instead of lumber, but that "protests against that ruling have reached the treasury from domestic lumber interests in the northwest."

Orders to suspend the "timber" classification, he said, were sent to collectors in Seattle, Wash., and all other ports affected.

Briggs Puts 3,000 Workers on Full Six Day Week Basis

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Henry Hund, general manager of the Briggs Manufacturing company, states that more than 3,000 additional employes have been put to work on a full six-day week basis in the company's Mack avenue plant during the last 30 days. "We plan to recall 600 more of our employes this week," he added. The plant now is building 600 automobile bodies daily and expects to increase the schedule to 700 by the middle of next week.

Bonds Totaling $158,013,301 Up to Voters

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 6.—Voters in various states will be asked to pass next Tuesday upon proposals to issue state and municipal bonds in the amount of $158,013,301, compared with $634,766,415 at the 1928 presidential election. Of the total $56,600,000 is for relief. Six states will ask the electorate to approve issues aggregating $126,700,000, of which $50,000,000 is for emergency relief and $40,000,000 for funding of existing indebtedness, so that only $36,700,000 will represent financing for public improvements.

Illinois, fund revenue notes	20,000,000
Nebraska, highways	30,000,000
*New Jersey, relief	20,000,000
New York, unemployment relief	30,000,000
Rhode Island, bridge	6,000,000
Rhode Island, voting machine	700,000

*This amount is to be transferred from highway bonds already authorized, but unissued.

San Francisco, Cal., water department revenue	$5,000,000
St. Louis, Mo., relief	4,600,000
Long Beach, Cal., harbor	3,500,000
Columbus, O., sew. dist. pl.	3,500,000
Salem, Ore., water	2,500,000
King county, Wash., unem. relief	2,000,000
Lexington, Ky., sew. sys. pl.	1,245,000
Bristol, Conn., funding	1,000,000
Cecil county, Md., road	1,000,000

Bond issues approved by voters throughout the country during the first ten months of this year amounted to only $47,017,342, or about 10 per cent of the total for the same period last year. In recent years most new issues voted on have been approved by voters. Last November, however, when $56,222,851 was voted on, only $9,306,351 was approved.

Results of the vote on new bond issues in November for the last six years follow:

Year.	Approved.	Defeated.	Total.

WHAT'S COMING? WALL ST. ASKS AS VOTING NEARS

Chance of Beer Rally Is Discussed.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 6.—One more session and the stock market goes over the top for whatever fate the election may have in store for it. As always, the imminence of the zero hour is a time of no little tension and uncertainty.

Everybody agrees that the market is probably going somewhere after next Tuesday, but where? Will the trend be a resumption of the late summer advance which came to such a disturbing halt when the political campaign began to get under way in earnest early in September? Or will obstacles looming ahead prove too serious and the spectacle of a fresh retreat be witnessed?

Sentiment is Divided.

Wall street speculation on the question seems pretty evenly divided. Ubiquitous soothsayers can marshal impressive argument in favor of either forecast. Foremost among the problems is just how the market would take the Democratic victory foreshadowed by the numerous straw polls which have attained boardroom circulation of late.

It is no secret that majority opinion in Wall street favors the reelection of President Hoover as the surest means of continuing the prosperity revival movement which undoubtedly has been gathering headway in the last few months. But here of late many authorities have been toying with the idea of a "repeal market" should the election go in favor of the Democratic slate. The more the prospect is discussed the more of an antidote to the current misgivings on the score of a change of administrations does it appear.

Chances for Repeal.

Democratic success is generally expected to hasten repeal. Stocks which would be affected by the modification of the Volstead act or the outright repeal of the 18th amendment, the alcohol and bottling stocks in particular, have been showing increasing signs of activity with the approach of the election, and the lengthening of the Roosevelt odds. The possibility is foreseen in some quarters that they might be delegated to lead the market on a new "prosperity" advance, with the bands blaring strains of lighter general taxes and shrinking budget deficits as a result of vast new treasury receipts from beer taxes. The various business enterprises in line to profit most from a change in the nation's prohibition policy have been laying plans for expansion for some time and ardent repealists have been reassuring the street that Uncle Sam could begin to cash in on legalized beer in short order.

Lame Duck Congress.

However, the settlement of the current controversy between Messrs. Hoover and Roosevelt will not usher in a millennium for the market by any means, it is agreed. The "lame duck" congress will waddle into the nation's capital in December and Wall street makes it no doubt the session will be productive of enough logrolling measures bearing on such subjects as taxes, foreign debts, tariff revision, banking, farm relief and what not to keep the business man and investor worried for most of the remainder of the winter.

The prospect gives those inclined to a bullish view of the outlook pause. Moreover, it is pretty generally realized now that business has passed the autumn bulge and that ammunition in the way of encouraging statistics from that source is not going

BUSINESS STEADY DESPITE LOSSES IN COMMODITIES

Trend of Electric Power Held Satisfactory.

New York, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Despite the repressive influence of sagging commodity prices, business activity, as measured by the statistics of the past week, has been well maintained, and further gains have not been lacking.

The seasonal tapering off in various lines, which is expected after October, appeared rather definitely in the movement of revenue freight, as reported for the week ended Oct. 29. This period saw a decline of 24,531 cars from the previous week, reducing the total to 617,542 cars. The seasonal peak, usually reached around the first of October, appears to have been touched in the week ended Oct. 15. The decline for the last week of the month was close to the average recession for that period.

Steel Gains Hold.

The improvement in the steel industry appears to have been carried well into November, and as yet there has been no indication of a seasonal let down in that basic line. Production continues at about 20 per cent of capacity, or around the best level since June.

The trend of electric power production, which is now regarded as one of the principal barometers of business, continues satisfactory. As reported to the latest week, the gain was only about 5,000,000 kilowatt hours, but this was fully up to the seasonal expectation. Dark, stormy weather over much of the country, may have been in part responsible for recent gains in the use of electric current, but at any rate the divergence from 1931 has been reduced to little more than 7 per cent.

Building continues to lag. Contracts let in the states east of the Rockies during October, as reported by F. W. Dodge corporation, showed a drop of 15.7 per cent for September. This is substantially in excess of the usual percentage recession from September to October. Among building materials, shipments of cement have held up better than usual for this season, evidently reflecting highway construction.

Textiles Do Well.

The textile industry continues to hold up well, with cotton and rayon mills running at a good rate. The recent slump in raw cotton has had a dampening effect upon the wholesale cotton goods markets, but a number of mills have contracted for their consumption well into the future. Shoe manufacturing also is well maintained, and preparations are being made for the spring business.

Retail trade has been helped during the past week by cold weather, which has stimulated buying of winter wearing apparel. The gains in retail trade, as described by most reports, have been moderate, but some analysts calculate that they have been better than the usual seasonal pickup. Low inventories continue to rule, and wholesalers continue to receive numerous small orders for immediate delivery.

Two Per Cent Interest.

Financial Editor: I read an article appearing in this morning's TRIBUNE stating that there was a movement on foot to reduce interest on savings accounts from 3 per cent to 2 per cent. Your articles also states that one Chicago bank—namely, the First National bank of Englewood—did reduce the interest rate from 3 per cent to 2 per cent several months ago.

The writer wishes to advise you that during the first half of 1932 the question of reducing rates on savings deposits came up for discussion by the Main State bank, and after a thorough study we decided that the only logical conclusion was that a bank should not pay out more interest than it was able to earn on the money on deposit, this conclusion being not only in the interests of the stockholders but also in the interests of the depositors.

Accordingly, in the first week of June we adopted a resolution reducing the rate of savings interest from 3 per cent to 2 per cent, and this rule was placed in effect as of July 1, 1932.

I might also add that contrary to expectations, savings deposits of the Main State bank increased shortly after the reduction in the interest rate.

Chicago. L. SHIRLEY TARK.

Lower Passenger Fares.

Financial Editor: I read with much interest an article in THE TRIBUNE relating to reduction of railroad fares as a stimulating influence for a larger volume of business. The writer is a traveling salesman who has been on the road for over twenty years and has to make two trips to the Pacific coast each year.

I agree that the present rate of 3.6 cents per mile make it impossible for a traveling man to make an extensive trip with the hope that he will at least come out even.

There recently appeared a series of ads advertising bargain rates to the Pacific coast, but these trips can only be made to Los Angeles and San Francisco or Portland and Seattle. They cleverly saw to it that both California and the northwest could not be made at this bargain rate.

It is well known to the commercial fraternity, who make up a large portion of the traveling public in normal times, when making a trip to the Pacific coast must include all the major towns on the coast in order to make a living, so it is hard to conceive why the railroads should exclude an arrangement by which many traveling men who have been dormant the last year might be induced to again hit the rails.

I think I can see through the move of the railroads in not granting the permission as above stated because it would mean an additional revenue for one large system, but I personally feel that if this railroad would come in with the rest they would do more business by offering the boys on the road an inducement than by keeping up with their rate of $162.92, which is the same rate effective during boom times. Connecticut General Life Insurance.

Will you kindly give me information as to the rating of Connecticut General Life Insurance company of Hartford, Conn.?—Mrs. E. S.

Connecticut General Life Insurance company was incorporated in 1865. It has since had a rapid growth. Insurance in force at the close of 1931 was 1 billion 202 million dollars, against $362,388,000 at the close of 1920, $16,444,000 at the close of 1900, and $5,533,000 at the close of 1870.

Since 1900 dividends to stockholders have been paid only out of profits of the nonparticipating insurance division.

The company is ably and economically managed. The cost of new business is low. Policyholders' surplus is sufficient and the reserve basis is strong. Mortality rate is favorable.

Income in 1931 was $41,698,000 and disbursements, including $2,415,000 to policyholders, were $31,098,000.

On Dec. 31, 1931, admitted assets totaled $254,176,000. Of these 6 per cent was in real estate, 33 per cent in mortgage loans, 14 per cent in policy loans and premium notes, 35 per cent in bonds [amortized values], 6 per cent in stocks [June 30, 1931, values], and 1 per cent in cash.

Net reserves were $123,641,000 and capital, surplus, and investment fluctuations reserve were $8,890,000. Reserve for security depreciation was $1,522,000.

Of the company's $53,529,000 of bonds $1,692,000 were obligations of the United States government, $1,473,000 of lesser governing bodies [states, etc.], $11,091,000 railroads, $38,902,000 public utilities, and $391,000 miscellaneous bonds.

The company has an excellent reputation.

Central Arizona Light and Power.

I would like your opinion regarding Central Arizona Light and Power 5s, due 1960, for an investment. I have a thousand dollars to invest and I intend to be careful.—C. E. D.

Central Arizona Light and Power company is controlled by American Power and Light company and is supervised by Electric Bond and Share company. It supplies electricity to 22,000 customers in Phoenix and six other Arizona communities and gas to 12,000 customers in Phoenix and Tempe, Ariz.

Gross for the twelve months to May 31, 1932, was $2,997,000 and fixed charges were earned 3.11 times.

Gross revenues in 1931 were $3,156,000, against $3,241,000 in 1930 and $2,948,000 in 1929. Charges were earned 3.47 times in 1931, 4.12 times in 1930, and 5.26 times in 1929.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $1,306,000 and current liabilities were $485,000. There were no notes payable.

Life Savings Tied Up.

TO THE EDITOR: In 1926 I made a $4,000 loan on my home for three years. The loan was extended for three years in 1929 and in 1932 an extension was granted for three years with the provision of semi-annual prepayments of $200 each. My husband has been out of work for two years and I am working at various odd jobs to provide necessities for our home. Our life savings are tied up in the Diversey Trust and Savings bank and the former president, who is in the real estate business, handles this loan. We will appreciate your advice.—J. S.

ANSWER: We have written Mr. ——, former president of the bank, regarding your case and will inform you upon receipt of his letter.

RESULT: The reply states in part: "We are at present endeavoring to arrange to have the past due payment waived by the holder and extended to the final maturity date of the mortgage and have no doubt that this will be approved. Both the mortgagee and mortgagor are good, honest people, so we expect no trouble in this connection."

Doesn't Advise Refinancing.

TO THE EDITOR: The writer is the owner of a small home for which he paid $8,000, plus $1,000 for improvements. At the present time I have a balance of $3,500. A first mortgage representing this amount is held by a bank and the arrangement calls for an annual payment on the principal of $200, plus interest twice a year.

Owing to sickness and reduced income I am going to be unable to meet my payment on the first of the year. If I make a loan, it will make my situation worse the following year, as I must then repay the loan and try to lay aside sufficient to meet the next prepayment.

Is there not some place I can go to arrange a long term mortgage on a monthly payment plan? My building is a frame bungalow with creosote shingle sidding, located in a desirable residential section of the northwest side. My mortgage matures January, 1935. Any suggestions you might offer as to a plan of action will be greatly appreciated.—C. M. G.

ANSWER: We suggest you call on the manager of the real estate loan department of the bank mentioned, stating your case and requesting the privilege of waiving the prepayment for six months. As your mortgage matures in 1935, and as refinancing is difficult, I don't think it advisable to refinance.

A large number of mortgage holders have waived payments on principal and this procedure is not unusual. If this plan is not successful we suggest you write the Federal Home Loan Bank of Evanston, Ill.

THE NEW MEXICO LUMBER COMPANY
NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to a Foreclosure Decree (hereinafter called the "Decree") made and entered October 6, 1932, in the District Court of the State of Colorado, within and for the City and County of Denver, in the cause therein pending entitled "The International Trust Company as Trustee, Plaintiff, vs. The New Mexico Lumber Company et al., Defendants," being cause No. 3402 Division V in said court (hereinafter called "This Cause"), I, Elmer W. Johnson, appointed Special Master and being hereunto duly authorized by said Decree, will sell at public auction at the Tremont Street door of the old Court House in the City and County of Denver, State of Colorado, on Monday, November 21, 1932, at 10 o'clock A. M., U. S. Mountain Standard Time, the properties in the Decree described and thereby directed to be sold, to wit:

All of the right, title and interest, both at law and in equity, in and to all of the property, real, personal and mixed, of every kind and nature then owned by the Defendant, The New Mexico Lumber Company, or such as might be acquired after the execution of the First Mortgage Deed of Trust, including merchandise on hand, cut timber, logs and merchantable lumber in finished products of the Company made for sale, materials or supplies for the purpose of manufacture or sale, personal property and goods in the process of manufacture for sale, logs, tools, spare parts, horses, wagons, trucks and automobiles owned by said Defendant, and the following described real property in the County of Montezuma, State of Colorado, to wit:

Tract No. 1:

Beginning at a point where the east and west center line of Section thirty-one (31) in township thirty-eight (38) north, of range fifteen (15) west, N.M.M., intersects the west right of way line of the county road said point being north four degrees eleven minutes (4° 11') west, twenty-six hundred forty-seven (2647) feet from the east quarter corner of said Section thirty-one (31), thence south eighty-seven degrees thirty minutes (87° 30') west four hundred seventy-nine (479) feet, thence south two degrees thirty minutes (2° 30') east nine hundred twenty-one and one tenth (921.1) feet, thence east four hundred seventy-nine (479) feet, more or less, to a point on the said west right of way line of the county road, thence north two degrees thirty minutes (N. 2° 30') west nine hundred twenty-one and one tenth (921.1) feet to the point of beginning, containing ten and thirty hundredths (10.30) acres more or less, being in the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter (NE¼ of the SW¼) of said section thirty-one (31), together with all ditches and water rights belonging thereto.

Tract No. 2:

Beginning at a point on the east right of way line of the county road, which is two hundred thirty degrees two minutes (230° 02') west thirteen hundred seventy-one and six tenths (1371.6) feet from the south quarter corner of section thirty-one (31), in township thirty-eight (38) north of range fifteen (15) west, N.M.M., said point of beginning is corner No. One; thence east seventeen hundred ninety (1790) feet to corner No. Two; thence north two degrees fifteen minutes (2° 15') east eight hundred ten (810) feet to corner No. Three; thence north eight degrees fifteen minutes (8° 15') east one thousand (1000) feet to corner No. Four; thence north thirty-five degrees forty-five minutes (35° 45') west six hundred ninety (690) feet to corner No. Five; thence north thirty-one degrees fifteen minutes (31° 15') west three hundred ten (310) feet to corner No. Six; thence north no degrees twenty-five minutes (0° 25') west two hundred forty-eight (248) feet to corner No. Seven; thence north eighty-two degrees ten minutes (82° 10') west twelve hundred seventy-five and five tenths (1275.5) feet to corner No. Eight; thence south four degrees no minutes (4° 0') west, ten hundred twenty-two (1022) feet to corner No. Nine, a point on the south right of way line of the county road; thence south two degrees thirty minutes (2° 30') east thirteen hundred twenty-one and three tenths (1321.3) feet along said east right of way line of county road to Corner No. One, the point of beginning, containing eighty-six and seventy-five hundredths (86.75) acres, more or less, being in Section thirty-one (31) in township thirty-eight (38) north of range fifteen (15) west N.M.M. and a parcel of land commencing at a point one hundred and thirty (1301) feet west of the southeast (SE) corner of the north half (NW¼) of the southwest quarter (SW¼) of said section thirty-one (31), running thence north three hundred and seventy-eight (378) feet, thence west eighty (80) rods, thence south three hundred and seventy-eight (378) feet, thence east eighty (80) rods to place of beginning, together with all ditches and ditch rights and water and water rights used in connection therewith.

The Northwest Quarter (NW¼) of Section twenty (20) Township Thirty-nine (39) North Range Fourteen (14) West N.M.M.

Also all the right, title and interest of the Company in and to the merchantable standing timber on Sections 4, 5, 6, and 8 in township 38 north of range 14 west N.M.M. in said Montezuma County under that certain timber sale contract dtd. 8, dated November 14, 1904, and referred to and described in Parcel VI in the mortgage dated December 1, 1920 from the Paroza Lumber Company and The Rio Grande Southern Lumber Company to Bankers Trust Company, Trustee, recorded in Book 67 at page 407 of the records in the office of the Recorder of said Montezuma County.

Any and all leases of timber land and leasehold interest now or hereafter owned by the Company except those affecting such land or interest as is situate in Rio Arriba County State of New Mexico, and in Archuleta County State of Colorado.

Also any and all railroads, logging roads and tramways, buildings, improvements, structures, manufacturing and logging plants, saw-mills, boilers, engines, fixtures, machinery, equipment and apparatus now or hereafter existing upon any of the lands, whether freehold or leasehold, now or hereafter subject to this mortgage, and all railroads, logging roads and tramways, buildings, improvements, structures, manufacturing and logging plants, saw-mills, boilers, engines, fixtures, machinery, equipment and apparatus wheresoever situated, now or hereafter owned by the Company, also all easements, rights of way, water rights, privileges and appurtenances used or enjoyed or capable of use and enjoyment in connection with any of the said lands freehold or leasehold now or hereafter subject to this Indenture, whether now owned or hereafter acquired by the Company, with all revenues, earnings, income rents, issues and profits thereof, and all the estate, right, title, interest, claim and demand whatsoever of the said Company, in equity, of the Company, now owned or hereafter acquired, in and to all and singular the property hereinabove mentioned or embraced, and every part and parcel thereof, with the appurtenances, rights and privileges appertaining and hereafter to appertain to any thereof.

Nine hundred and ninety-five (995) shares of the par value of $100 each, of the capital stock of The Colorado and Southwestern Railroad Company.

All of the merchandise on hand, cut timber, logs, merchantable lumber, finished products of the Company made for sale, materials and supplies then owned or thereafter purchased for the purpose of manufacture and sale, personal property and goods in the process of manufacture for sale, loose tools, spare parts, horses, wagons, trucks and automobiles, then owned by said Company, all as more fully shown by an Inventory of the Receiver on file with the Court in this cause, to which reference is hereby made for a more specific description of the properties covered by said First Mortgage Deed of Trust.

For more specific descriptions of the properties to be sold, all persons interested are referred to the description thereof contained in the Decree.

Said sale will be made in the manner provided by the Decree and subject to the terms and provisions thereof. The properties of The New Mexico Lumber Company will be offered for sale only as an entirety, and the highest bid received will be browsionally accepted subject to confirmation by order of Court.

For further provisions with reference to the manner and conditions of sale, intending purchasers are referred to the further provisions of this Notice and to the Decree.

The purchaser or purchasers of the properties and his or their successors and assigns will be required as part of the consideration for, and of the purchase price of the properties purchased out of but not in addition to the amount of the accepted bid, to pay in cash so much of the items hereinafter mentioned as remain unpaid after application thereto of moneys in the hands of the Receiver of The New Mexico Lumber Company and in the hands of The International Trust Company, as trustee under the First Mortgage which is by said Decree foreclosed, to wit:

(a) The costs of this cause and all proper expenses of the sale, including compensation of the attorneys at law herein;

(b) The compensation of the plaintiff for its services as trustee under the First Mortgage and the compensation of its agents, solicitors, attorneys and counsel, and the expenses and disbursements of them, and each of them, as said items have been or shall be allowed by the Court.

As more fully provided in the Decree:

I. The sale will be made without valuation, appraisement or extension, but subject to redemption in accordance with the statutes of the State of Colorado in such case made and provided.

II. In case of any adjournment the sale may, without further notice or advertisement, be held on any day to which the same may have been adjourned.

III. The Trustee under the First Mortgage referred to in the Decree and any holder of obligations issued and outstanding under or secured directly or indirectly by said First Mortgage, or any director of any stockholder of The New Mexico Lumber Company, or any party to this cause, or any other, may bid at the sale, and, if a successful bidder, may purchase in his lit or their own right.

IV. As and to the extent provided in the Decree, the properties will be sold subject to and free of all taxes and assessments lawfully levied or assessed against such properties.

V. No bid will be received for the properties if such bid is less than $46,000.00 and no bid will be received from anyone offering to bid who shall not, at least twenty-four (24) hours prior to the time fixed for offering under the Decree, deposit with the Special Master and deliver to him as a pledge that he will make good his bid in the event of its acceptance, the sum of $10,000.00 in cash, or a certified check for said amount on some bank or trust company acceptable to the Special Master and made or endorsed to his order, or a $10,000.00 principal amount First Mortgage Sinking Fund 5½% Gold Bonds of The New Mexico Lumber Company in bearer form.

Such deposits may be partly in cash and or by certified check and/or partly in such bonds, but shall be in the same relative proportions.

In lieu of such deposit of securities, the Special Master will accept the certificate of any bank or trust company acceptable to the Special Master that it holds, subject to the order of the Special Master, securities of the required character, in bearer form.

Any deposit received from an unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him when the property shall be struck down. The deposit received from the successful bidder or bidders will be applied on account of the purchase price. Any deposit to the extent permitted to the Decree and otherwise in accordance with the provisions thereof the successful bidder may turn over to the Special Master on account of the purchase price at their distributive value, the First Mortgage Sinking Fund 5½% Gold Bonds of The New Mexico Lumber Company entitled to be paid out of the proceeds of sale.

VI. Any successful bidder may assign transfer and set over his bid in whole or in part, and all or any part of his rights and interests under the Decree as such successful bidder.

VII. If the Decree the Court reserves for further adjudication all questions not disposed of by the Decree.

VIII. For a more particular description of the property ordered sold, other properties to be sold, and of the terms of sale, and for all of the provisions of the Decree and other information, intending purchasers are hereby referred to the Decree on file in the office of the Clerk of the Court in Denver Colorado.

Dated October 12th, 1932.
ELMER W. JOHNSON,
Special Master.

The Northwest Quarter (NW¼) of Section twenty (20) Township Thirty-nine (39) North Range Fourteen (14) West N.M.M.

Also all the right, title and interest of the Company in and to the merchantable standing timber on Sections 4, 5, 6, and 8 in township 38 north of range 14 west N.M.M. in said Montezuma County under that certain timber sale contract dtd. 8, dated November 14, 1904, and referred to and described in Parcel VI in the mortgage dated December 1, 1920 from the Paroza Lumber Company and The Rio Grande Southern Lumber Company to Bankers Trust Company, Trustee, recorded in Book 67 at page 407 of the records in the office of the Recorder of said Montezuma County.

Any and all leases of timber land and leasehold interest now or hereafter owned by the Company except those affecting such land or interest as is situate in Rio Arriba County State of New Mexico, and in Archuleta County State of Colorado.

Also any and all railroads, logging roads and tramways, buildings, improvements, structures, manufacturing and logging plants, saw-mills, boilers, engines, fixtures, machinery, equipment and apparatus wheresoever situated, now or hereafter owned by the Company, also all easements, rights of way, water rights, privileges and appurtenances used or enjoyed or capable of use and enjoyment in connection with any of the said lands freehold or leasehold now or hereafter subject to this Indenture, whether now owned or hereafter acquired by the Company, with all revenues, earnings, income rents, issues and profits thereof, and all the estate, right, title, interest, claim and demand whatsoever of the said Company, in equity, of the Company, now owned or hereafter acquired, in and to all and singular the property hereinabove mentioned or embraced, and every part and parcel thereof, with the appurtenances, rights and privileges appertaining and hereafter to appertain to any thereof.

Nine hundred and ninety-five (995) shares of the par value of $100 each, of the capital stock of The Colorado and Southwestern Railroad Company.

All of the merchandise on hand, cut timber, logs, merchantable lumber, finished products of the Company made for sale, materials and supplies then owned or thereafter purchased for the purpose of manufacture and sale personal property and goods in the process of manufacture for sale, loose tools, spare parts, horses, wagons, trucks and automobiles, then owned by said Company, all as more fully shown by an Inventory of the Receiver on file with the Court in this cause, to which reference is hereby made for a more specific description of the properties covered by said First Mortgage Deed of Trust.

For more specific descriptions of the properties to be sold, all persons interested are referred to the description thereof contained in the Decree.

Said sale will be made in the manner provided by the Decree and subject to the terms and provisions thereof. The properties of The New Mexico Lumber Company will be offered for sale only as an entirety, and the highest bid received will be browsionally accepted subject to confirmation by order of Court.

For further provisions with reference to the manner and conditions of sale, intending purchasers are referred to the further provisions of this Notice and to the Decree.

The purchaser or purchasers of the properties and his or their successors and assigns will be required as part of the consideration for, and of the purchase price of the properties purchased out of but not in addition to the amount of the accepted bid, to pay in cash so much of the items hereinafter mentioned as remain unpaid after application thereto of moneys in the hands of the Receiver of The New Mexico Lumber Company and in the hands of The International Trust Company, as trustee under the First Mortgage which is by said Decree foreclosed, to wit:

(a) The costs of this cause and all proper expenses of the sale, including compensation of the attorneys at law herein;

(b) The compensation of the plaintiff for its services as trustee under the First Mortgage and the compensation of its agents, solicitors, attorneys and counsel, and the expenses and disbursements of them, and each of them, as said items have been or shall be allowed by the Court.

As more fully provided in the Decree:

I. The sale will be made without valuation, appraisement or extension, but subject to redemption in accordance with the statutes of the State of Colorado in such case made and provided.

II. In case of any adjournment the sale may, without further notice or advertisement, be held on any day to which the same may have been adjourned.

III. The Trustee under the First Mortgage referred to in the Decree and any holder of obligations issued and outstanding under or secured directly or indirectly by said First Mortgage, or any director of any stockholder of The New Mexico Lumber Company, or any party to this cause, or any other, may bid at the sale, and, if a successful bidder, may purchase in his lit or their own right.

IV. As and to the extent provided in the Decree, the properties will be sold subject to and free of all taxes and assessments lawfully levied or assessed against such properties.

V. No bid will be received for the properties if such bid is less than $46,000.00 and no bid will be received from anyone offering to bid who shall not, at least twenty-four (24) hours prior to the time fixed for offering under the Decree, deposit with the Special Master and deliver to him as a pledge that he will make good his bid in the event of its acceptance, the sum of $10,000.00 in cash, or a certified check for said amount on some bank or trust company acceptable to the Special Master and made or endorsed to his order, or a $10,000.00 principal amount First Mortgage Sinking Fund 5½% Gold Bonds of The New Mexico Lumber Company in bearer form.

Such deposits may be partly in cash and or by certified check and/or partly in such bonds, but shall be in the same relative proportions.

In lieu of such deposit of securities, the Special Master will accept the certificate of any bank or trust company acceptable to the Special Master that it holds, subject to the order of the Special Master, securities of the required character, in bearer form.

Any deposit received from an unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him when the property shall be struck down. The deposit received from the successful bidder or bidders will be applied on account of the purchase price. Any deposit to the extent permitted to the Decree and otherwise in accordance with the provisions thereof the successful bidder may turn over to the Special Master on account of the purchase price at their distributive value, the First Mortgage Sinking Fund 5½% Gold Bonds of The New Mexico Lumber Company entitled to be paid out of the proceeds of sale.

VI. Any successful bidder may assign transfer and set over his bid in whole or in part, and all or any part of his rights and interests under the Decree as such successful bidder.

VII. If the Decree the Court reserves for further adjudication all questions not disposed of by the Decree.

VIII. For a more particular description of the property ordered sold, other properties to be sold, and of the terms of sale, and for all of the provisions of the Decree and other information, intending purchasers are hereby referred to the Decree on file in the office of the Clerk of the Court in Denver Colorado.

Dated October 12th, 1932.
ELMER W. JOHNSON,
Special Master.
